DIPLOMACY WINS FOR POSTAL BANK

Regulars and Insurgents on House Committee Agree Upon a Measure Approved by Taft.

PETITION FOR A CAUCUS.

Treasury Experts Point Out Vital Defects in the Savings Bill Passed by the Senate.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—Diplomacy has won the day in the house of representatives in connection with the postal savings bank bill.

The regular and insurgent members of the committee on postoffices and postroads have united upon a bill dealing with this subject which has the approval of President Taft. A petition for a Republican caucus is in circulation, and as soon as fifty signatures are obtained a conference of all members of the dominant party will be held.

A resolution will be presented for adoption binding the men attending the caucus to support the postal bill, and it will be pushed through the house without delay.

The committee bill differs radically in certain features from the measure passed by the senate. The administration regards the latter as a dangerous project, and if it were to be approved by the house and presented to the president he undoubtedly would veto it. The house bill, on the other hand, is described by its advocates as a safe, sound, conservative banking scheme which will make postal savings banks the allies and not the destroyers of the national credit.

Important Features in Bill.

The important features provide:

For the maintenance of a sufficient gold reserve in the United States treasury amounting to 5 per cent of the deposits made.

The remaining 95 per cent of the deposits will be divided in half. One portion, or 47½ per cent, will be placed in local state and national banks, which must protect the government by depositing high grade securities with the secretary of the treasury.

The other 47½ per cent must be invested by a board of trustees, organized under the provisions of the law, in securities of the best class—United States government bonds wherever possible, and when they are not available, bonds of other taxing bodies, such as states, counties, municipalities, etc.

The deposits will pass from the postmasters to the trustees through the local banks, thus avoiding any disturbance of local banking conditions through the deposit of large sums in local postoffices.

Senate Bill Ignores Reserve.

The senate bill has no provision for a reserve of any kind, which, in the opinion of treasury experts, is a fatal defect. No banking institution, it is contended, should take deposits without a reserve; and certainly the government should not do so, when the deposits are made subject to demand. To use a homely expression, it is like going to sea without a compass.

The objection raised to the proposed reserve is that it will not earn interest. But it is insisted that a cash reserve must be kept on hand to meet demands. A man must carry a certain amount of loose change in his pocket to pay his street car fare or other incidentals, and the government must have cash ready to pay out the moment a depositor checks against his account.

The administration also takes exception to that feature of the senate bill requiring the redeposit of all the people's savings in national and state banks. But the government exercises no control over state banks and should not be compelled to take the responsibility without adequate guarantee against loss.

Provision for Security.

The senate bill recognizes that the government must be secured by the banks receiving deposits, and permits the government to accept personal or corporate paper therefor. The house bill, on the other hand, requires the institutions to secure deposits with the same class of high class securities now turned over to the secretary of the treasury by the national banks obtaining government deposits.

Under the senate bill deposits must be left in the banks unless war or some other exigency involving the government necessitates its withdrawal. It is contended this is unfair to the banks, since withdrawals only could occur in a situation when the banks would want every dollar they could command.

Moreover, the senate bill fails to prescribe a limit of the deposits any one bank could receive and it would be possible for an institution to have an amount on hand double its capital and surplus.

Bond Interest at Issue.

The house bill authorizes the board of trustees to use the money turned into the treasury for the purchase of government bonds, whatever the rate of interest they may draw. Under the senate bill, it is provided no funds shall be invested in government bonds paying less than 2¼ per cent interest. The effect of this provision is to discriminate against $700,000,000 of government securities, bearing 2 per cent interest.

As a matter of fact, it is contended the board of trustees would be unlikely to invest in these bonds when 2 per cent interest must be paid to the depositors; but it is asked if the government does not approve of its own securities, what is the view apt to be taken by the outside investor? Suppose the 2 per cents were to go to 90. Treasury experts say under such circumstances the board of trustees certainly would be justified in purchasing some of them.

Distribution of the Debt.

The house bill provides whenever the government has any bonds outstanding, such, for instance, as the $63,000,000 3 per cents, the board of trustees may purchase them and reissue a $24, $72, or $100 bond paying 2¼ per cent, thus distributing the national debt among individuals throughout the country.

With the house bill enacted, the administration claims the United States would be in an impregnable position financially. A safe, convenient place is provided for the savings of a foreigner who does not understand national or state banks and for the man who hoards his cash. More money will be in circulation, which will be in the interest of business.

CITY'S SOUTH END CRY 'PURE WATER'

Demand for a Canal at Once to Protect Half a Million People in Danger of an Epidemic.

INDIANA TOWNS JOIN IN.

Kenwood, Hyde Park, and Woodlawn Residents Also Menaced by the Delay in Sanitary Ditch.

Citizens of South Chicago and the whole populous district at the southern end of Chicago were stirred yesterday by the peril of water pollution. A tremendous sentiment has been aroused for an auxiliary drainage system which would free them from the fear of typhoid or other epidemics.

Whatever political pressure—national or local—is necessary was promised to transform a section populated by half a million persons into as healthy a region as the north shore. The business men who had been quiescent for years awoke to the possibility that the demand of nearly a quarter of a centur yis likely to be realized, and the various commercial bodies now will redouble their efforts.

It is likely an appeal will be made to Congressman James R. Mann, who represents the region, for aid in the matter.

"This latest agitation," said G. W. Bolling, a South Chicago publisher, "may make the mass of the residents of such districts as Hyde Park, Woodlawn, and Kenwood realize that they are endangered as much as we are. All these sections, in addition to ourselves, the towns of Lake and Pullman and West Pullman, are fed from the one crib at Sixty-eighth street. Hence all the residents north of Eighty-seventh street have been paying taxes all these years without receiving any sanitary benefits whatever.

Paying Taxes; No Results.

"Half of the 500,000 persons involved in this matter have been paying taxes for twenty years to protect Evanston and the loop district," said he, "while they let us perish of typhoid. For seven years we who live south of Eighty-seventh street have paid taxes on this canal that has not been started. Last year it was 29 cents on each $100 assessed valuation.

"Whenever there is a storm on the lake there is a wash in the Calumet river of from three to six feet, and when it recedes it takes everything with it. On the river lies a chemical plant which has destroyed every vestige of vegetation for a large area, corroded the city bridges and taken the paint off everything. But all this poisonous refuse goes into the river, is washed into the lake and straight to the crib which gives us our water supply.

"I was told by Ira M. Cobe that $15,000,000 is to be spent in the rehabilitation of the South Chicago and contiguous surface lines because insurance actuaries have announced that according to present rates of increase there would be 1,000,000 residing south of Sixty-third street in five years. They are building to meet this doubling of population."

Indiana Cities Are Menaced.

Northern Indiana cities which dump their sewage into the Great and Little Calumet rivers fear Indiana may sue them and are anxious to work in harmony with Chicago. For this reason the next session of the Indiana legislature will probably consider the establishment of a drainage commission similar to that of Illinois. It is figured that 60,000 persons in northern Indiana are affected by the contaminating of Lake Michigan water, but, as Mayor Lawrence Becker of Hammond said:

"It is useless for us to attempt anything while Chicago continues to pollute the water. Where we sin once, Chicago sins ninety-nine times."

"The disposal of sewage is the most important question in northern Indiana today," said Dr. W. D. Weis, secretary of the Hammond board of health. "Naturally, the dangerous conditions increase with the population. Illinois already has congress' permission to divert 10,000 cubic feet of water to the Grand Calumet river, and this should answer all demands until 1940, when there will probably be 2,000,000 population to care for and greater facilities will be necessary."

Favored by Health Officers.

Dr. T. W. Oberlin, secretary of the Lake county board of health, said the canal would be an inestimable boon to the cities of northern Indiana.

"The proposed channel is the best solution of this pertinent question," said Dr. A. J. Lauer, Whiting, of the Lake Michigan Sanitary Water commission, "and there are no physical obstacles."

Mayor Thomas Knotts of Gary claimed for his city a perfect water supply.

"Our crib is one mile from shore, and forty feet beneath the lake surface," said he, "and we have never had contagion. Our death rate has been about twenty monthly for the 15,000 population, chiefly from accidents in the mills. When our population reaches 25,000, we will need a water plant and filtration beds."

The American Sheet & Tin Plate company, which is building its plant on the lake front, recently laid a sewer directly into the lake, but Mayor Knotts has forbidden its use, and it will be torn out.

Would Head Off Epidemic.

President R. R. McCormick of the drainage board is out of the city, but Trustee Wal- G. Clark said:

"We believe we can utilize the flood waters of the Little Calumet river, amounting to 715 cubic feet a second, and during the work of construction, which would be several years, we may secure further power from the government. We may be overwhelmed with an epidemic any time, and it is time we did something.

"The proposed canal has not been entirely planned as yet. From the Sag to Blue Island, about fifteen miles, would mean an expenditure of $8,500,000. The remainder of the twenty-eight miles has not been estimated, as several methods of handling the problem have been suggested."

One South Chicago suggestion was that the flow through the Chicago river was already too strong and that half the flow could be diverted through the Calumet, silencing all government objections. The army engineer was opposed to this, Mr. Clark said, but another government official favored it.

President Thomas M. Tobin of the South Chicago Business Men's association said that body had agitated the necessity of a sanitary canal for many years, but had been told its attainment depended upon the drainage board's suit and dropped it in despair.

PHONE REPORT HIDES TRUTH?

Aldermen Don't Like Figures Used to Seek Rate Increase.

WILL CHECK UP ON EXPERTS.

Committee Defers Consideration to Study Data.

Dissatisfaction with the report of the city's experts on the cost of the service furnished by the Chicago Telephone company, on the strength of which the company is beginning a campaign for an increase of rates, was expressed yesterday by members of the council committee on gas, oil, and electric light.

That is the committee which will have jurisdiction of the rate revision question before it goes to the council, and it was understood by those present at its first meeting on the subject that not only will a check be made of the report now before it but that a majority of the committee probably will insist on an entirely new study of the telephone company's finances, including an inventory and appraisal of all its property.

Ald. Charles E. Merriam, William E. Dever, and W. J. Pringle, chairman of the committee, showed that they did not consider the report of Arthur Young & Co., accountants, and D. C. and W. B. Jackson, engineers, to City Controller Wilson a satisfactory basis upon which to predicate accurate estimates of the cost of telephone service.

Want Time to Study Report.

Copies of this report were placed in the hands of the aldermen after the meeting was called to order, so it was deemed advisable to postpone consideration of its contents until the figures had been studied. The committee will consider the subject further next Thursday. After B. E. Sunny, president, and A. S. Hibbard, general manager left the room, some of the aldermen began talking informally about the report.

"Who are these experts? Who hired them? Do they represent this committee?" asked Ald. Dever.

"They were hired by the controller, and they are the experts who made a study of the situation prior to the passage of the present franchise," said Chairman Pringle. "I may say in explanation that soon after they began this work they were told that the city had only $2,500 for the work, and they stated that that amount would not pay the cost of their employés for a thorough investigation."

"Then this is not a complete report on the situation?" asked Ald. Merriam.

"The chief weakness to my mind," said the chairman, "is that they took the book values of the company for their valuations of its property."

"I think one of the first things we should do, is to employ an expert to check this report," suggested Ald. Merriam.

"I think we should have several experts before we go far," said Chairman Pringle.

Statements That Are Questioned.

Among the statements of the experts' report to which aldermen pointed a questioning finger were these:

"To determine the value of the plant as represented by the schedules, careful estimate of the costs of the plant were made, based on the telephone company's construction costs as shown by their books, and these costs were checked so far as practicable by cost figures obtained from our own experience.

"In the case of land and buildings we have taken the figures found on the books of the telephone company to represent their value.

"For the classes who pay a fixed annual rental regardless of their traffic, such as the business and residence flat rate classes and the commuted rate of class service paying $365 a year for an unlimited service circuit associated with a private branch exchange switchboard observations were taken by a corps of men furnished by the telephone company under our direction."

Controller Wilson said he engaged the experts employed by the former council committee which drafted the present franchise.

According to a course of nature study mapped out by committees of school principals and district superintendents appointed by Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools, domestic menageries are to be provided for children in the public school kindergartens.

Among the animals to be studied are kittens, puppies, pigeons, chickens, rabbits, squirrels, guinea pigs, Japanese mice, white rats, fish, tadpoles, salamanders, turtles, toads, frogs, birds, and various insects.

In the second grade the feeding of caterpillars and the study of the habits and care of crickets and spiders may be introduced.

STUDY FLYING AT ARMOUR TECH

Regular Course in Aeronautics, Kept Secret for Months, Announced by Dean Raymond.

For three months a score of students at Armour Institute of Technology have been experimenting in aeronautics, and one of the seniors, M. A. Smith, a Chicago boy, is preparing a commencement thesis on the subject of "Stresses in Aeroplane Framework."

The course in flying was kept secret until yesterday, when Dean Howard M. Raymond told the plans.

"We have not made public the new course," he said, "because we wished a few months to work it out. The experiment has been so satisfactory that Dr. Gunsaulus and the faculty are enthusiastic. We expect to have the students build machines from designs of different inventors, and I think there will be forty or fifty in the course next year."

DEATH LURKS IN PUBLIC CUP

Clubwomen and School Board Awake to the Peril.

ILLINOISAN IS A VICTIM.

Dies of Disease Contracted from Drinking on a Train.

The perils of the public drinking cup, which are being recognized more clearly in the United States month by month, were emphasized yesterday in the announcement of the death of an Illinois woman from an illness contracted from this common carrier of disease.

An agitation for the suppression of the cup used promiscuously in drinking in public places, such as railway coaches, was started in Cincinnati yesterday in the meeting of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs. And the Chicago board of education at the same time started out to remedy this menace to the school pupils here.

Watseka Woman Is Victim.

The woman whose shocking death gave point to this crusade was Mrs. Olive Peters of Watseka, Ill. She died yesterday from a malignant blood disease, contracted while she was traveling on a train to Omaha, Neb., last fall.

On her arrival in Omaha infection developed in her mouth and spread to her throat and lungs. Inquiry by the physicians attending developed that she had used the common drinking cup on the train and could have received the infection from no other source.

She was taken back and lingered several months, dying at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Garfield, on a farm southeast of town. The last days of her illness were attended with great suffering.

Start of the Agitation.

The start of the agitation in the powerful Federation of Woman's Clubs arose from an address delivered in the session last evening in Cincinnati by Prof. Alvin Davidson of Lafayette college, Pennsylvania. His topic was "The Relation of the Public Drinking Cup to Health." Mr. Davidson called the public drinking cup a "public menace" and "a disseminator of disease."

The address pointed out the necessity of nation-wide activity against this evil of the drinking cup; cited cases of death from its public use, and painted in a graphic manner the horrors that arise from it. The speech came just after the president, Mrs. Philip N. Moore, had made her report recommending that an endowment fund be established and that a department of public health be established with the view of broadening the scope of club work.

School Board Is Aroused.

At a meeting of the Chicago school management committee the peril of the common drinking cup was discussed and a decision was reached which, it is hoped, will do away with the dangers involved in its use in and about the city schools. The remedy agreed on is "bubbling" drinking cups, by which the danger of contagion and disease germs is said to be averted.

Such sanitary cups will be installed in all the public schools as soon as possible. At present fifteen schools out of 279 have sanitary drinking fountains equipped with "bubbling" cups.

This was decided on after Dean Walter T. Sumner, who is a school trustee, had reported on the use of sanitary cups in New York City, Brooklyn, Boston, and Rochester, N. Y. The matter was referred to the chief engineer, with instructions that he make a report as to the best kind of cups obtainable. He is expected to invent a cup cheaper than those on the market but not conflicting with their patents. Dean Sumner said that many of the present separate drinking cups used in the schools are rusted.

It was a case at Lawrence, Kas., similar to that announced yesterday in Watseka that induced the Kansas state authorities a year ago to prohibit public drinking cups on trains. Now paper cups are sold for individual use for a nominal price, or the passengers on Kansas trains carry their own cups, or they do not drink.

ADMITS LORIMER SOUGHT HIS VOTE

Representative Black Tells Story Like Link's in Some of Its Details.

WILSON A PEORIA GUEST.

Thomas N. Gorman Entertained Jackpot Statesman; Asks "What if I Did?" Denies Bribe.

REPUBLICANS BEFORE THE JURY.

"William Lorimer asked me to vote for him for United States senator, and I did."

"Were you promised or did you receive $1,000 or other sum in return for your vote on the senatorship?"

"No."

This was the answer made yesterday afternoon by State Representative Charles F. Black of Peoria county to State's Attorney Wayman in the grand jury investigation of legislative bribery.

His reply was in duplicate of that made by Representative Link in yesterday's published excerpt from his confession, except that Black did not admit that he was paid $1,000, or any sum later for his vote. In other respects the similarity is striking.

First Republican to Testify.

Mr. Black voted for A. J. Hopkins during most of the session. Later he switched to L. Y. Sherman, but on the decisive ballot he cast his vote for Lorimer. The Peorian was the first Republican legislator to be summoned as a witness before the grand jury and interrogated as to his vote for Lorimer and the "jackpot," but there were rumors of others to follow.

One of these may be Representative Lucas I. Butts of Peoria, who conducted Mr. Black to Lorimer's room in the hotel.

Two other legislators from Peoria also had been subpœnaed and were in attendance, although one of them, Senator John Dailey, was excused after he had made a statement to the state's attorney. He also is a Republican and was summoned partly because of a bitter speech at Springfield in which he scored the "unholy bipartisan alliance" that resulted in the election of Lorimer.

Says Wilson Visited Gorman.

Senator Dailey told Mr. Wayman that, while he had no doubt money was used to corrupt the legislature, he had no first-hand evidence. In another direction, however, he opened up an interesting line of inquiry by mentioning a visit paid Representative Thomas N. Gorman of Peoria about a month ago by Representative Robert E. Wilson of Chicago, named in the confessions of Legislators White, Beckemeyer, and Link as the man who paid each his $900 share of the jackpot at the Southern hotel in St. Louis.

Mr. Gorman, the third Peorian of the day subpœnaed, frankly admitted to the grand jurors that Wilson had visited him and narrated how he had escorted the Chicago legislator to the Elks' clubrooms and elsewhere.

"Why should I deny it?" Mr. Gorman asked. "It was stated in our local papers at the time. Also, I would not deny that money may have been used to influence legislation at Springfield."

Denies Getting Money for Vote.

However, Mr. Gorman denied that he had received money for his Lorimer vote, and he announced his intention of seeking reëlection.

"A nice, decent, honest fellow," was Mr. Gorman's description of Representative Beckemeyer. "He sat right behind me in the house and I became well acquainted with him."

Frank J. Quinn, Democratic politician, was the fourth Peorian who came to the Criminal court building, but he had not been subpœnaed. He said he "happened" to be in the city, having come up on the same train as Representative Black. His chief anxiety, however, was to see Representative Gorman before the latter testified. Mr. Quinn, according to Mr. Gorman, was one of the "prominent Democrats" who urged the legislator to vote for Lorimer.

Tells of His Testimony.

When Mr. Gorman emerged from the grand jury room he said:

"Yes, they asked me how much I got for voting for Lorimer and I told them the truth—'not a cent.' They asked me about the jackpot, too, and I couldn't help the grand jury out any there, either. I say now that I did vote for Lorimer and Speaker Shurtleff, too—that's my record, and I am running on it for another term and expect to be elected. No one in Peoria has had anything to say about me voting for Lorimer."

"Why did you vote for Lorimer?" he was asked.

"I'll tell you—to break the deadlock. As to who asked me to, I might say the Democrats did. Some of them in Peoria and others in Springfield. I told the grand jury something about this graft talk, too. I said that in the minds of a lot of people as soon as a legislator rolls down the top of his desk in the morning he reaches in and gets a fat roll of money that has been left there for him. That isn't true. I never have discovered any roll of that sort. It was a struggle for me to pay my expenses at Springfield.

Belittle the Wilson Visit.

"O, yes; I was asked about a visit 'Bob' Wilson made to Peoria several weeks ago. They thought I would be fool enough to deny I had seen him. I didn't, because I was with him and his visit was no secret. For a Democratic legislator to come to Peoria is nothing wonderful."

"Did the grand jurors ask you anything about Link or White?" he was asked.

"No, but I would have told them about White, all right, and it would not have been the same story I told about Beckemeyer. My opinion of White couldn't be told in that sort of language. He used to be a labor union lobbyist, but when the employers' liability bill was up before the house—a measure he should have been interested in—he wasn't there. That is the sort of a fellow he is."

Gorman and Black met White just as they left the Criminal court building. After White had passed, Gorman called to him:

"Hello there, White; how are you, old fellow?"

White, who was with Detective Murnane of the state's attorney's office, looked around but said nothing to the two men.

Black's Vote for Lorimer.

Representative Black left the grand jury rooms wearing the same unperturbed demeanor he had when he entered. He was not as talkative as his colleague from the Peoria district, but was willing to explain how he came to vote for Lorimer and to deny that he had shared either in a senatorial fund or a jackpot. He said he talked to Senator Lorimer personally about voting for him and it was in the presence of Representative Lucas I. Butts of Peoria.

"Mr. Lorimer, in his room in the St. Nicholas, asked me if I could vote for him for senator," he said, "and I told him I might. That was ten days before the election and Lorimer had not yet launched his campaign. That was all he ever said to me and I never got a cent for my vote."

"How did you come to vote for him on the day he was elected?"

"Well, I heard several of the boys—eight or ten of them—say on the morning of the election that this was the day to vote for Lorimer, so I did. I had been for Hopkins at first and later had been voting for Sherman."

Wheelan Still in Chicago.

Representative Henry L. Wheelan of Rock Island, whose friends have been under grand jury fire for three days in an effort to determine the reasons for his financial prosperity following the session in which Lorimer was elected senator, divided with the Peorians the attention of the investigators. Following adjournment for the day, there was a report that the inquiry had finished with Mr. Wheelan, except that he will have one more chance to testify.

Since he testified early in the week, Mr. Wheelan has remained in Chicago under a continuing subpœna. It was learned yesterday that he has been ill ever since he left the grand jury room. Detectives from Mr. Wayman's office have been guarding him in relays, but information as to his rooming place was denied. His fellow witnesses and townsmen have not seen him.

Say They Lent Him $1,000.

Two witnesses, Attorney J. K. Scott and Thomas Cox, both of Rock Island, shed light on loans for a total of $1,000 to Legislator Wheelan. Cox testified he had given Wheelan $300 in return for a note and Scott said he had loaned Wheelan $700 on another promissory note. The anxiety of the grand jurors has been to determine whether these notes were "dated back"; also whether checks or other evidence of the alleged transactions existed.

No checks for the amounts said to have been lent the legislator by Scott and Cox have been produced. According to the statements of the two men, they had carried the $300 and the $700 about in their clothes for some time previous to the date the loans were made. Scott was at a loss to explain just how he came to have five $100 bills, as he testified. He said he did not remember having any large fees about that time and supposed he must have had smaller bills changed some place, but did not know where.

Cox until a year ago was a city detective in Rock Island. He said that while in the employ of the city he occasionally had received "legitimate" presents. One of these was a present of $50 for recovering a valuable fur coat. He said the thief never was convicted.

Saved the Remaining $900?

The purchase of a house for $1,900 by Wheelan was a subject of inquiry. The alleged notes to Scott and Cox would explain $1,000 of this transaction, which was said to have been for cash, although the consideration named in the deed was $85. As to the balance of $900 (which happens to be the same amount White, Beckemeyer, and Link said they received out of the jackpot) Wheelan is said to have told the jurors he saved it out of his salary as a member of the legislature.

Both Scott and Cox are associates of Wheelan in the newly organized $300,000 Boos Motor company, whose specialty is the manufacture of ventilator fans operated by a spring. Wheelan is president, Scott is secretary, and Cox is a director.

Scott and Cox were informed they would not be needed further as witnesses.

Shephard Testifies at Last.

Representative Henry A. Shephard of Jerseyville finally was allowed to testify late in the afternoon. During the day his attorney, Thomas Dawson, threatened to go before Judge Kersten and seek his client's release. Dawson said it was a shame to keep a witness waiting three days to appear before a grand jury.

Shephard, it is said, had little to add to his former testimony, and he refused to talk of it. He may be called again later as a witness.

Representative Blair Reported Ill.

Representative W. C. Blair, according to a dispatch received last evening from Mount Vernon, his home, is seriously ill and may not be able to testify before either of the grand juries for a week. The Mount Vernon legislator, who was in Chicago last week as a witness, is said to have been injured in a street car accident, and he has been confined to his house since under the care of a physician. It was reported yesterday he was found to have suffered internal injuries which might not allow him to leave his residence for some days.

PRESIDENT HADLEY REGARDS INQUIRY AS A HOPEFUL SIGN.

Yale University Head Says When Seats in Senate Are Bought It's Time to Call a Halt.

"When the seats of the United States senate are bought it is time to cry a halt. There always have been charges of graft and corruption in minor offices as long as I can remember, and probably a good deal longer, but there are few cases of the purchase of seats in the United States senate."

In such terms President Arthur T. Hadley of Yale university, who passed through Chicago last evening on his way to the golden jubilee celebration at the University of California, denounced corruption in the senate and praised the work of investigation.

"I am in general a confirmed optimist," he continued, "and I know that present conditions in New York are not so bad as in the days of Boss Tweed, and I was told then that those conditions were mild as compared with those of former years. I think everything is getting better, and the present demand for investigation into Mr. Lorimer's election is a hopeful sign.

"Give the administration a chance. It was a constant desire to follow the will of the public that defeated so many of our armies in the civil war. The public has nothing to do with the policy of the army, the navy, the diplomatic corps. These are problems for experts, and the public should confine itself to problems of social order."

President Hadley is to return through Chicago on May 27 on his way to a Yale dinner in Detroit.

BURKE ON SEARCH FOR MISSING LINK

Sangamon Prosecutor Opens Inquiry by Vain Trip to Legislator's Home.

SAYS HE SEES A "PLOT."

St. Louis Official Thinks No Crime Committed There and Agrees to Immunity.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 12.—[Special.]—State's Attorney Edmund Burke of Sangamon county opened his legislative bribery investigation today following its official indorsement by Judge Shirley yesterday, with an exciting trip to St. Louis and Mitchell, Ill., the home of Michael S. Link.

Circuit Attorney Seebert G. Jones of St. Louis agreed to grant immunity to any witness in the present investigation to whom Mr. Burke may wish to grant immunity.

He further expressed the opinion that no crime was committed in St. Louis, where the money was paid, but only in Springfield, where the agreement was made and the voting done.

Link, although at his home near Mitchell, hid when the prosecutor called on him with his reinforced offer of immunity, while Link's wife announced that Link had gone to St. Louis.

Aroused by Link's Conduct.

Burke, aroused by Link's conduct in breach of an agreement made with him when he appeared in Springfield on Tuesday, encouraged by the attitude of the St. Louis prosecutor, stirred by additional revelations in today's TRIBUNE, and deeply irritated by devices resorted to by those accused by the Chicago grand jury to exert influence in Springfield through local politicians, is preparing to plunge into a thorough investigation of the alleged corruption in high places.

Tonight Burke dispatched Sheriff Werner to Mitchell to bring Link to this city to testify before the Sangamon county grand jury tomorrow. Burke says he is convinced there is a plot to keep Link from testifying before the grand jury of this county. He is informed that State's Attorney Wayman of Cook county was at Link's house Monday evening, the night previous to the day in which Link came to Springfield and refused to testify before the grand jury on the ground that his testimony might incriminate himself.

Burke's Trip to the South.

Burke left Springfield on an interurban car for St. Louis at midnight last night and returned to the city at 7 o'clock in the evening. He immediately summoned his assistants, T. J. Sullivan and A. F. Bernard, retired to his office, and promised developments tomorrow.

Burke's interview with Circuit Attorney Jones was held under appropriate and suggestive circumstances. To confer with Burke, Jones left a grand jury room in which a city official indicted for graft some time ago was confessing under a promise of immunity and implicating a large number of men "higher up."

The interview was about an hour in duration and was based on the statutes of Illinois and Missouri and a file of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE since its exposure of the scandal. This file was Burke's only baggage on his trip.

Co-operative Understanding Reached.

After the interview it was announced that a coöperative understanding had been reached between the two prosecutors and that no possible conflict could arise during the incumbency of Jones. There is no statute in Missouri, as there is in Illinois, providing that an order of immunity may be entered by a court where testimony, otherwise self-incriminatory, may be forced under penalty of contempt, and the only immunity is that granted personally by the prosecutor. Jones agreed to grant such immunity in any case asked by Mr. Burke.

Jones stated to Burke that he would be particularly willing to do this in the case of Beckemeyer or Link, as, in his opinion, they had committed no crime in Missouri, granting the absolute accuracy of THE TRIBUNE bathroom story.

His view was that crime was committed and complete when agreement to vote for money was entered into and the vote in accordance with it cast, and that it would be no less a crime if the briber refused to carry out his part and never paid any money. The payment of money he considered merely evidence.

Burke left St. Louis on the next interurban car after this interview for Mitchell. There he inquired of the agent at the interurban station whether Link had left the city during the morning by that route. The agent asserted that he had not seen Link since he went on duty at 7 o'clock, so the prosecutor set out across the fields for the farmer's home. He was met at the door by Mrs. Link, who informed him that her husband had gone to Mitchell at about 8 o'clock and taken the interurban to St. Louis.

Reporter at the Back Door.

While this conversation was being held on the front porch a reporter at the rear of the house was being told by a farm hand that Link was working out in the fields at about 8 o'clock in the morning, that he did not know just where he was to be found at that time and did not know that Link had gone to St. Louis.

Burke felt that Link was on the premises, but giving him the benefit of the doubt left word that he would expect him in Springfield tomorrow morning, according to his agreement, made through his attorney, Frank Reid, on Tuesday to come whenever wanted in Sangamon county unless under subpœna in Chicago.

Shortly after Burke had returned to Mitchell there appeared at the Link home a Springfield newspaper man who had accompanied Burke to St. Louis, but who had missed the interurban car by which he left that city. Not being as guileless as the lawyer he circled the Link home and approached it from the rear. As he passed around the house to the front door he claims to have seen Link inside. He was met by Mrs. Link, however, and was told that Link had gone to St. Louis on the interurban. Later he made inquiries at Mitchell and was told that Link had not been there.

Later still he met George Link and was told by him that his brother was at home—that he had just left him there.

George Link also explained the Inter Ocean interview of three days ago by saying that he and not his brother had spoken over the phone.

Burke was compelled to change interurbans and wait for some time at Edwardsville, and there the Springfield reporter caught up with him. His recital fired the usually quiet and courteous Burke, and he declared with vivifying qualification and emphasis that he considers the conduct of Link, after the publication in the Chicago morning papers of his intention to visit him, not spontaneous and uninspired and of a character to release him from his previous engagements with respect to the priority of Cook county in the control of the witness.

At Edwardsville, also, the Chicago morning papers were bought and read by Burke, adding fuel to his zeal for immediate and strenuous investigation.

One element which had this effect was THE TRIBUNE story detailing Link's confession, which tallied in some particulars with personal information in the possession of Burke. As to this he refused to go into detail, but intimated his fervent wish to "open her up."

Burke says he had a long distance telephone call from Mr. Wayman late last night, asking him to come to Chicago. Burke states he is busy, and is apt to be busier, and does not know what Wayman has to say to him, and that he therefore is uncertain as to whether he will accept the invitation.

MORE COMMENT BY STATE PRESS

Editors Continue Storm of Criticism of Lorimer and Gang That Elected Him.

The state press continues to demand some action on Senator Lorimer's part to clear his title to the senatorship. The editorials printed below show how the tide of opinion still is setting:

Where Did the Money Come From?

Peoria Herald Transcript. [Rep.]—We are now asked to believe that William Lorimer knew nothing of the money which was being spent to make him senator; that personally he would have scorned to spend a cent in his own interest, and that wherever the famous "jackpot" and "bathroom" funds came from, he contributed not a penny to them, and did not even give his consent to their use. We are always ready to believe anything good of a United States senator, especially so noble and disinterested a fellow as Mr. Lorimer. Accepting this statement, it behooves us to figure out just where the Illinois legislators got their bribes. Senator Hopkins may be cleared of suspicion at once. It is not even necessary for him to make formal denial. The senator showed a heartless disregard for Mr. Lorimer's prospects all through the campaign. His skirts are clear. The Young Men's Christian association may be exonerated. There is no special reason why they should have contributed to the slush fund, but that is no reason why we should investigate them. The foreign missionary societies may well be investigated. Their long dealings with the heathen have made them willing to go to any lengths to reform a man and set his feet in the right path. It is possible that the desire to take Mr. Lorimer out of his wicked associations in the house of representatives may have led them to do something rash in order to get him into the senate. We own to a suspicion regarding the women's clubs of the country. They may have bribed legislators in Lorimer's interests. The senate has never had an opportunity to help a woman club, but why overlook any little lead in this investigation? It is, of course, highly probable that the money came from Russia. If this can be proved, great relief will be felt, for it is impossible to prosecute a Russian grand duke for bribing an Illinois legislator. On the other hand, perhaps the most pleasant and logical explanation is the theory that it fell out of some good man's pocket, and that some bad man picked it up with the intention of restoring it to him. Or it may have been stuffed into the pocket of a bad man by another more wicked man, who saw a chance to get rid of it. Or worse, it may have sprouted into thousand dollar bills from ten dollar bills, owing to the warm weather last spring. Any one of these hypotheses is much more reasonable than the absurd supposition that Senator Lorimer knew anything about the money being spent in his interest. Let us apologize to him in advance for our unkind suspicions.

"Guilty" Now the Verdict.

Pana Palladuim—[Dem.]—The confession of Mr. Beckemeyer that he also received a bribe of $1,000 is sufficient. "Guilty" is the verdict and the country will now know of the shame of Illinois. There were many who would have given us "the question of a reasonable doubt" on White's story, but when it is backed up by another, who is as deep in the mire, all reasonable doubt fades. The corruption of the legislature shows the class of men Illinois elects to make its laws. Their rascality has been brought to the surface, and none should escape the penalty thereof. Mr. Lorimer is not, and never was entitled to a seat in the United States senate. The vote of the majority favored Hopkins, and he should have been so honored. The United States senate should demand Lorimer's resignation, for he is, in our estimation, not the man who will resign, like any gentleman would if elected under a like circumstance. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is to be congratulated upon its work in disclosing to the public the manner in which the "slush fund" has been used in making our laws.

Lorimer's Title Is Tainted.

Metropolis Tribune—Will William Lorimer resign his seat in the senate? The indications are that he will be forced to. It was a coveted goal and he worked hard to get it. But he resorted to unfair and criminal methods, his title is tainted with fraud and dishonor, and the good of the service requires that he get down and out. It is our opinion that the schemes of the Sullivan-Lorimer crowd were deep laid and included magnificent things. Lorimer and his friends recently have organized two great banks in Chicago. The state of Illinois has voted twenty millions of dollars to construct a canal. Lorimer has displayed great zeal in holding up this appropriation until some future time. That twenty million would be a nice sum of money for the two new banks to handle.

DEMOCRATS MAY ACT ON LORIMER

Senate Minority Talks of Taking Initiative if Republicans Do Not.

SILENCE CAUSE OF WORRY

Cullom Is Deluged with Letters Asking for Information About Colleague.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—The continued silence of United States Senator William Lorimer on the subject of the scandal connected with his election is becoming embarrassing not only to the Republican party but also to the Democratic party, with which he is affiliated through the character of the support that placed him in the upper chamber of congress.

Leaders on the Democratic side in the senate feel that if the Republicans are willing to endure the humiliation of the graft disclosures it is up to the Democrats to initiate proceedings to purge the body of disgrace.

Day of Vain Waiting.

The attitude of the senate minority became known tonight after another day of vain waiting for the long expected word from Senator Lorimer asking for an investigation of the bribery charges.

Senator Burrows, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, wearily reiterated to senators and other inquirers that he had heard nothing from Senator Lorimer or from any of his friends.

Mr. Cullom likewise is without information. The senior Illinois senator is having difficulty in adhering to his resolve not to discuss the scandal. According to a veracious report he has about reached the boiling over point as a result of receiving several bushels of letters from Illinoisans asking him how long the senate intends to remain silent under the cloud the Lorimer scandal has brought upon it.

Several Democratic members of the senate have declared that if the Republicans make no move to bring about an investigation they will take the necessary step to establish before the country the repudiation of purchased senatorial elections.

Issue of "Senatorial Courtesy."

It is said that one distinguished Republican leader actually informed the Democrats that "senatorial courtesy requires the initiative to be taken on the minority side for the reason that Mr. Lorimer is more of a Democrat than a Republican."

This statement was not made in jest, for since the breaking of the scandal the real story of Lorimer's election has been circulated in the senate.

Mr. Lorimer holds the unique distinction of representing both of the great political parties in the upper chamber of congress. The general belief was that he was a shade more Republican than Democratic, because of the fact that he was elected by fifty-five Republican and fifty-three Democratic votes.

Now the senators discover he really was elected by fifty-three Democrats and fifty Republicans, but that five Republicans got into the band wagon before the official vote was recorded. This makes Lorimer fully 51 per cent Democratic and Republican leaders who claim to be perfectly serious insist that it puts the burden of responsibility in the present crisis upon the Democrats in the senate.

TWO NEW SCHOOLS ORDERED AND ADDITIONS TO SEVEN.

Recommendation of Supt. Young to Provide Ample Accommodations for Pupils Is Approved by Committee.

Congestion in the Chicago schools which last November prevented 10,000 children from attending more than one session each day resulted yesterday in a recommendation by Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools, for two new school buildings and seven additions.

These, with the five buildings now in the course of construction, will provide enough school room to eliminate the congestion. The recommendation was concurred in by the school management committee.

The structures to be built will be:

HYDE PARK HIGH SCHOOL, new building at Sixty-second street and Stony Island avenue.

OAKDALE, new building, twelve rooms and assembly hall.

FISKE, addition, Sixty-second street and Ingleside avenue, twelve rooms and assembly hall.

SUMNER, addition, Forty-third and Colorado avenues, twelve rooms and assembly hall.

COLUMBUS, addition, Augusta street, near Hoyne avenue, twelve rooms and assembly hall.

LONGWOOD, one-half of new twenty-four room building.

EARLE, addition, Hermitage avenue and Sixty-first street, twelve rooms and assembly hall.

KENWOOD, addition, Lake avenue and Fiftieth street, eight rooms and assembly hall.

MORSE, addition, Barry avenue and Bissell street, twelve rooms and assembly hall.

At a meeting of the school-management committee Dean Sumner gave the results of his observations in the schools of New York, Brooklyn, Boston, and Rochester. He said these cities are giving much attention to open air classes. He urged the opening of additional classes in the open wherever possible.

SENATE AIDS STEEL TRUST

Passes Bill Authorizing Great New Harbor at Gary, Ind.

WILL BE TWO MILES LONG.

Project for Greatest Fresh Water Dock System in World.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—The bill to authorize the United States Steel corporation to reclaim hundreds of acres of the submerged bed of Lake Michigan at Gary, Ind., and to extend a series of gigantic docks 2,600 feet into navigable waters was passed by the senate today. It is still pending in the house.

Under the authority asked the steel trust is planning to construct the greatest fresh water harbor in the world. It will stretch along the lake front a distance of two miles.

The right to fill in the lake this entire distance out to a depth of twenty-five feet is asked of the government.

GARY TO HAVE BIG NEW PLANT.

An official report was received in Gary, Ind., yesterday that the National Tube company, with plants at McKeesport, Pa., and Loraine, O., within the course of a few weeks will start the construction of an enormous plant at Gary which will rival that of the Indiana Steel company. The company will locate on the site reserved for it on the Lake Michigan front, consisting of 450 acres between the slip of Gary harbor and the coke ovens. The plans include eighteen blast furnaces. The plant will employ from 15,000 to 18,000 men.

READY TO DEBATE ON WAGES OF ENGINEMEN AND FIREMEN.

Railroad Officials and Union Leaders to Appear Before Arbitration Board Appointed Under Erdman Law.

Railroad officials and union leaders yesterday prepared to go before the federal arbitration board appointed under the Erdman law to hear the wage dispute of 27,000 locomotive firemen and enginemen employed on forty-nine western railroads.

William Lea Chambers of Washington, D. C., appointed umpire of the board by United States Labor Commissioner Charles P. Neill, is scheduled to arrive in Chicago this morning and a preliminary hearing in the federal building may be held immediately following his arrival. Timothy Shea of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen will represent the employés.

Section men employed on the Michigan division of the Big Four railroad from Benton Harbor to Louisville are out on strike for an increase of 20 cents a day in wages. They refused an offer of a raise of 5 cents a day.

Roy Phelps, a picket in the taxicab strike, was arrested in front of Owen H. Fay Livery company's garage at 244 Michigan avenue for making threats against the strikebreakers. The taxicab companies added several cars to their service, making about forty machines in operation. Service for the Blackstone, Congress, Auditorium, and Stratford hotels was resumed under police protection. Night service probably will be resumed next week.

One of the hottest election contests in the history of the Chicago Typographical union is in progress. President George J. Knott, candidate for reëlection, is opposed by George R. O'Brien and the latter's friends are bending every effort to elect him. John C. Harding, candidate for reëlection to the office of recording secretary and organizer, which he has held several years, is opposed by William J. Boener. The election will be held on May 18.

Arrest Attorney as Disorderly.

Francis E. Hinckley, an attorney with an office at 1202 Ashland block, was arrested last night at Wabash avenue and Van Buren street and taken to the Harrison street station where a charge of disorderly conduct was made against him. Later he was released on bonds.

THEATER WARNED; REFORM OR QUIT

Police Give Ultimatum to Cort People, Who Promise to Change Play's Name.

STEWARD HIMSELF ACTS.

Chief's Stenographers Take Lines of Performance; Toning Process Is Begun.

Chief of Police Steward and Assistant Chief Schuettler together last night notified Manager Frederick Fleck of the company playing at the Cort theater that unless the name of the play is changed today, and objectionable features were eliminated, the police will close the house tonight. Similar notice was served upon U. J. Herrmann, manager of the theater. Both theatrical men promised to change the name of the play from "Get Busy With Emily, or Have You Anything to Declare?" to some less unpleasant title.

Reluctant and inadequate pruning of the play was started last night. But while some of the lines which had been written to appeal to a degenerate element were eliminated, others were left. Nor was the objectionable dance cut out, though its most vulgar feature was not permitted. The effect even of this moderate obedience, however, was to accentuate the dullnes of the balance of the piece.

To facilitate the work of police censorship, two stenographers from Schuettler's office were detailed to attend the evening performance to make shorthand reports for submission at the city hall today. Detective Sergeant O'Donnell kept after the suggestive advertising matter o fthe show, which the police authorities are agreed shall be removed.

Theater People Resist Reform.

The theater people fought inch by inch all day against the police. They kept up their defense until nightfall. By that time the heads of city departments interested were cognizant of the situation and Mayor Busse declared against the flaunting of suggestiveness in Chicago. Chief Steward called Herrmann over to the city hall and caused him to agree to change the name of the show.

Herrmann alleged to the chief that he himself had disapproved of the show to the extent of "threatening to ring down the curtain" unless some of the more brazen features of it were changed.

An hour or so later, the chief's automobile with the chief and Schuettler in it pulled up in front of the theater. Fleck, the company manager, came out. The police officials introduced themselves.

"I've come over to tell you that the name won't do," said Chief Steward.

"I haven't heard anything about changing any name," said Fleck, with every appearance of innocence.

Steward Gives His Ultimatum.

"You've been running a raw show here, and we're not going to stand for this sort of thing in Chicago," replied the chief. "Unless you change the name and cut out the objectionable features, we're coming around here tomorrow and close you up. Public sentiment in Chicago is against this sort of thing, and it won't go."

"The name alone is enough to condemn the show," commented Schuettler.

"That stuff won't go, and hereafter we'll take time by the forelock in these matters," added Chief Steward.

"That's thoroughly bad," was a comment made by Mayor Busse earlier in the afternoon, when a line of the advertising was shown to him. "Chief Steward says he can take care of it, and when he says he will attend to it a matter my worries are over about it."

SAYS COMMERCIAL COLLEGE STUDENTS WILL END GRAFT.

Northwestern Men and Women Praised at Banquet—Also Hear Chicago Soon Will Rival New York.

"An institution that sends forth a product that will give the people of Illinois honest legislation and that will make Chicago a city of beauty and progress," was the tribute paid to the school of commerce of Northwestern university by L. Wilbur Messer, in an address given 300 students of the school at the second annual banquet in the Congress hotel last night.

"The work of this school," said Mr. Messer, "is to fit young men and young women for honest endeavor in their professions—the kind that will make boodlers and grafters get out of business."

Walter D. Moody of the Association of Commerce, in an address upon "Commercial Chicago," said: "In fifteen years our city will rival New York in population and in every other way."

Other speakers were Dean W. E. Hotchkiss, Dr. A. W. Harris, Prof. Seymour Walton, J. S. Kelly, and A. W. T. Ogilvie. J. H. Gilby, president of the student organization, was toastmaster.

AUSTIN CLUB WOMAN ENDS LIFE BY DRINKING CARBOLIC ACID.

Mrs. Helen B. Husted, Said to Have Been Despondent Over Long Illness, Commits Suicide in Her Residence.

Mrs. Helen B. Husted, a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Austin Woman's club, died at her residence, 822 North Pine avenue, yesterday as the result of swallowing carbolic acid with suicidal intent. She was the wife of Henry B. Husted, president of the R. V. Wagner company, 140 Wabash avenue, and daughter of Edwin S. Osgood, president of the Osgood Engraving company.

"My daughter has been an invalid for six years," said Mr. Osgood. "She had nervous prostration and was despondent."

Mrs. Wanda Cichowski, 2335 Armitage avenue, committed suicide by jumping off the high bridge in Lincoln park into the lagoon. She had been ill and is believed to have been demented.

Meyer Silverman, 16 years old, 1235 North Claremont avenue, missing for a week, was the boy who ended his life by jumping in front of a train. His father identified the body.

Asks Court to Restrain Chicago Title and Trust Company's Action.

The sanitary district of Chicago filed suit yesterday in court asking that the Chicago Title and Trust company be restrained from pressing three suits, two of which are pending in the Superior court and another in the Municipal court. One of the suits is in ejectment to obtain possession of a portion of the land, averring that the work had not been completed in a specified time as provided in the trust deed. Another suit is for $50,000 alleged injury to the property. The third is for $45,000 for alleged breach of contract.

"When?"

Hereafter this interrogation directed toward Chicago's young school going sons and daughters will bring forth this reply:

"We don't know, we don't have to know, and we don't care."

Dates of history along with problems in compound interest and compound fractions, branded as nonessentials by the committees appointed to revise the courses of study, have been forgotten already and further revision is being suggested by the youthful population itself.

What changes will be made was shown yesterday by Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools, in giving out the report of the special committees which have been at work on revision for six months.

'SHOOT TO HIT,' SAYS STEWARD

Chief Gives Advice at Banquet of Police Revolver Teams.

"TOO MANY MISS THE MARK."

Prizes Are Awarded for Work at Pistol Contests.

Two hundred policemen, including the general superintendent and members of the winning teams, held a banquet at the Transit house last evening, at which the prizes for revolver shooting won during the last year were presented by the Illinois Rifle association.

"When I came to dine with all of you crack shots tonight," said Chief Steward, "I expected the performance to begin with shooting out the lights. I have been agreeably surprised.

"I believe that gun fighting goes with your jobs. I want to encourage pistol shooting in every way possible. If you need help, call on me.

"Shoot to Hit the Mark"—Chief.

"A policeman should not shoot unless it is necessary, but when he does he should hit the mark. There have been too many cases reported of policemen shooting dozens of times at an escaping criminal and when I hear of it again I'm going to send for the man and tell him to report at the gallery in the Transit house."

Assistant Chief Herman Schuettler, Maj. John B. Clinnin, president of the State Rifle association; Capt. John Black, who made the presentations of the prizes, and Sergt. George Weidling of the traffic squad, who won most of them, also made speeches.

Prizes Awarded to Winners.

Some of the prizes were: Gen. Moulton trophy, won by Chicago police teams at Camp Logan—First team, Sergeant Weidling, Patrolman Andrew Pidgeon, Sergeant Alfred Hansen, Patrolman Chris Haas, and Patrolman James J. Farrell; second team, Sergeant Joe Kilgore, Patrolman James O. Callahan, Sergeant Ben Dawney, Patrolman Ludwig Gamber, Patrolman Benjamin Stich. Illinois State Rifle association prize—Fourteenth precinct team, consisting of Lieut. Mooney, Thomas Cassidy, William Walsh, John McLaughlin, and Frank Vanderlinden.

HANDCUFFS PROVE THEIR WORTH

Placed on Mock Trial "Prisoner" and Can't Be Taken Off Until Trip to Police Station Is Made.

Clarence E. Beveridge, 5637 Calumet avenue, was taken to the Harrison street police station last night securely handcuffed. He hadn't become a holdup man, however, nor had he driven an automobile which killed any one. It was the result of a joke.

Beveridge was the "prisoner" at a mock trial held at the Second Presbyterian church. Charles T. Butcher, one of the "counsel" in the trial, had borrowed a pair of irons from Sergeant Edward Grady. He forgot to get the key. After the trial Beveridge was held fast.

Butcher took him to Harrison street to be released. Sergeant Grady had gone home and taken the only key which would fit the cuffs. The engineer finally filed the wristlets and freed the "prisoner."

LOST MEN FOUND DROWNED.

One a Clerk in Lodging House and Other Railroad Gardener—No Clew to Cause.

The bodies of two missing men were found in the river last night. From a bank book and letters in the clothing one discovered near the State street bridge is believed to be that of Charles J. Baylis, a clerk at the Liberty Lodging house, 562 West Madison street, who disappeared a month ago.

MRS. ADLAND SEEKS DIVORCE

Woman Who Drove Cab as Strike Breaker Charges Cruelty.

"THIRD DEGREE" IN LOVE.

Mrs. Louise Reeves Gets Confession on Which to Base Suit.

Mrs. Gertrude E. Adland, one of Chicago's well known horsewomen, winner of trophies and ribbons at the Chicago and New York horse shows, filed suit for divorce from her husband, John W. Adland, in the Superior court yesterday.

An injunction restraining Mr. Adland from annoying or molesting his wife and daughter was granted by Judge Chetlain. The charges were cruelty and habitual intoxication.

It was only three years ago that Mrs. Adland attained fame as a "strikebreaker" in the cab and carriage drivers' walkout. Mr. Adland is the proprietor of the Parkside livery, 3423 West Madison street, and, with other liverymen, had trouble in getting drivers even for funerals.

Drives Carriage at Funeral.

So one day when there was a funeral Mrs. Adland donned livery, mounted the box of a carriage, and drove her party out to Elmwood cemetery behind the hearse driven by her husband.

"Mr. Adland and I have not been on good terms for five years," said Mrs. Adland at her residence, 3337 Warren avenue, in the evening. "I have about given up my horses and my stable and I don't do much driving any more.

"My husband struck me and abused me when he was intoxicated—and that is about four nights a week. I made up my mind, for the sake of my daughter, to get a divorce. I shall sell my horses, except one or two favorites, and give up the stable."

Gets Confession by "Third Degree."

The "third degree" of kindness was used by Mrs. Louise A. Reeves to get a confession from her husband, William Reeves, upon which she asked and obtained a divorce in Judge Chetlain's court.

The confession, she told the court, threw a great light upon many puzzling incidents in her married life.

Once she found her husband in a shoe store buying women's shoes. When questioned he said he had "merely been preparing a little surprise for her." Then came the new "third degree." He repented and confessed. This suit followed.

Mrs. Clancy Sues Again.

Mrs. Sabina Clancy, who a few weeks ago was denied a divorce from Charles X. Clancy, formerly traveling auditor for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, filed a bill for separate maintenance in the Circuit court.

She charges desertion, nonsupport, and cruelty. As in the previous suit, she asserts that he tried to attack her with a knife, after which he attempted to asphyxiate himself.

FLIRTING DAYS COME BACK

Witness Says Woman Forgot Age When She Wed Younger Man.

EVEN DYED HER HAIR!

Suit Brought by Daughters to Save Father's Estate.

That Mrs. Catherine Calbick Harley's marriage to a man twenty years her junior caused her to forget most of the sixty-three years she had passed was indicated yesterday in the court hearing of the suit brought by her daughters to prevent the spending of the money left by their father, Capt. James Arthur Calbick.

According to the daughters, Mrs. T. C. Wood and Mrs. Patricia R. Siebel, their mother has been buying jewelry, fine clothing, and has also been—flirting.

Flirting "Coming Back" to Her.

The complainants' case is helped by Mrs. John Jenks, 573 Normal avenue.

Mrs. Jenks, in an affidavit read in court, averred that Mrs. Harley told her that there were two men after her, a father and a son. The father had "a million," and she thought she would take him. She also said that when she was a girl she was quite a flirt and that "it was all coming back to her."

Thinks She Dyed Her Hair.

"She took me into her bedroom," Mrs. Jenks proceeds to state, "and showed me eight or ten new dresses. She said there were two more being completed. I saw that her hair was much darker than it was before. I think she dyed it."

The daughters assert they think she is of unsound mind and not qualified to handle the estate, which is valued at about $65,000.

TWENTY FIREMEN JUST MISS DEATH

All Are Rescued After Being Overcome by Smoke and Gas in Basement.

PIPE BURST BY WORKMAN

Theater Manager Notifies Assistant Chief Seyferlich of the Danger.

Twenty firemen were overcome by smoke and gas last night while fighting a blaze in the basement of 218 Wabash avenue. Those who suffered were members of engine companies 32 and 21 and hook and ladder company 9. They were dragged to safety by companions who were informed of the danger by Edward J. Sullivan, manager of the Studebaker theater. With the exception of three, all were able to return to work after recovering in the open air.

The fire was in the basement of the Roma restaurant, which was to have been opened for business tomorrow.

These Firemen Are Rescued.

The firemen who were overcome by gas and smoke are:

EDWARD T. BUCKLEY, marshal first battalion.

MICHAEL McGOVERN, pipeman, engine company No. 32.

JOHN GONDEK, pipeman, engine company No. 32.

EDWARD LACEY, pipeman, engine company No. 32.

WALTER ENGLISH, pipeman, engine company No. 32.

RODNEY DABE, pipeman, engine company No. 32.

JOHN DEMPSEY, pipeman, engine company No. 32.

FRANK STEFFEL, truck company No. 9.

DENNIS A. DRISCOLL, truck company No. 9.

JOHN KEEGAN, pipeman, engine company No. 32.

PHILLIP CULLEN, pipeman, engine company No. 32.

BURTON E. FISHER, captain of truck company No. 9.

DANIEL CARMODY, lieutenant truck company No. 9.

JAMES P. GALVIN, truck company No. 9.

S. M. SULLIVAN, truck company No. 9.

RICHARD HERRICK, truck company No. 9.

STEPHEN QUIGLEY, truck company No. 9.

J. F. SZESZYCKI, truck company No. 9.

Injured by the Flames.

These firemen were injured by the flames:

CAPT. JAMES J. COSTIN, engine company No. 5, acting battalion marshal, burned about the face and hands.

CAPT. HENRY O. JOHNSON, engine company No. 21, burned about the face and hands.

Some excitement prevailed among the guests of the Wellington hotel, which is several doors south of the building, and traffic on the Wabash avenue and Indiana avenue car lines was tied up for about half an hour.

Workman Bursts a Gas Pipe.

Fifteen men, including concrete floor layers, carpenters, painters, and steamfitters, were at work remodeling the place when an Italian laborer drove his pick into the wall and tore a three inch gas pipe from its fastening. The pipe burst and was ignited by a flame from the laborer's torch.

Instantly the rear part of the basement was ablaze. The workmen barely had time to escape with their lives.

An alarm of fire was soon followed by a second call for apparatus to cope with the flames. Manager Sullivan, who is a fire "fan," was notified by the gong in his office, and he started for the scene. Going to the rear of the building, he saw the peril of the twenty firemen who had been "knocked out" by the smoke, and went in search of aid. Assistant Chief Seyferlich was informed of the danger to the men and he sent two companies to the rescue.

The loss on the building will not exceed $5,000.

ACCUSED OF KILLING AUNT

Henry Baumann Arrested and Funeral Is Stopped.

WOMAN WAS PEACEMAKER.

Tried to End Quarrel Between Nephew and Wife.

After a fight with two detectives, during which he attempted to stab one of them with a butcher knife, Henry Baumann, 6429 South Paulina street, was arrested last night, charged with having beaten and caused the death of his aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Shoenwolf, 84 years old, who died last Wednesday.

Baumann had just concluded the funeral arrangements and earlier in the day had procured a death certificate from Dr. Hugo E. Betz, 5500 South Halsted street. The funeral was ordered stopped and a coroner's inquest will be held today.

Baumann, the police learned, attacked his aunt Tuesday night when she attempted to pacify him while he was quarreling with his wife. A relative of the dead woman learned of the attack and notified the police.

Dr. Betz said he had not seen the body, but had previously attended the woman for heart disease. Baumann denies the charges.

WIFE ALIVE, OWN DEATH NOTICE ASTOUNDS HER HUSBAND.

C. M. Turner, Separated from Spouse, Says "Original" Is in Her Handwriting—"No," She Replies.

Clarence M. Turner, an accountant in the offices of the south park commissioners, separated from his wife last September. Yesterday he was astonished to read in THE TRIBUNE a notice of her death.

But Mrs. Turner is alive and when shown the original "notice," the husband declared it was in his wife's handwriting. She insists, however, that it is not. Here is the notice:

DIED—TURNER, MRS. BELL, WIFE OF CLARENCE M., suddenly, at late residence, 4149 Indiana-av., May 11. Funeral from parents' home, Michigan.

"That is an original way to harrow a man's feelings," said Mr. Turner as he looked at the original notice. "That's her handwriting."

"Why should I put that notice in," asserted the wife. "That's another specimen of that man's malice. It was a shock to me. Why, I wept myself."

MORNING COMET SAYS GOOD-BY; GAZERS GET BUSY AT SUNDOWN.

Halley's Orb Still Is in the East During the Early Hours, but Is Too Near the Sun to Be Visible.

Farewell to the comet in the morning sky. There is no more excuse for staying up late. No one will have to lose sleep to see it after this. Its next appearance will be in the western skies just after sundown.

It still is in the east in the morning, but, according to Prof. Frost of Yerkes observatory, it is so near the sun that no more good observations can be had.

"We might see it a little for perhaps half an hour each day tomorrow and the day after," he said. "That is, we might see it if it were not for the forest fires in Michigan. They have spoiled our observations for two days."

The early evening is the best time to see comets, anyhow, according to Prof. Maniel McHugh of De Paul university. The air is dryer than at dawn and gives better refracting power to the vision.

SEEKS WALKING MATCH AT 92.

Benjamin A. Jent Wants Adversary to Tramp from Garfield Park to City Hall.

Benjamn A. Jent, 3020 Warren avenue, who celebrated his ninety-second birthday anniversary last January, is looking for a long distance walker to engage in a walking match with him from Garfield park to the city hall, a distance he has covered on an average of once a week for twenty years.

He thinks nothing of a little stroll out to Oak Park before breakfast, and among his rules for longevity his most important one is "Walk a-plenty."

Mr. Jent will occupy a box with other members of the Borrowed Time club tomorrow night at the Oak Park Business Men's testimonial concert for "Father" E. F. Robbins, 94 years old, at the Warrington opera house.

KAISER APPLAUDS ROOSEVELT TALK

Emperor Chuckles and Nods Approval During Lecture at University.

SOME OF AUDITORS SLEEP.

Academic Traditions Are Shattered by American's Lack of Ceremony.

[The text of Col. Roosevelt's lecture at the University of Berlin will be found on the editorial page.]

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, May 12.—Kaiser Wilhelm was one of the most enthusiastic auditors when former President Roosevelt lectured today on "The World Movement" at the University of Berlin. The orator when touching on what are known as his favorite topics addressed himself directly to the emperor and the latter frequently nodded an emphatic approval.

Following the lecture the distinguished American received from the university the honorary degree of doctor of philosophy.

The ceremony of conferring the degree was staged and conducted with impressive simplicity. There were no flags or emblems of royalty and the government, and the walls of the Aula were bare save for the rows of busts of Germany's famous scholars and scientists.

Traditions Are Shattered.

Incidentally some of the cherished academic traditions which surround such events when royalty is present were punctured. Not only did Mr. Roosevelt arrive a quarter of an hour late, the emperor and the royal family standing meanwhile in the outer vestibule, but he omitted the profound obeisance, which is expected in greeting the kaiser. Instead he met him with a vigorous triple shake of the hand and the bare suggestion of a bow.

Throughout Mr. Roosevelt's long address the kaiser, sitting almost at the speaker's feet, listened with every sign of rapt interest. He chuckled delightedly at the jokes which the lecturer interpolated into his written speech.

The audience included some of the most noted men of learning in Germany, Joseph Kohler, the jurist upon whom the University of Chicago some time ago conferred the degree of LL. D., holding a conspicuous place next to the speaker on the platform.

Some of the Auditors Sleep.

As many were unable to follow the speaker's English they looked on with what appeared to be curiosity rather than interest. Several of the older professors frankly went to sleep owing to the warmth of the room.

As the kaiser and Col. Roosevelt entered the hall, a choir chanted "Heil dir Im Siegerkranz." The two were followed by Empress Auguste Victoria, Princess Victoria Louise, Prince and Princess Eitel Frederick, Prince and Princess August Wilhelm, Prince Adalbert, Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Roosevelt, and Kermit Roosevelt. This party took seats on the platform.

Surrounding them were seated American Ambassador Hill and Mrs. Hill, diplomats, and other prominent personages, German and American.

Mr. Roosevelt occupied the seat at the reading desk, and at his side stood the heads of the student corps with drawn swords. This guard of honor remained standing, and almost immovable for the three hours of the lecture and ceremony.

The auditorium was filled to its capacity of 1,200, by the faculty of the university, students and guests. Rector Frich Schmidt opened the program by giving an outline of the career of Mr. Roosevelt.

Roosevelt in Good Voice.

Mr. Roosevelt appeared in the pink of physical condition. His voice, husky at first, gained steadily in clearness as he proceeded and he was able to deliver his complete written thesis of 9,000 words, to which he added extemporaneously from time to time by way of emphasis and explanation.

In his introduction the lecturer complimented the kaiser for his interest in and knowledge of technical education.

"While in Africa I used to think that there was something wrong with the mail if it did not bring a letter from Benjamin Ide Wheeler telling me of his admiration for some feature of German life and of the emperor's extraordinary qualities and kindness," he said.

The colonel referred to yesterday's review at Doeberitz, saying he had then visited "a great outdoor university, where I sat at the feet of its most distinguished professor." He spoke of the great debt America owed to German blood and German influence.

Credit to German Thought.

"Not a movement of German thought but vibrates through the American intellectual world," he said. Every debt that America owed Germany was attributed to the kaiser.

At the end of the lecture Col. Roosevelt spoke in glowing terms of the "citizen soldiers," whom he had seen at Doeberitz.

"I fear no decadence in a nation when I see such men."

Col. Roosevelt and Kermit were guests tonight of Chancellor von Bethmann-Holweg at a dinner at the chancellor's palace. The others present included the American ambassador and Count Zeppelin.

The colonel displayed great interest in Bismarck's working and living apartments. A reception followed the dinner, many of the members of the reichstag and landtag being presented to the former president.

Will Meet King George.

LONDON, May 12.—Mr Roosevelt will be presented to King George soon after his arrival in London early next Monday morning. Arrangements to this end have been made at the wish of his majesty.

In the course of the negotiations regarding Mr. Roosevelt, the king personally extended through the ambassador his thanks to President Taft and the government and people of the United States for their many tokens of condolence and sympathy.

Mr. Roosevelt upon his arrival here will proceed to Dorchester house, where he will remain until after the funeral of King Edward. It is expected he will spend the week end at Wrest park.

ORDERS MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR THE LATE KING EDWARD.

Bishop Fallows Sends Request for the Meetings to All Reformed Episcopal Churches in U. S. and Canada.

Bishop Samuel Fallows, presiding bishop of the Reformed Episcopal church, sent out a notice yesterday to all Reformed Episcopal churches in the United States and Canada calling upon them to hold memorial services in honor of King Edward of England next Sunday.

The notice reads as follows:

> As the Reformed Episcopal church is one ecclesiastical organization in the United States and Canada and as we, therefore, feel a profound sympathy for the bereaved royal family and with the whole British nation in the great loss of their deeply beloved King Edward VII., I therefore, recommend that memorial services be held in each church in the United States and the dominion of Canada on Sunday next, May 15, in honor of the virtues of the departed monarch, and to pray for the prosperous reign of King George V. and Queen Mary.

The British Empire association, at a meeting at the Great Northern hotel, last night appointed a committee to draft resolutions concerning the death of King Edward, which will be read at the memorial services at the Auditorium Sunday.

The Canadian Veterans' association at a meeting in the Great Northern hotel decided to postpone indefinitely a banquet which was to have been held July 1.

NO POST OFFERED FAIRBANKS.

Denial at White House That Any Communications as to Ambassadorship Have Been Exchanged.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—President Taft has not communicated with former Vice President Fairbanks offering him the ambassadorship to Great Britain to succeed Whitelaw Reid. At the White House today the report was denied explicitly. It was denied also that any communications on the subject have passed between Mr. Taft and Mr. Fairbanks.

GEORGE V. AS KING FINDS MUCH TO DO

From Life of Ease English Ruler Becomes Hard Working Official.

ROOSEVELT AS ROYALTY.

Ex-President to Take Place Among Monarchs in Funeral Procession.

LONDON, May 12.—From a life of comparative ease and retirement King George suddenly finds himself one of the hardest worked officials of the kingdom.

In addition to spending considerable time daily at Buckingham palace comforting his widowed mother he has to attend to multifarious duties connected with receiving and entertaining the royal guests and arranging the difficult details of the lying in state and the funeral of his father.

Seven o'clock each morning finds his majesty at his desk in Marlborough house to reply to the innumerable messages of condolence and to receive his ministers and the officials who have to do with the obsequies.

Roosevelt Among the Monarchs.

Ex-President Roosevelt, who has been named as special envoy of the United States to attend the funeral of King Edward, will be presented to King George soon after his arrival in London on Monday. Mr. Roosevelt will occupy a place with the visiting monarchs in the funeral procession and will attend the burial at Windsor.

The lying in state involves a great addition to the work of arranging the program for the funeral, all the details of which will hardly be completed before Sunday. The procession to Westminster hall on Tuesday for the lying in state will be almost on as great a scale as the funeral procession. The cortége will include King George and all the foreign sovereigns on horseback, and the queen mother and the royal ladies in carriages.

When the funeral procession starts on Friday every tramcar in London will come to a standstill for a quarter of an hour. It is proposed that all the public houses in London be closed while the procession is passing.

$3,000 for Reviewing Stand.

Hundreds of carpenters are at work erecting stands along the funeral route. Twenty-five dollars to $50 is obtainable easily for a single seat at points of vantage, while a small upper room with a couple of windows overlooking the street is considered a bargain at $500. On the more fashionable thoroughfares like Piccadilly from $2,000 to $3,000 is asked for the use of single rooms.

A note of discord in the universal mourning comes from Dublin, where at a meeting of the corporation today seven members of the Sinn Fein society voted against the lord mayor's resolution to send a message of sympathy and condolence to the queen mother and the royal family.

King Edward's interest in the America's cup contests was well known, but the fact he had a hand in designing Sir Thomas Lipton's yachts was not generally known. Sir Thomas, in a published eulogy, says his majesty made many suggestions in connection with the designs calculated to improve his yacht's chances of success.

SAYS KING EDWARD HAD CANCER.

Columbus, O., May 12.—Dr. James L. Holden today declared he had inspected the throat of King Edward in Paris last July and found he was suffering from cancer of the throat.

Holden says he so informed his majesty, saying an operation would be futile, and prescribed a régime that in his judgment would lengthen life as much as possible.

In his opinion the royal physicians described the ailment as catarrhal bronchitis because the form of cancer from which he thinks the king suffered tends to transmit itself to posterity.

MINE EXPLOSION KILLS MANY

Disaster at Whitehaven, England, Fatal to 137 Men.

FIRE STOPS RESCUE WORK.

Barometric Warning Issued but Accident Is Not Prevented.

MANCHESTER, England, May 12.—One hundred and thirty-seven miners lost their lives today in an explosion in the Wellington coal mine at Whitehaven. Rescue parties saved four men, but fire has started in the workings, leaving practically no hope for those who are still entombed.

Throughout the day the rescue parties made considerable progress in the mine, but their work was stopped tonight by the collapse of the roof.

A curious fact is that a colliery warning was published in many of the newspapers in the mining districts of the kingdom yesterday that unusually high barometric conditions rendered fire damp explosions probable and that all underground workers ought therefore to be on the alert. The barometer reached its highest reading in the Whitehaven district.

King George tonight sent a message of sympathy to the owners of the colliery.

ZEPPELIN CHARGES GERMANY WITH BEING UNFAIR TO HIM.

Condemnation of His Airships by Ministry of War Brings Out Heated Protest from Inventor.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, May 12.—The condemnation by the ministry of war of the Zeppelin airships for military purposes has occasioned a feud between the supporters of the inventor and the government.

Count Zeppelin voiced his personal indignation at a dinner in his honor, at which many leading politicians were present. He declared the ministry of war had put difficulties in his way and he feared the kaiser had been influenced to believe the Zeppelin type of airship was worthless.

He declared that if the attacks continued he would appeal publicly to the reichstag, which course would be likely to result disastrously to the ministry of war.

THE HUB
Henry C. Lytton PRES.

CLEVER sayings in newspaper advertisements don't count for much; somehow they don't seem to carry conviction to the soul of the average clothing buyer; The Hub strives to give the people facts, to tell its story in a plain unvarnished way, and success justifies our course.

There has been much activity in our young men's clothing department the past few days; we are offering in this section some uncommonly good values in young men's suits; in fact, they are the best we have been able to submit this season; since the original announcement our young men patrons have responded most generously, and all have profited handsomely; at this time there are probably some seven or eight hundred suits in this collection to choose from, embracing every style and fabric that young men demand and dote upon, in all sizes 30 to 38 chest; other stores are compelled to charge you $18.00 and $20.00 for these splendidly tailored suits; our price, while they last, $14.75

The Hub's second floor is one of the interesting sights of Chicago—inspiring and educational; there are 18,000 suits exhibited here, and every prominent manufacturer in America is represented; we make special reference to one of the big lines of men's fine suits, shown in one, two and three button models, of the sightliest and most serviceable fabrics, greatly underpriced by The Hub, at $20

We CAN, and DO unhesitatingly, recommend the product of the famous Atterbury System as the finest clothes under the sun; the prices start at $25.00, ranging upward as high as $50.00

GOOD APPEARANCE A WOMAN'S DUTY

Art Expert Tells How to Harmonize Dress for the Best Effect.

CITES LEAF AS EXAMPLE.

Speaker at Club Convention Says Consistency Should Rule Garb.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Cincinnati, O., May 12.—[Special.]—Henry Turner Bailey, for sixteen years supervisor of art in the public schools of Boston, was one of the principal speakers at the convention of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs today.

Mr. Bailey told his hearers how they could harmonize their clothing to make themselves better appearing, which, he said, was one of their chief duties. His address follows:

"Why don't the women in their clubs study how to dress?" he began. "The first duty of a woman is to make herself presentable, and there is no leaf of the forest that hasn't more style than women. For style means more than following the styles. It means perfect consistency. It means rhythm and measure and inter-relationship. The leaves have it, and the women do not.

Cross Between Yellow and Green.

"For instance, we are not a race of Caucasians. We are a cross between yellow and green. Now, it is the business of every woman to get the exact shadings of her skin and work out costumes consistent with this coloring. If she wishes to be conservative she should work out colorings of the same general tone. But if she wishes to be dashing she should seek her contrasting colors, and this is really the best color scheme there is.

"She usually will find the contrasting shade to be the color of her eyes, and this, as is perfectly proper, makes the eyes the most prominent feature of the face. Any scheme, of course, which does not make the face the most prominent and attractive feature is a failure."

Two thousand women assembled in Music hall applauded these suggestions and later asked for the written address, so that it might be copied into the official records. Many clubs will take under advisement Mr. Bailey's suggestions for the further work for women, which follow:

"Work toward getting us a national flower. I recommend the mountain laurel. It is hardy, it is beautiful, its pod takes the shape of a five pointed star. It is truly American, for it can take care of itself. Discard your crests—they are affected and not American. But get yourselves some distinctive sign or symbol to work into your dress pattern, on your stationery, and into your household linen.

Encourage Collections of Art.

"Encourage photography in the schools and collections of art. Start collections of embroideries, and photographs of the finest trees of the town, the finest pond, the best clumps of vegetation. Every woman's club ought to keep some lawn mowers to lend, and ought to promote the planting of trees."

The president's report and recommendations were subjects of the day.

"I recommend," she said, "since the health department of civics has grown so largely in the public need, that it be removed from civics entirely, making a department of public health, which might well include the fight against the white plague and the black plague.

"I recommend, in the place of forestry and its subcommittee on waterways, the conservation department.

"I recommend to every state, for the advantage of broad reciprocity, that it invite to its state meeting a member of the general federation board, or chairman of one of the departments, or a president from some other state, who will remain throughout the meetings. It will result in mutual gain.

"You remember Kipling's ship that found itself—whose parts were so joined in one harmonious whole that the creaking and the straining were eliminated and the ship as a great vital force weathered the storm and carried all safely to port.

Period One of Co-operation.

"We are anxious that this remarkable force of women shall culminate at some not too distant future in the great good of mankind, the special care of women and children, the special uplift, which should be our aim.

"The period is one of coöperation. National organizations have recognized our persistent, conservative effort toward right ends and have on every occasion asked the aid of organized, intelligent women in work of mutual interest.

"Coöperation, and not competition, is the secret of prosperity, and these national organizations have invited to membership and work upon their executive boards your president and the chairman of the department closely affiliated with their work. This has occurred in the national child labor committee, the national civic committee, the conservation association, the tuberculosis association, the peace congress, the American Civic association, and the American Federation of Arts."

There was a reception given by the local art department in the afternoon. It was discovered that Illinois has a larger delegation than any other state except Ohio.

First Conference on Dental Hygiene Is Opened with Prominent Speakers to Point Way, Especially to Children.

New York, May 12.—The campaign of the toothbrush began in earnest in this city today when the first dental hygiene conference and exhibit ever held here was opened with prominent speakers in attendance to direct the educational propaganda with especial attention to children.

Dentists estimate that 65 per cent of the school children are "dental cripples," and place the total number throughout the United States at 8,988,000.

In 11,000 cases, they say, other ills may be traced directly to defective teeth—or unhygienic mouths.

MRS. TORBET IS D. A. R. REGENT

Defeats Mrs. Frank R. Mullin by a Vote of 97 to 82.

ELECTION HAS HOT FINISH.

Mrs. S. W. Earle and Mrs. A. F. Ferry Among Others Chosen.

After a brief campaign of the "whirlwind" variety, Mrs. Frank R. McMullin and the "conservative party" of the Daughters of the American Revolution were defeated by Mrs. Lewis K. Torbet and the also so-called "revolutionary element" at the annual election held yesterday in Assembly room of the Fine Arts building. Mrs. McMullin agreed to become a candidate at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, having just returned from many weeks in the east.

The election opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and after this brief candidacy Mrs. McMullin polled a vote of 82, against 97 for Mrs. Torbet.

From the first there have been few candidates for the regency in the field. Mrs. Torbet announced her intention of running a year ago. Later on Mrs. Frank L. Wean, the retiring regent, was urged to become a candidate again, but owing to her frail health she refused to consider a second term.

Mrs. A. C. Bartlett Withdraws.

A month or more ago the "conservatives" prevailed upon Mrs. A. C. Bartlett to head their ticket, but less than a week ago she withdrew. Mrs. McMullin, who also had been spoken of earlier, was in the east at the time, but immediately upon her return she was prevailed upon to allow her name to stand that there might be two tickets in the field.

The day was filled with excitement and hurried telephone calls brought out a representative gathering of both divisions. Mrs. Wean was too ill to be present and Mrs. G. Ellwood McGrew, first vice regent, took the chair. Mrs. Charles H. Conover placed Mrs. McMullin in nomination, with Mrs. John N. Jewett, Mrs. Frederick Dickinson, Mrs. J. H. Kaufmann, and Mrs. Pennoyer Sherman seconding the nomination. Miss Geneva Armstrong placed Mrs. Torbet's name before the meeting, Mrs. Francis Everett and Mrs. Mary Moncure Parker seconding.

Contests for Other Offices.

Mrs. McGrew, who had been a candidate for first vice regent, withdrew, leaving the choice of Mrs. Samuel Williams Earle unanimous. Mrs. Abbie Farwell Ferry won the second vice regency over Mrs. Frederick K. Bowes, and the other officers chosen were Mrs. A. H. Dainty, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles B. Salmon, corresponding secretary; Mrs. I. C. Cope, historian; Mrs. E. E. Smith, treasurer; Mrs. Bertha Smith Titus, Mrs. M. B. Talcott, Mrs. T. Henry Green, Mrs. W. B. Austin, Mrs. Arthur E. Kesler, Mrs. Charles White, and Mrs. F. R. Babcock directors.

At the business meeting of the afternoon it was decided to ask the board of education to teach the children of the schools to rise at the singing of the national songs, and, further, to instruct janitors to lower the flags on school buildings at night and to replace tattered flags with good ones.

A resolution also was adopted requesting members to write to congressmen and senators protesting against the proposed abolition of the division of information, whose duties are to promote the distribution of aliens throughout the United States, preventing congestion in the cities.

CONFUSED; HIT BY AUTO.

Aged Man Given Assistance by Doctor Whose Car Injures Him.

Confused by the clanging of street car gongs and the honk of automobile horns, Carl Peterson, 68 years old, of 2617 Best avenue, ran directly in front of an automobile at Lincoln and Sheffield avenues last night at 7:30 o'clock and was injured. The car which ran him down is owned and was driven by Dr. Dwight C. Orcutt, 3830 North Robey street. Dr. Orcutt stopped his machine and gave the aged man medical attendance. He then took him to the Augastana hospital, where it was reported last night that he would recover.

WOMAN'S HAT STIRS BAPTISTS

Cuts Off Vision of Ten and She Is Asked to Remove It.

SIX DELEGATES GO OUT.

Convention Closes Tonight with Talk by Former Gov. Folk.

One woman's hat can cut off the vision of ten persons, according to a poll taken yesterday among delegates to the Baptist convention in Bartlett hall.

Col. E. H. Haskell, chairman of the meeting, stopped an exciting discussion on missionary campaigns long enough to read this notice:

"Will the lady with the large hat kindly remove it and oblige four men and six women who haven't seen the platform this afternoon?"

Half a dozen wearers of big hats arose and left the hall rather than obey the edict, and 200 others removed their hats under the impression that they were the ones referred to.

President Judson declined the position of president of the Northern Baptist association, and Emory W. Hunt, president of Denison university, was elected to succeed him. The rest of the ticket was:

Vice presidents—G. W. Brimson, Chicago; Corwin S. Shank, Seattle.

Secretaries—W. C. Bitting, St. Louis; George W. Doleman, Boston.

Treasurer—William E. Lincoln, Philadelphia.

The Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher of Los Angeles made a plea for a central church in the downtown district of every large city. The convention will close tonight with addresses by former Gov. Joseph Folk of Missouri and the Rev. T. D. Anderson of Albany, N. Y.

MANY FACE THRILLING PERILS IN NORTHERN FOREST FIRES.

Settlers Lose Everything but Clothes on Their Backs—Submerge Selves in River to Save Lives.

St. Paul, Minn., May 12.—Settlers in the vicinity of Grand Marais who have lost their homes and everything else except the clothes on their backs began arriving in that village today, according to reports by wireless telegraph.

One group arrived after they had spent the night lying in the bed of a stream and part of the time were compelled to submerge themselves to keep the flames from burning the clothes from their bodies. In this party were five children who were so badly burned that they are being cared for in a hospital in Grand Marais.

At Gooseberry river and along Beaver bay the flames are eating their way through the woods. From Park bay to Tofte and as far as the eye can see timber is on fire. From Good Harbor to Grand Marais fires burned at intervals.

A new building will be erected for the combined schools at 1360 Fulton street, and will be ready for occupancy Oct. 1. The combination will give Loyola a medical department with 300 students, and raise the total attendance to more than 1,000.

SUES FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

Woman Says Chicagoan Broke Troth Because He Was Too Old.

SHE NOW WANTS $20,000.

Stories of Ice Cream Suppers and "Forget-Me-Not" Card Her Evidence.

Do you think a proposal of marriage naturally would follow gifts of ice cream, and of a hand painted, beveled card inscribed "Forget-Me-Not" and with flowers, and hearts, and doves and clasped hands on it? Do you believe that a man—an old man—who thought enough of a woman to give her such things just couldn't help wanting to make her his wife, even if he later changed his mind?

Mrs. Martha Arbuckle of Joliet, yesterday filed a $20,000 breach of promise suit against John W. Turner of 1854 Addison avenue, Chicago. She avers that on Oct. 1, 1909, he asked her to marry her, that she accepted, and further that after they had been engaged some time he stopped going to see her, and said he was too old anyway to marry.

The "Forget-Me-Not" card and stories of ice cream suppers which the widow says he gave to her will form part of her evidence.

Mr. Turner is 63 years old, and is president of the Universal Pneumatic Transmission company. Mrs. Arbuckle is the divorced wife of Oscar E. Arbuckle, an old friend of Turner.

"I have known her for a long time, but only as a friend of her former husband," said Turner. "I did not visit her, and had no intimation until the suit was filed, that our friendship was regarded even as personal."

ADVISES NEGROES TO MARRY WHITES

Clarence S. Darrow of Chicago Urges Amalgamation of the Two Races.

SPEAKS TO BLACK MEN.

Tells Former Slaves They Need Some One Now to Teach Them Not to Work.

New York, May 12.—Clarence S. Darrow, the Socialist lawyer of Chicago, in an address tonight at the second annual conference of the national negro committee, in Cooper union, wiped out the color line and urged race amalgamation as the solution of the race problem. He criticised Booker T. Washington and told his hearers that what the negro needs is some one to teach him not to work.

"It may be a long way in the future, but intermarriage between the races finally will settle all difficulties as it has in the case of the Irish and Germans and other people who formerly had to be kept apart in order to preserve the peace," he said.

Not a Question of Color?

"It is not the color which causes the distinction between the negroes and the white people. The real barrier is the fact that negroes were once slaves and that today they are in the ranks of labor. It is a labor question rather than a race problem, and the way for the negro to obtain recognition is to cast his lot boldly with the poor and fight with them and for them. The cause of the poor is his cause—and his cause is theirs."

Booker T. Washington, the speaker described as "that modest, self-abasing optimist who builds industrial colleges to teach his people to lay bricks for the white man and to perform manual labor of the lowest kind."

Some Views on Labor.

"What you really need," he continued, "is some one to teach you not to work. Your people have worked from the beginning. You have earned your bread by the sweat of your brow so long that now when you ask for an increase in wages it is considered ludicrous and is regarded in the same light as if some one demanded that a horse's wages should be increased."

GEORGE E. COLE DECLINES TO BE A "DRY" CANDIDATE.

"Not a Prohibitionist and Never Expect to Be," Says Chicago Reform Leader After His Nomination.

George E. Cole, former president of the Legislative Voters' league and for years an active force in other reform organisations, who was nominated at Decatur on Wednesday as Prohibition candidate for state treasurer, has declined to be a candidate. He said yesterday he was not and did not expect to be a Prohibitionist.

The nomination was made by W. F. Mulvihill of this city at the convention and was the only name mentioned for this office.

In a letter to Alonzo E. Wilson, chairman of the Prohibition state central committee, Mr. Cole said his name had been entered without his knowledge or consent.

"Had I been consulted in this matter," he said, "I would have declined positively and peremptorily, as I am not a Prohibitionist, never have been, and do not expect to be.

"While I sometimes have supported Prohibition, Socialist, and independent candidates for office, such action always has been taken as a protest against unfit old party candidates and especially as a protest against the vicious practice of the Republican and Democratic parties of limiting the number of legislative candidates in such a way as practically to disfranchise voters."

MAY CUT SIZE OF U. S. NOTES

Treasury Considers 'Shinplaster' Currency Desirable.

WILL SAVE MUCH MONEY.

Cost of Printing and Paper Will Be Reduced by Change.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—A reduction in the size of the paper money of the United States will be made if Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh accepts recommendations that will be made to him within a few weeks by a committee of treasury officials appointed to investigate this and other proposed reforms.

The object of the proposed change is to supply the country with a size of currency more convenient for handling and to save the government $500,000 a year in paper and engraving.

The new sized banknote to be recommended is about one-fourth as large as the notes now in circulation. The present notes are of a size that has been the standard for generations.

Committee Studies Subject.

The idea that a smaller size might be more convenient and at the same time save a lot of money to the general government occurred to Secretary MacVeagh and Assistant Secretary Norton soon after they assumed charge of the treasury department. A committee was appointed at once to study the proposition and report conclusions.

An experiment of the advantages of the change has been made with the Philippine island currency, which is engraved at the treasury. The Philippine bank note is about one-fourth the size of the American bank note, and is extremely attractive in appearance. It is printed also on a thinner and finer grade of paper, and altogether is pronounced more convenient than the paper money of any nation.

Will Save U. S. Much Money.

On account of the smaller size, five instead of four notes can be engraved on a page of currency note paper, and this, in addition to the economy of paper, means a tremendous saving.

A good deal of objection to the proposed change has been heard from banks, but some of the objectors, when shown the Philippine notes, have admitted their conversion to the proposition.

Alleged Swindler Taken Away.

Salvatore Giambrone, a merchant wanted in Boston in connection with an alleged $75,000 merchandise swindle, was turned over to detectives from that city yesterday. Giambrone was arrested here while superintending the unloading of goods from freight cars.

Mrs. Pomeroy, the mother, and Miss Roxane Pomeroy will leave the city later in the summer to sail for Europe, where they will join Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Elopers Will Marry Again.

Announcement that Miss Florence Black, 17 years old, of 4513 Forrestville avenue, is to marry Irving Goldsmith of Philadelphia according to the Jewish rites tomorrow night discloses that the young couple already have been united by a civil ceremony.

They eloped to Crown Point last Saturday and were married by Justice of the Peace George W. Fisher. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Black, were startled at the news and summoned the groom's widowed mother, Mrs. R. Goldsmith. After a family council the parents bestowed their blessings upon the young folks and then engaged Rabbi Tobias Schanfarber to tie the knot over again.

Miss Black met Goldsmith, who says he is 22 years old, while visting in Philadelphia a few months ago, and he arrived in Chicago to visit her family last Saturday. They told no one of their wedding plans.

News of the Theaters.

News Notes of the Theaters.

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

MISS RACHEL CROTHERS' new play, "A Man's World," presented by Miss Mary Mannering at the Garrick, is a light preachment against the rule that there are two rules of moral conduct—one for man, another for woman. Also it is an interesting recital of several dramatic incidents appropriate to that text, giving a more or less atmospheric representation of "artist" life in New York. The circumstance around which the play is written is the discovery by a young woman novelist that the past of the man who wishes her to marry him includes an unsavory chapter and that in fact he is the father of her adopted child. The play is excellently acted by Miss Mary Mannering as the woman and by Mr. Frank Mills as the man. It is proving so popular at the Garrick that Miss Mannering's engagement there has been indefinitely prolonged. The performance will be reported more in detail at another time.

Like the young London author who has dramatized the unearned increment, Mr. William Anthony McGuire has put the high cost of living into a play. He calls it "Meat." Besides a dramatic treatment of the "cheaper cut" question, Mr. McGuire presents two sisters of different types—one who lives well but not wisely, the other who prefers to starve rather than sacrifice her honesty.

Arrangements are progressing for performances in Chicago of the "Elektra" of Sophocles by Mr. Raymond Duncan, a brother of Miss Isadora Duncan, the dancer.

The engagement of "The Upstart" will end at the Ziegfeld on May 22, and on the day following the management will undertake a revival of Bronson Howard's "Aristocracy," played by J. H. Gilmour, instructor of acting in the Chicago Musical college, and a cast now in course of organization.

Another new play ready for launching is "The Prosecutor," a dramatization of "The Red Mouse." The actors to be in it will include Miss Laura Nelson Hall, and the Messrs. Orrin Johnson, Emmett Corrigan, Repley Holmes, and Charles E. Verner.

Miss Hall tells of her interview with the census taker in this fashion:

Enter the census taker.

Julia, the ebony maid: "Miss Hall, this yere's the man wot asks questions."

Miss Hall: "Just so; man who asks questions, proceed."

Miss Hall (tapping her forehead to aid memory, recalls her nearly forgotten, not yet legally abandoned wedded name).

Census taker: "How many times have you been married?"

Miss Hall: "Three times, but I'm not living with my husband."

Census taker: "What is your occupation?"

Miss Hall: "You look like a bright man. Married three times, not living with my husband. What occupation do you think I have?"

Census taker: "You're an actress."

Mr. James Lackaye's actor-brother, Mr. Wilton Lackaye, and his associates in the New York City revival of "Jim the Penman" will come hither for a fortnight of the old play at the end of the stipulated four weeks' run in the eastern metropolis. The newspapers there find the play a bit old-fashioned, but laud the actors for having attacked the composition in the right spirit. As some of Mr. Lackaye's associates have had what is known as a sound training in the work of the theater, an interesting performance ought to result—provided, of course, that individual assertiveness does not, as it generally does in these "all-star" affairs, take the place of regard for the ensemble. Among the performers for whose talent we possess respect may be listed Mr. John Mason, Mr. Theodore Roberts, Mr. Arthur Forrest, Mr. Louis Massen, and Miss Florence Roberts. Chicago is not wholly bereft of persons who remember—and insist on telling us—how Mr. E. M. Holland or Mr. W. J. Ferguson played the rôle of the detective, to which Mr. Mason is now assigned; how artistic and appealing the late Agnes Booth was as the forger's patient wife, Miss Roberts' character; how Frederick Robinson dominated everything as Jim Ralston, Mr. Lackaye's part; and so on, ad infinitum, as is the way with persons obsessed by recollections of other days in the theater.

Miss SOPHIE TUCKER
American Music Hall

Miss Tucker is a robust chanteuse whose resonant realism affords diversion for the audience at the American Music hall this week.

The Messrs. Kohl, Castle, and Middleton, who control the Haymarket, Academy of Music, Bijou, and Star theaters on the west side, will change the policies of those houses Aug. 1. At that time the Haymarket will become a standard priced theater presenting attractions booked by the Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger; the Academy will become a vaudeville house; the Bijou will be the seat of a melodrama stock company, and the Star will renounce vaudeville for an organization of resident players. Col. William Roche will have the direction of the four theaters and his assistant will be Mr. Ralph T. Kettering, now associated with Powers'.

"Lulu's Husbands," with Miss Mabel Barrison and Mr. Harry Connor in the cast, is announced for a summer season at the Lyric. "The Lottery Man" is suggested as the warm weather attraction at the Garrick.

Mr. Augustus Thomas is the author of a play called "The Member from Ozark," which the Messrs. Cohan and Harris are arranging to produce next season. There are no symptoms of Mr. Thomas' metaphysics in "The Member from Ozark," and it is said to be a return to his former style of high class melodrama.

The theatrical treasurers' testimonial will take place at the Auditorium this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Those on the program will be Richard Carle, James J. Morton, the Aborn Opera company, Mabel Hite and Mike Donlin, Ralph C. Herz, Lina Abarbanell, Johnny Ford, Harry Watson, Elizabeth Murray, Whitehead and Grierson, Joseph C. Smith in the "Apache Dance," assisted by Adele Rowland, Heras Family, Jack Gardner, Harry Pilcer, John Ransome, Conrad the Great, May Tully and company, Halligan and Ward, Willard Simms, Caine and Odom, and Archie Guerin. E. P. Temple will be stage manager. James J. Morton will announce the acts. The members of the chorus of "Madame Sherry" will sell programs in the lobby.

Mr. Joseph Medill Patterson has made known his intention of writing a four-act play of which his one-act composition called "Dope" shall be the basis. A different title will be used for the longer play. His other short play, "By-Products," represented a reduction from a four-act drama which bore the title of "Mary McLinda." Although the longer play had been read and praised by the manager who produced both "A Little Brother of the Rich" and "The Fourth Estate," it was the author's own opinion that it would have no general appeal. "By-Products" was, in essence, act I. of "Mary McLinda," acts II., III., and IV. dealing with the "long journey the fortune teller spoke about." It may be stated that the journey was unmarked by either poetic or spiritual loveliness.

A little slipper, a half-open fan, a tossed away chamois skin, beside a burnt-out candle, near the Matinée Girl in the Mirror, are the emblems of the passing of Lotta Faust which Malcolm Strauss has drawn in the corner of the photographs of the portrait he painted from memory after her death, and which he has loaned to the Actors' Fund fair.

Mr. Charles L. Sullivan, a student of the University of Chicago and the president of the Reynolds club of that institution will instruct the patrons of the Majestic next week as to Halley's comet. His exposition will be illustrated by photographs.

In the course of the engagement here of the New Theater company special afternoon performances will be given at Mandel hall of the University of Chicago, and in Milwaukee and Springfield.

In her new play, "Anti-Matrimony," Miss Henrietta Crosman will have the rôle of a clergyman's wife. Those who have read the manuscript say that it is the best thing that Percy Mackaye has yet written, and that if it doesn't aim as high as some of his blank verse efforts it hits the chord of popular sympathy, and that it is a real farce.

"My idea in writing 'Husband' for Miss Grace George," says Mr. John Corbin, "is to show the American husband in a more favorable light. So many plays have been built about the American woman—the girl this and the girl that. It struck me that the American man has built this country and that the wife is sometimes a much less important person than she thinks she is. Perhaps it strikes you that this is not exactly a star play for a woman. But the acting part is rewarding. The woman in my play has a tendency to boss and even ignore her husband until she learns better, and, of course, that supplies the comedy complication. She is not shown in a sympathetic light, it is true, but the appeal is not for sympathy, but for interest."

Managers Discuss "Open Door" Policy.

New York, May 12.—(Special.)—It was decided at a meeting of the directors of the National Association of Theatrical Producing Managers held today to confer with John Cort, president of the National Theater Owners' association, and other one night stand managers who have seceded from the syndicate, in regard to the open door policy for which the theater owners have declared.

The meeting was a stormy one from the start, it appears. When the resolution was introduced to confer with the insurgent theater owners and managers there was much opposition at first. After acrimonious debate the majority decided to see Mr. Cort some time within a week.

This decision of the association is a direct slap at the syndicate following the meeting on Monday, at which those producing managers directly and financially associated with Klaw & Erlanger reaffirmed their loyalty to the syndicate.

The Wide, Wide World.

City 3,000 Years Old on High Hill in Sicily.

BY GEORGE A. DORSEY, PH. D., LL. D.

[Copyright: 1910: By The Tribune Company.]

CASTROGIOVANNI, Sicily, Feb. 28.—In many ways this is the most interesting town I have seen in Sicily. Perhaps better than any other one city it characterizes all that is typical and peculiar to Sicilian geography and history.

It has had a continuous history for nearly 3,000 years. It was a great city even before the Greeks discovered Sicily. It was mighty under the Greeks, was a Carthagenian stronghold, it was a great Roman city. The Saracens captured it and sold some of its women as slaves in Bagdad. It was a Norman stronghold. It is the powder magazine of Sicily today. It commands the heart of Sicily. It is an important center of emigration. It has not been changed or marred by modern progress.

Castrogiovanni is in the province of Caltanisetta, which rivals Girgenti in wildness and primitive savagery and is second only to Girgenti in the number of its homicides. For every 100,000 inhabitants, homicides for Girgenti are sixty-five, as compared with forty-two for Caltanisetta. The other provinces rank in this order: Palermo, Catania, Trapani, Messina, Syracuse. The extent and prevalence of crime in Girgenti and Caltanisetta may be realized when we consider that of all Europe Italy stands highest in crime, and homicide is sixteen times more frequent in Sicily than in northern Italy; eighteen times more frequent than in England.

Country Wild and Desolate.

Of the ride from Girgenti to Castrogiovanni I need not speak. You are already familiar with the wild, desolate character of the sulphur region, and towns far back from the stations, high up on the hills, with perfect right of way of the railroad, primitive trains, and incivil trainmen. At one little station I counted seventeen men in railway uniform.

The stations are not only devoid of comfort but generally dirty. Every station has its handful of rabble, rarely in rags but always in patches, and a few barefooted, grimy boys fighting among themselves for the ten by five inch bag which the Sicilian calls his baggage.

The so-called restaurant turns out to be a four foot long bench at the back of a dirty baggage room, with broken windows, and contains eleven bottles of liquors of assorted colors, nine hard boiled eggs, a foot of Naples sausage, and a dozen chunks of bread. About the stations are carabinieri, armed with rifle and revolver, to protect passengers and freight from being robbed.

At the station at Castrogiovanni we pile into an antiquated carriage, intended for four, but now so packed with seven that there is not space to move arm or leg. Two of the passengers carry shotguns—not for birds, but for self-preservation. The town is four miles above the station, a two hours' painful climb, winding and twisting back and forth along the face of the precipice to this natural fortress, 2,600 feet above sea level.

Lack of Stoves Felt.

With characteristic Sicilian courtesy the stage drops us at the stable. We continue to the hotel along a perfectly paved street of cut stone. The hotel is really comfortable, or rather it would be in summer. Now the rooms are cold and damp. The beds are made habitable by the insertion between the sheets of a copper pan of charcoal, well protected by a big wooden frame shaped like a rat trap. Between courses at meals we warm our hands over a copper pot of charcoal by grasping the two handles which cross at right angles over its top. The people you see in the shops hug to themselves such hand warmers.

Owing to its elevation Castrogiovanni is cold in winter. Snow at times fills the streets to a depth of three feet. The remains of a heavy fall are still found in shady corners.

At the end of the town and occupying the highest point on the summit of a twenty-four hundred foot high rock are the ruins of an ancient fort, on solid rock foundations. A narrow roadway leads around its three sides, which drop precipitously below. Here and there, in niches in the rock, are little springs of water. Women come and go, filling rude earthenware vases of Greek form.

Mounting the stone steps leading to the top of the rock, we enter the fort, two of the towers of which serve as a local prison. In one room, with massive walls of stone, were seven men awaiting trial.

Prisoners Are Late Risers.

Although after 7 o'clock in the morning only one had risen from his bunk. He was dressed like a gentleman, but in distress. While a soldier he had been stationed at Castrogiovanni, where he met a young woman. After returning to his business and wife and two children in Palermo he kept thinking of the girl in Castrogiovanni. He returned here and with the girl eloped. He is now awaiting trial.

We interviewed the other six prisoners, still reclining on their straw pallets on bench beds, each dressed in all his clothes and a night cap. One was awaiting trial for stealing two loaves of bread when drunk; one for murder, two for wounding men in fights growing out of a quarrel. Above the keeper's room, in another tower, were three women awaiting trial, all arrested for the malicious use of a knife in fights.

The most interesting of the recent homicides of Castrogiovanni was that of a young peasant laborer, who suspected a 29 year old representative of a princely family of making love to his wife. He gave out that he was going to Catania. He took the evening stage to the station below. He climbed the hill toward night and found the nobleman in his house. He killed him on the spot and his wife died eight days later from wounds.

The people of Castrogiovanni are indignant because the rich family of the murdered nobleman has engaged the services of a Neapolitan lawyer to make more probable the conviction of the husband. To them this looks like unfair use of wealth.

Better than the gray, lichen covered, ivy clad walls of the shut up old fort is the view from the top of the tower. All Sicily seems to be in sight. In every direction are high hills, snow covered mountains, or deep valleys. These valleys are lined with wheat and bean fields; the sides of the hills with almond and olive groves. Here and there is a lone pine or a line of eucalyptus. Toward the east smokes Etna; its summit black, its base gray, its great central slope covered with snow.

Occupying the summit of a nearby hill is Calascibetta, a primitive town rich in emigration and presumably in poverty. Beyond are Leonforte and Agira, both in the province of Catania. Beyond is Troina and still further Centuripe. Far away, also in Catania, other towns, varying in size from 10,000 to 25,000, and occupying the summit of hills, are in sight: Villarosa, Petralia, Sobrana, and Gaugi, all in the province of Palermo. To the west, Pizzo and Camarata can be seen. All send a steady stream of emigrants to New York.

The view to the south extends to the sea and to Licata, in the corner of the province of Girgenti. The city of Catania is too far away, but a glimpse of the Gulf of Catania may be had.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the wonderful view from this tower is little Lake Pergusa, about five miles to the south. It was here that Persephone was captured by Pluto. It seems that Zeus knew about it and to appease the mother, Hermes was sent to bring her back. But she had already eaten the pomegranate, as the result of which only a part of each year could she live with her mother. On earth she was the goddess of fertility; in hades, of death. It was this myth of the origin of death and life and of the succession of the seasons which formed the basis of the Eleusinian mysteries.

CARIBINIERI (MILITARY POLICE)

Founded by Greek Colonists.

In ancient times Castrogiovanni was called Enna. It was an old stronghold of the Sikels, from whom perhaps the Greeks derived some of their myths. The Greek city of Enna was founded by colonists from Syracuse in 664 B. C. The scene spread before one's feet in the tower still remains one of marvelous beauty, and it is easy to understand the beauty of the scene as extolled by the ancients.

Ovid and Cicero both praise its perpetual springlike climate and its wealth of flowers. Plutarch describes the freshness of its mountain air. Aristotle, Livy, Strabo, and many other writers of Greek and Latin tell of its forests, its lakes, and its perennial verdure. It was said that the odor of flowers was so strong as to deprive hunting dogs of the scent.

There is the inevitable filth in the Castrogiovanni of today, but there is a solidity about the walls of its palaces and churches, a uniformity of the soft grayness of its old stone walled buildings, and an absence of paint and cheap plaster which makes them in keeping with the subtle charm of the surrounding country. It is a real middle ages town. Windows and doors are barred and bolted, but the bars have been arranged with an eye to beauty. Instead of the usual narrow, cheap looking balconies of the second story windows are carved, delicate lattice work of iron.

Worn by Natural Sand Blast.

The wind shrieks through the streets and stone walled lanes and every corner of rock, fort or palace, exposed to the sand bearing winds from the southwest is scoured and pitted, depending upon the hardness of the stone. The streets, which are paved, are in perfect condition. The pavement, of heavy, black stone, will last for hundreds of years. Of the streets one bears the name of Pluto, another Proserpine, another Cicero.

Many of the streets, leading from the long street which curves through the town in a horseshoe shape, are not more than five or six feet wide. They are walled in by high houses, or the twelve foot high walls of palace gardens. The old cathedral has a beautiful portal, a finely carved marble pulpit, a grand, flat ceiling of carved wood, and the great stone columns which support it have curiously carved bases.

Castrogiovanni is a living museum. It seems a pity that some one cannot endow the town and make emigration unnecessary. Castrogiovanni should not be changed. It should be left as it is, perhaps the best preserved medieval town in Sicily. But even up here, people have come to a realization of their poverty.

Woman, Her Work and Interests

Just Between Us Girls.

BY SISTER MARY.

WHO is the most popular man of your acquaintance? If you answer honestly you will acknowledge it is not Arthur the Adonis but Tom, without a decent feature to bless himself with.

Extremely handsome men are rarely popular. You admire them from afar, but shy at living with them. It is hard to imagine the Apollo Belvedere as a parlor ornament.

A handsome man ought to be labeled "art exhibit" and carefully skied. Then beauty loving women could pay to admire what it does not pay to marry.

Shakspeare to the contrary, few wives will believe that "Beauty and good shape are the spice and salt that season a man." After a steady diet of marriage to the handsome man of the town most women would prefer unseasoned food.

Why is not the handsome man the greatest winner as a husband? Because beauty and vanity in the male sex are usually closely linked and the vain man is always in love with himself.

To do him justice, this inordinate opinion of himself is not always Adonis' fault. There have been such a lot of silly women strung along through his life teaching him to be self-conscious. From the time he was an infant in arms there have ever been feminine worshipers of his "beaux yeux."

The effect is as fatal as though Adonis were responsible for his self-appreciation. We may not, like cynical Bacon, feel "it is seldom that beautiful persons are otherwise of great virtue," but experience teaches we will have to dig for those virtues under a great mass of conceit, selfishness, and expected homage.

Women are beauty lovers. A girl I know kept a lover dangling for years because "he was so ugly." Her fancy was caught by an Adonis who would have made her miserable as a wife.

Being beauty lovers, it follows that the man who is a beauty becomes utterly spoiled. Not all of them, but so many that it is a rarity to find the man who can claim great good looks takes the trouble to be agreeable.

Men will rant about the exactions of the pretty girl. Do they ever give a thought to the effect of good looks on their own sex?

There is many a man—to use a common expression—"who travels on his shape." He knows he is good looking and works it for all he is worth to save himself exertion.

The handsome man is so used to admiration, being a heart smasher has become so natural, that though he may not be especially vain he is sure to be indifferent. He is so used to women of all ages being attentive to him that he lets them be, though at the cost of his manners.

The sensible woman, who prefers to be adored than adoring, therefore admires Adonis impersonally, but looks for more solid traits in husband choosing.

She knows if woman's beauty is but skin deep, man's is even less to be reckoned with as a happiness bringer. She prefers the beauty and beast combination, knowing that often "the polished heart makes amends for the rough countenance."

Half Worn Dresses.

If you have a half worn woolen, foulard, or any dress of which the skirt is short and partly worn on the lower edges, rip it apart, clean, and press. Then lay the center back of the skirt in an inlaid box plait. Buy taffeta silk of the same shade for one or two circular flounces, making them five inches deep in the front and ten in the back; finish the upper one with a hem an inch and a quarter wide, and two rows of stitching at the top and bottom; head with a band of the same width cut in shallow scallops or festoons. Finish each upward point of the crescent or scallop with three small flat silk buttons. These buttons cost about 70 cents a gross and six dozen will trim the band nicely. The lower flounce should be set down sufficiently to supply the desired length. A velveteen binding, stitched four times on the edges, will answer for a facing and a protection as well. This addition is appropriate for a skirt of either plain or figured material.

Health and Beauty.

BY MARIAN MARTINEAU.

Glossy Hair.

IF the hair is to be glossy and beautiful, the pores of the head must be kept open and the oil glands active by shampooing and massage. If it is not glossy it is not beautiful. Each individual must decide for herself how frequently a shampoo is required. It is not wise to wash dry hair as often as oily hair, nor is it necessary. Oily hair must be washed at least once in two weeks to keep it in good condition; dry hair about once in three weeks. The essential is to keep it clean and the scalp clean, loose, and active. Massage will help much in keeping the scalp in a good condition; it will stimulate the circulation and keep the scalp from becoming tight and drawn, which is a dangerous condition, a sure sign of trouble.

Complexion Bleach.

An excellent bleach for all minor discolorations and a fine lotion for oily skins: Four ounces oil of sweet almonds, ten ounces of fresh cucumber juice, three ounces essence of cucumber, one-half ounce of powdered white castile soap, forty drops tincture of benzoin. The juice of cucumbers is obtained by boiling them with a little water. Slice them thin, skin and all, and let them cook slowly until soft. Rub through a sieve and then strain through a cloth. The essence is made by mixing one and one-half ounces of this juice and one and one-half ounces of alcohol. Put the essence and the soap into a large jar or bottle; the larger the better, as the mixture will require much shaking. After a few hours, when the soap is dissolved, add the cucumber juice, shake until thoroughly mixed, then pour into a stone jar, and add the oil and benzoin slowly, stirring constantly until a creamy liquid is obtained. Put in small bottles and keep tightly corked and in the dark. Always shake well before using. It is important that the cucumber juice should be obtained with as little water as possible.

To Lengthen the Waist.

The line from throat to waist should be long not only for fashion but to give the room necessary for the digestive organs. The body is naturally flexible and will always stretch a trifle more. The following simple exercise is more effectual in lengthening the waist than many more elaborate ones. Standing firmly upon the balls of the feet, place the hands lightly on the hips, stretch the upper trunk as far upward as possible, head, neck, chest, and specially pull the waist muscles out of their usual restful position. From this point bend the trunk over to the right side ten times. Repeat to the left and then forward, keeping the head well up. When the backward bend is taken the head should be gently dropped back and the body bent backward, slowly and gradually. Remember that the spinal cord is delicate and must not be jerked. As a continuation of this exercise bend the trunk well forward and swing it around (from the hips up) from right to left until dizzy, when it is time to reverse the movement. This, as may easily be seen, is splendid exercise for the liver and digestion generally.

To Stimulate the Circulation.

Cold, clammy hands are indications of a lowered constitutional tone. Frequent bathing and rubbing briskly with a coarse towel to promote circulation will greatly relieve the condition. A simple, stimulating preparation, such as spirits of camphor or alcohol, thoroughly rubbed in the skin morning and night may be used with benefit.

Value of Ventilation.

The sleeping room that is not ventilated during occupancy and thoroughly aired each morning is dangerous. Do not be afraid to sleep with the windows open. As a matter of fact, in large cities night air is generally more free from impurities than is the air in the daytime.

Economical Housekeeping.

Pork Disguised and Otherwise.

PORK is not an aristocratic meat, although it is the basis of an enormous industry. Ham and bacon are given considerable honor, but it is seldom that a cook book gives a recipe for cooking fresh pork, and rarer that it gives one for salt pork, which is mainly used with baked beans, for larding and for greasing pans. Yet cold roast pork is almost as dainty as cold chicken, and far more acceptable to many people than veal, to which so much attention is given by cooks. It is only those who raise their own pork, perhaps, that enjoy to the fullest this meat. In other words country life furnishes the conditions for eating pork and the taste for it, though city butchers always have a supply and a market for it. Now that the price is so high pork will undoubtedly come to be regarded with greater esteem.

Out of 20,000 or more women who planned dinner menus on the 40 to 70 cent basis, not twenty included pork as the meat, which would seem to show that it is not held in high esteem by most families, and that it is comparatively little used in city homes from which nine-tenths, perhaps, of these recipes came. The following recipes suggest that pork may be cooked, in a variety of ways.

Mock Turkey—This is better made in a large quantity, using the cold meat next day, but as we are confining the cost to one meal, I will give only the amount of meat four people could reasonably eat. Select a pound and a half of pork off the loin. Prepare a dressing made as follows: Grate stale bread enough to make about three cupfuls; season with pepper, salt, a little sage, and a lump of butter the size of an egg. Moisten with a little water and pat it into a loaf. Put this in the bake dish or roasting pan and lay over it the loin of pork, fitting the ribs over the loaf of dressing. Bake in a slow oven, arranging the grates so that the meat will cook faster from the top. If there is danger of its burning, take half a cup of flour and half a teaspoon of baking powder and a little salt with enough water to make a stiff dough. Spread this over the pork. When serving you will find this "jacket" quite as palatable as any other part of the "turkey."—Mrs. J. T. Caldwell, 1715 Greenleaf avenue.

Irishman's Turkey—Buy spare ribs in two separate pieces. Place on one piece stuffing made as follows: One-half loaf of bread soaked and minced fine, one onion cut fine, a sprinkle of sage and thyme, salt and pepper, one-half teaspoon baking powder, and a small piece of butter. The baking powder takes the place of an egg. When nicely mixed place on sparerib, put on top piece and season meat. Put in pan with one-half cup of water. Bake in hot oven one hour, basting well, having first placed potatoes in bottom of pan around the "turkey."

Poor Man's Turkey—Season one and one-half pounds of pork chops with salt, pepper, and sage and roll in crumbs. Pile in a row in the roaster and place on one side a row of Irish potatoes cut in half. Bake forty-five minutes.—Mrs. D. K. Bowers, 4877 N. Ashland avenue.

Spareribs with Apple and Bread Crumb Dressing—Place spareribs in baking pan, with a layer of sliced apples over them. Cover this with a thin layer of grated bread crumbs and bake as usual.—Mrs. W. J. Black, 7134 Harvard avenue.

Pork Fillet—One and one-half pounds of pork off shoulder or butts, sliced. Season with pepper and salt. Make a filling of one cup of bread crumbs, one tablespoon butter. Moisten bread with one-third cup of water. Add one egg beaten up light. Season with one-half teaspoon of sweet marjoram, pepper, and salt. Add two chopped apples. Pile on slices of meat. Cover with another slice. Sew up edges or hold together with meat skewers. Roast in oven forty minutes. Baste frequently.—Mrs. M. Lange, 454 West Sixtieth street.

EIGHT STUDENTS DROWNED IN POND

Six Girls and Two Boys Lose Their Lives in Millpond in Pennsylvania.

RESCUER TRIES IN VAIN.

Plunges Back Into Water to Assist Companion, but Goes Down with Her.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., May 12.—Eight high school students, six girls and two boys, lost their lives today while boating on what is known as the old Paper Mill dam pond at Huntington Mills, about twenty miles below this city, in the lower end of Luzerne county.

The Dead.

BOWMAN, RUTH, aged 18 years.
DAVENPORT, IRIS, aged 16 years.
DODSON, RAY, aged 17 years.
GOOD, MADELINE, aged 17 years.
[illegible], CAROLYN, aged 16 years.
MINNICH, ROBERT, aged 18 years.
SUTLIFFE, MAUD, aged 17 years.
THOMPSON, RACHEL, aged 16 years.

Twelve students of the Huntington high school obtained two boats at the noon hour and started for a row on the mill pond. The pond is nearly half a mile in width.

Take Girls from Leaky Boat.

When the two craft had reached the center of the body of water it was noticed that one of them had sprung a leak. The two boats were then pulled together by the young men in the party and an effort was being made to transfer the girls from the leaky boat to the safer craft. The last one of the party had scarcely set foot in the second boat when it began to sink.

The girls were helpless to save themselves and the boys of the party, with the exception of Dodson, being expert swimmers, struck out for the shore, which all reached in safety.

Minnich, in the excitement, it is presumed, thought that all the young women had succeeded in reaching land. He had no sooner gained the bank than he noticed the girls hanging to the rapidly sinking boat. The boy dashed into the water and swam swiftly to the water filled craft.

Rescuer Drowns with Girl.

Only two of the girls were clinging to the boat, the others having gone down for the last time. Seizing Miss Davenport, Minnich again started for the shore, but the exertion was too much for the gallant lad and the two went down together when they were within a stone's throw of the bank.

When the boat sprang a leak there was no excitement among the members of the party, but as soon as the sound craft began to fill with water it appeared as if every member became terror stricken. The shrieks of the drowning girls could have been plainly heard on the bank of the pond, but there was no one near who could launch another boat and go to the rescue.

NEW ORLEANS WOMEN FIGHT TO GET ADOPTED CHILDREN.

Carload of Little Orphans Arrives from New York and Distribution at Station Causes Mad Scramble.

New Orleans, La., May 12.—[Special.] Amid a wild scene at the union station, twenty-five foundlings brought to this city from the New York Foundling asylum were distributed to families that had adopted them today.

The train pulled into the station a little after 11 o'clock, and, despite the fact that an extra police detail had been provided, the anxious foster parents of the little ones on the train broke through the ropes and surged around the coaches containing the foundlings.

The children were numbered, and the people to whom they were given had little envelopes containing the numbers of the children. Each time Joseph C. Butler, the representative of the asylum here, came on to the platform of the coach with a baby in his arms there was a wild scramble, and when he called out the number there was a greater rush as some woman bearing the number and blue envelope pushed through the crowd with almost superhuman strength, knocking men aside, and claimed the prize.

U. S. TO SIFT A FATAL WRECK

Inquiry Into Saltillo Accident in Which Twelve Died.

CHIVALRY COST SIX LIVES.

Chicago Boy Describes Tragedy Which He and Mother Escaped.

St. Louis, Mo., May 12.—Federal investigation of the sinking of the packet City of Saltillo in the Mississippi river at Glen Park, Mo., last night, which cost twelve lives, will begin as soon as the crew of the ill fated vessel arrives here. Seven passengers and five of the crew were drowned by the tilting of the gang plank when it hit a tree.

That the loss of the lives was due to the mistake of ordering the passengers to hurry from the sinking boat when it was near the shore was the assertion of Capt. Crane.

Testimony at the inquest showed that the chivalry of the men who permitted the women passengers to start across the gang plank first cost the lives of five women and a baby. Capt. Harry N. Crane ordered the men to stand aside until the women left the boat.

Carl Blair, 17 years old, who was with his mother, Mrs. Bessie Blair of 206 North Park avenue, Austin, Chicago, described the wreck.

"It all happened so quickly I can't remember half of it," said the boy. "I ran with the crowd to the deck, where the captain told us every moment was precious and to go to shore as soon as the gangplank was lowered. But the boat was moving around and the gangplank caught in the trees along the shore and wouldn't go down.

"In the excitement I lost track of my mother and I finally jumped overboard and didn't find it hard to get ashore by the aid of a floating board. Mother had been on the end of the boat near the gangplank and when the boat careened she was thrown over. She had presence of mind enough to reach the boat when she came up, and clung to the part above water until she was rescued. She was the last woman rescued."

HYDE'S ATTORNEY MAKES JURY WEEP

Delivers Seven Hour Argument in Favor of Doctor Accused of Murder.

WIFE'S PLIGHT FEATURE.

Defendant's Counsel Calls Chemist Vaughn a "Hired Executioner."

Kansas City, Mo., May 12.—For almost seven hours today Attorney Frank P. Walsh addressed the jury which is sitting in judgment upon Dr. B. Clark Hyde here. Mr. Walsh closed his address shortly before 6 o'clock, and at a night session Attorney Johnson H. Atwood spoke in behalf of the state.

Not a phase of the Swope mystery was left untouched by Mr. Walsh. Mr. Atwood's address dealt more specifically with the investigations made by the prosecution's scientists. He had made a special study of this feature of the case.

Mrs. Swope's Word Unsupported.

"If you hang Clark Hyde," declared Mr. Walsh at one point in his argument, "it will be upon the word of one woman alone—Mrs. Logan O. Swope. It is she that swears the physician knew of the residuary clause in Col. Swope's will. It is the contention of the state that knowledge of this clause, and the benefits it would bring to him and his wife, caused the defendant to kill Col. Swope."

Frequently during Mr. Walsh's speech different jurors wept. At one time four of them were crying. Neither Mrs. Hyde nor Mrs. Swope could conceal her emotion as the intricate details of the case were laid bare.

Mrs. Hyde Used to Excite Sympathy.

No opportunity was lost by Dr. Hyde's attorney to bring the plight of Mrs. Hyde, who sat by her husband's side, before the jury. She was referred to at least fifty times.

The state's chemists were excoriated by the attorney. Dr. Victor C. Vaughn was termed "the hired executioner of Dr. Hyde."

BY R. W. LARDNER.

John McGraw and his Giants left for St. Louis last night with one victory over the Cubs to their credit. Persons who hoped to see Capt. Evers' men make it four straight didn't get even a "look-in" on that hope. The final contest of the series went to New York, 9 to 1, almost a forfeit score.

The Cubs played as badly as in Monday's game, but New York refused to follow suit. With George Wiltse working just about at his best and the Giants supporting him nicely there was hardly a chance for west siders to root to any extent, especially as Harry McIntire and Kit Carson were off color and their support was full of holes.

The result might be attributed to a recently passed rule, of which McGraw took advantage. In naming his battery to Umpire Johnstone, Evers first said it would be McIntire and Kling. Manager Chance, who was sitting in a box next the home bench, thought Brown would do better than Mac, so he ordered John to use him. So Mr. Johnson announced that Brown would pitch instead of McIntire. The rule says that the pitcher first named must perform against at least one batsman. McGraw remembered this and chased to the plate with a protest, evidently being in fear of Mordecai. Johnstone recognized the justice of Muggsy's spiel and told Evers it would have to be McIntire at the start anyway.

Carson a Wild Young Man.

Carson came forward for the last two rounds and was pretty bad. His wildness and ineffectiveness had a disastrous effect on the rest of the home team. For eight innings Heine Zimmerman fielded perfectly, but when he saw the others going to the bad he grew jealous and succeeded in bunching two boots in the final scene.

Wiltse gave almost as many passes as McIntire, but was too good to let them cause his downfall. A walk was bunched with Schulte's two bagger in the third for the Cubs' lone run. They started a couple of rallies after that, but one of them was choked by loose base running and the other by a double play.

Luderus was kept out of it because he showed a dislike for left handed pitching on the previous day. Hofman was at first base once more and didn't help either his fielding or batting average to any extent. Larry Doyle of the Giants had drawn a three days' suspension for the kicking he did in Tuesday's affair and Fletcher took an active part.

The improvement in the weather moved Manager Chance to leave his sick bed and view the pastime. He was muffled up to the neck and didn't suffer from the cold, but he certainly must have suffered from what he saw.

McIntire's Aim Poor at Start.

McIntire's poor aim got him in trouble after two were out in the first inning. He walked Red Murray and Red stole. Cy Seymour promptly supplied a single to center on which the blonde trotted home. There wasn't anything like a hit mixed up in New York's next run, which came in the second. Devlin walked right at the outset. Merkle bunted and McIntire had time to force Arthur at second, but his throw pulled Heine off the bag and every one was safe. Myers' out advanced both runners and Wiltse's long fly to Beaumont scored Devlin. Beau threw the ball to Steiny to catch Merkle and the latter started back to second, but was nailed.

In the Cub's third, McIntire drew a pass. Evers flied to Devore and Wiltse threw out Sheckard, Mac going to second. Schulte floated a two bagger over Bridwell's head and the ex-Dodger registered the lonesome run. The Giants got that one back in the fifth. Myers walked and Wiltse was safe on Steinfeldt's fumble. Devore popped a bunt which McIntire almost caught with one hand. It looked so much as if he would catch it that Myers stopped on the path and was forced at third after Mac had dropped and picked up the ball. Fletcher grounded to Zimmerman, who stepped on second, forcing Devore. McIntire had two strikes on Murray, but Red came back with a Texas leaguer over Steiny and Wiltse counted.

One More Helpful Pass.

Another pass, Mac's last one, gave the Giants a start in the seventh. With one out, Wiltse walked and moved up on Devore's single over second. Zimmerman checked Fletcher's drive enough to hold Wiltse at third. Murray flied to Beaumont and the lefthander scored after the catch. Seymour gave a hit and run sign and pulled a single between Evers and Hofman, scoring Devore. Schulte pegged to Steinfeldt to draw Cy off first and he accomplished his purpose. Fletcher also was drawn off third and Steiny held on to the ball until Doyle's understudy was persuaded to try for home. Then he was caught for the third out.

Carson didn't have much luck in his first inning, which was the eighth. Bridwell singled and Devlin tried to hit into a double play. Bridwell was forced all right, but Hofman droped Evers' relay and Arthur was safe. Merkle connected with a pitch that was a foot over his head and made a two bagger out of it, Devlin going to third. A wild pitch, nine miles above Kling, brought Arthur in and sent Merkle to third. Myers already had fanned and Wiltse popped to Hofman.

Zim Starts Bungling.

Devore beat a bunt in the ninth and was lucky enough to pick out a good time to steal, going all the way to third on a passed ball. Fletcher tripled to right center, scoring him. Zimmerman then got busy and messed Murray's roller, Fletcher going home. Murray stole second and moved to third on Seymour's out. Sheckard made a nice catch of Bridwell's foul and a nice skip throw home, but the ball skipped right past Kling and Murray was safe. Devlin then singled and stole, Kling's wild throw sending him to third. On one of Carson's long windups he tried to steal home, and probably would have made it with a slide, but he stopped before he reached home and was out.

The Cubs bunched a couple of hits in the sixth, but to no avail. Sheckard singled and Schulte flied to Murray. Hofman's little fly was just out of Devlin's grasp, but it struck him on the tips of his fingers and rolled across the foul line. Sheck thought he could get to third, but he was mistaken and also out. Artie pulled up at second, but Steiny's best bounded to Wiltse.

Beaumont and Zimmerman singled in succession in the seventh. Kling hit into a double play, and Tinker, batting for McIntire, flied to Devore. With one out in the ninth Steinfeldt doubled to left. Beaumont fouled to Devlin. Bridwell's bad throw, New York's only error, saved Zimmerman, and Kling ended it all by grounding to Wiltse.

NOTES OF THE CUBS.

The Doves from Boston will open a series of four games this afternoon.

Jack Pfiester, usually most effective against the Boston club, probably will pitch, with Brown in reserve.

Devlin made a nice catch of Evers' foul in the first inning, reaching arms' length into a field box to grab it.

Joe Tinker may get back into the game today. He was able to take a turn at bat in a pinch yesterday, although he couldn't deliver.

Boston will finish its stay here next Monday afternoon. The Dodgers will follow for four games and the Phillies are to come after them for a cluster of five battles.

Christy Mathewson warmed up with Wiltse before the game. McGraw picked the left hander after consulting them both. Matty couldn't have done much better than George.

Frank Schulte promises to hand over this afternoon a work of art entitled "Ode to Ida, a Mystery Poem." He refused to reveal Ida's identity or tell the wherefore of the mystery part.

There was a yelp of delight from the bugs when the score board showed that Brooklyn finally had whipped the Pirates. The crowd was looking for something to be happy over, and couldn't find it in the local game.

CUBAN STARS WIN CLOSE GAME FROM CHICAGO GIANTS, 2 TO 1.

Gonzales, Twirler for Victors, Hits a Timely Single in Second, Scoring the Necessary Tallies.

Gonzales, twirling for the Cuban Stars, won his own game yesterday against the Chicago Giants at Red Sox park by rapping out a single in the second inning, with men on second and third after two were down, the islanders winning, 2 to 1. The game was a pitchers' battle after the second inning, Gonzales and Norman twirling great ball and being given excellent support. The same teams will clash again today. Score:

"COMMY" WINS BASEBALL CASE.

New Orleans Must Pay Sox Leader $750 in Ten Days for Two Players, Says Commission.

Cincinnati, O., May 12.—The national baseball commission today decided that a ninety day promissory note for $750 was not sufficient payment by the New Orleans club of the Southern league for Players Rohe and Dundon, sold to it by the Chicago American league club two years ago. President Comiskey of the latter club had complained to the commission that he had been unable to obtain the money due him except in the form of the note. The commission found that the note was conclusive evidence that the claim was valid, and ordered that the New Orleans club pay the money within ten days.

MICHIGAN LOSES BY ERRORS.

Lothrop's Miscues and Kling's Hit in the Ninth Give Syracuse the Victory, 2 to 1.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 12.—[Special.]—Kling's hit in the ninth inning, following two errors by Third Baseman Lothrop, gave Syracuse two runs and the first game of the series, 2 to 1. Smith allowed only one hit until the ninth, but lost because of Michigan's inability to do anything with Cottrell's delivery when men were on bases. This is the second time that Cottrell has beaten Michigan by the same score. Score:

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—Wet grounds robbed the White Sox of another whack at the Senators today, and threw another scheduled game into the double header belt. There are no open dates in the subsequent trip of Comiskey's men here, and the two postponements from this series must be worked off in July.

Manager McAleer called off the scrap a couple of hours before time to start pastiming, because the grounds were slowed from twenty-four hours of rain. The sun was shining, and the Sox averred that the local park was in better condition at that time, than their own grounds are in good weather, hence they concluded the Senators were ducking the issue through fear of the result. However that may be, McAleer's prognostications proved correct, for the period of sunshine was brief, and before it would have been possible to finish five innings it was raining again.

Sox Eager to Face Senators.

The Sox were eager to play for this at present is the softest spot in the east. Besides they were reinforced by the arrival at noon of Charley Mullen, former University of Washington boy, to play first base if necessary. His presence, it appears, may be superfluous, for Chic Gandil was around insisting that he was able to get back into the game and demonstrating it by walking without suspicion of a limp while anyone was looking. How much of this was due to a game bluff by Gandil and how much to Trainer Buckner cannot be told until Gandil actually gets into action again.

It is a cinch that when Chic was carried off the field Tuesday and later examined by a physician, it did not look as if he could get back into the game for ten days or two weeks at the best. Hence the hurry up call for Mullen. But a combination of pluck and good treatment brought him around faster than even the most hopeful looked for.

Comiskey lost no time in sending for Mullin for he put the youngster aboard the eighteen hour flier, which landed him in Philadelphia at 4 o'clock this morning, and he was on hand here long before game time. Even if not needed for first base, Mullen will be retained with the team, at least until the Philadelphia series is well along.

Pass Day Sightseeing.

As the Sox seldom have an off day in this town except when it rains, they passed the afternoon in real sightseeing, especially the youngsters, to whom the east is a novelty. A party of them went to the navy yard and afterwards to Mount Vernon so as to get in all the visits they could, knowing that the next time they come double headers will keep them busy.

This is the eleventh game that has been postponed on the Sox this season, which is only four weeks old. They have played only seventeen games and they include two postponements, consequently they have actually played only fifteen of the dates scheduled, or only a little more than half the regular dates.

Unless Halley's comet stops wagging its tail in the faces of Comiskey's men pretty soon they will get mad and do something which will give astronomers occasion to sit up nights and stare through their telescopes, for Duffy's men are sore at being kept idle so much when they need the continuous performance to weld their new lineup into shape.

There is much discussion here of the falling off in the work of Pitcher Johnson, who has been the star of the Senators' staff for several years. Some blame his hoodoo on to the autograph souvenir ball which he obtained from President Taft at the opening game of the season here.

Johnson and Scott in Same Boat.

Others are more inclined to blame it to the fact that Johnson pitched the greater part of the winter on the coast. This is borne out by the fact that Jim Scott of the Sox, who also worked all winter in the Imperial Valley league, is in the poorest shape of any of Duffy's pitchers. It is hoped for Chicago's sake that the latter deduction is true, for if it turns out to be the Taft autograph that is the hoodoo it will afflict Chicago's Cubs doubly, because both Evers and Chance secured baseballs inscribed with the president's autograph during the game he attended in Pittsburg.

Manager Duffy has received a warning that his former friends in Providence are going to make the Hub swim dizzily with their celebration when the new Sox manager first visits Boston this year. They have planned a big blowout for May 19, the first game the Sox are to play in Boston, and it includes an automobile parade of several hundred bugs from Providence to Boston, organized rooting for the Sox at the game, and a banquet at the Essex hotel, at which 250 invited guests are to be served, for that evening. Manager Hugh already is feeling ticklish in the neighborhood of his solar plexus, for he is sure they will call upon him for a speech that night.

Reading Hurts Batting Eye.

One of the Sox pitchers (who shall be disguised except for the fact that he batted about .000 last season) was sitting near a window this noon when some one handed him a newspaper to read. He declined, saying that he did not want to affect his batting eye, because too much reading was supposed to hamper one's eye for curves. The would-be donor of the paper then remarked: "What a lot of reading you must have done last year."

If a game is allowed tomorrow, almost any of the Sox twirlers is likely to face Groome, who is in line to pitch for the Senators.

NO HITS, NO RUNS, BENDER'S RECORD

Redskin Performs Great Feat in Game Against Naps and Athletics Win, 4 to 0.

ONE MAN REACHES FIRST.

Perfect Record for Indian Marred by Base on Balls; Three Good Catches Made.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 12.—Chief Bender of the Athletics today performed the great pitching feat of shutting out Cleveland, 4 to 0, and preventing his opponents from getting a hit. Only one Cleveland player reached first base, this being Turner, who received a base on balls in the fourth inning and was thrown out trying to steal second.

So remarkably effective was Bender that only three hard chances were offered by Cleveland batsmen, Oldring and Hartsel each making a fine running catch. Murphy, in the sixth inning, got a foul by Lord on the full run, leaping over a cement coping and running up the bleachers before he could check himself. The victory for Philadelphia was the eighth straight and made a new major league record for this season. The home team batted Link's curves at the right time and made every one of their hits count. CHICAGO WOMEN LIFT WHIST CUP

Score Second Victory for the Washington Trophy at Annual Congress.

LOCAL PLAYERS IN FRONT

Clover Club of This City Wins Cavendish Prize; 1911 Tourney to Baltimore.

Displaying the same skill which characterized their play in the two previous sessions, the Chicago Woman's Whist club won the second leg on the Washington trophy, which is the feature event of the thirteenth annual congress of the Woman's Whist league now being held at the La Salle hotel.

The Chicago club was composed of the same players who won the first leg on the trophy in 1906, and yesterday's victory gives the Chicagoans as good a hold on the cup as any other club. The trophy has to be won at five congresses before it becomes the possession of any club.

The final score of the Chicago club was 5 matches and plus 28 tricks. This team was composed of Mrs. H. S. Rockwell, Mrs. J. W. Moore, Mrs. W. G. Clark, and Mrs. M. E. Capelle. Riverside finished second with a score of 3 matches and minus 4 tricks. The members of this team were Mrs. Morton, Mrs. Miles, Mrs. Hilton, and Mrs. Badger. The West Side club of Chicago, represented by Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Bielman, and Mrs. Brown was third with a score of 2 matches and plus 8 tricks.

Indianapolis Is Fourth.

Indianapolis Woman's Whist club, composed of Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Pfaff, Mrs. Lynn, and Mrs. Smith, was fourth with a score of two matches and minus six tricks. The Hamilton club of St. Louis and Oak Park Woman's Whist club finished fifth and sixth respectively. The highest aggregate score in this competition was made by Mrs. H. S. Rockwell of the Chicago Woman's club, who turned in a plus nineteen. Besides winning a leg on the trophy, the Chicago team is proclaimed the champion of 1910.

The other event of importance decided was the Cavendish trophy, which was won for the first time by the Clover club of Chicago with a score of three matches and plus six tricks. Riverside was second with two matches and plus thirteen tricks; Indianapolis third with a score of one match and minus three tricks, while the Chicago Woman's Whist club was fourth with no matches and minus sixteen tricks. The Clover team was composed of Mrs. Lyman, Mrs. Biddle, Mrs. Webster, and Mrs. Gifford. Mrs. Lyman, and Mrs. Biddle were winners of the prize offered for highest aggregate score. This cup has to be won five times before it becomes permanent possession of any club.

Chicagoans Win Cup.

Mrs. R. W. Bailey and Mrs. E. H. Martin, with a match score of 9 8-14, representing the Omaha Woman's Whist club, won permanent possession of the Philadelphia cup, yesterday's victory giving them four victories, all that is required to gain possession of the trophy. Mesdames Bailey and Martin represented the western club in all these tournaments. This trophy carries with it the champion pair of the year, while individual prizes also were awarded to this pair. Evanston Whist club, represented by Mrs. H. C. McCleary and Mrs. R. A. Montgomery, was second with a match score of 8 4-14. Mrs. W. I. Irwin and Mrs. F. D. Comstock of the Clover club of Chicago were third with a match score of 8.

In the competition for the Boston trophy the team composed of Mrs. O. S. Baylies and Mrs. H. T. Fry of Chicago, Mrs. W. D. Thompson of Detroit, and Mrs. V. M. Meyer of Los Angeles finished first with a score of 4½ matches and plus 34 tricks. A team from Boston, comprised of Mrs. F. B. Mitchell, Mrs. A. A. Pope, Mrs. M. L. Swallows, and Mrs. A. D. Hall, were second with a score of 4½ matches and plus 7 tricks. The prize for the highest aggregate score was won by Mrs. Meyer and Mrs. Fry with a count of plus 22 tricks.

The St. Louis trophy, which carries with it the championship for mixed fours, was won by the team composed of Mrs. E. E. Davidson and J. T. Rouse of Cincinnati, Mrs. C. S. Waterhouse of Boston, and W. E. Trainer of Chicago. This team had a score of plus 8 tricks. Mrs. W. G. Clark and Miss Walker of Chicago, G. C. Guston of Oak Park, and Z. J. Frost of Aurora tied for second place with a team composed of Mrs. W. H. Barney and Miss M. J. Newhall of Providence and M. M. Cohen and E. J. Tobin of Chicago. These teams had scores of plus 1 trick.

Play in Progressive Pairs.

Play in the open progressive pairs was continued, and in section one, north and south, Mrs. Hennin and Mrs. Sargeant finished first with plus 5 5-7. Mrs. Mutschel and Mrs. Speaker were second with plus 2 5-7. Third place was won by Miss Mary Queen and Mrs. Saxby with plus 1 5-7.

Mrs. Atler and Mrs. Barker led the east and west division with plus 8 2-7. Miss Pitcher and Mrs. Welles were second with a score of plus 7 2-7. Mrs. McEldowney and Mrs. Davis were third with plus 3 2-7.

In section two, north and south, Mrs. Gates and Dr. W. A. D. Montgomery were high with plus 10 4-11. Mrs. Sanborn and Mrs. Broatsch were second with plus 3 4-11. Mrs. Joslyn and H. L. Kent and Mrs. Appleget and H. L. Frost tied for third with plus 1 4-11.

Miss B. E. Allen and E. G. Comstock led in the east and west division with plus 10 7-11. Mrs. Haverstick and Mrs. Baldwin were second with plus 6 7-11. Miss Wardwell and Mrs. Fry were third with plus 3 7-11.

As a result of the annual election of officers Miss Alice Tiffany of Baltimore was elected president, Mrs. B. P. Moulton of Philadelphia was chosen first vice president; Mrs. W. B. Biddle of Chicago, second vice president; Mrs. C. L. Taylor of Chicago, recording secretary, and Miss Martha H. Campbell of New York, treasurer.

Governors Are Chosen.

The governors chosen to serve for a term of three years were Miss Kate Wheelock of New York, Mrs. O. G. Pfaff of Indianapolis, Mrs. C. F. Bielman of Detroit, and Mrs. M. H. Richardson of Boston. Mrs. W. P. Dyer of Portland, Me., Mrs. W. I. Irwin of Cincinnati, and Mrs. J. D. Hibbard of Chicago were elected governors to serve for a term of one year. It was decided that the next congress be held at Baltimore in 1911.

BUSY SEASON FOR GLEN VIEW.

Long Series of Competitive Events to Be Opened Tomorrow with Medal Play Handicap.

Glen View golfers will swing into the competitive line tomorrow, a medal play class handicap having been set as the opening event. From that time until early in October there will be plenty to occupy the attention of the members.

Two cups have been offered in addition to the old time trophies. One of these, the Ben Adams trophy, is for a team match between the Evanston and Chicago members, to be played June 25, each contestant being permitted to use only one club. The other cup, donated by Conrad Poppenhusen, will be known as the Ringer's cup, and will go to the player having the lowest choice score through the season. Players competing can ring the low holes on their cards and turn them in to the caddy master.

Work on the new course of the Hinsdale club has been progressing so favorably that it has been decided to open the permanent greens for play tomorrow.

OMER TO COACH AT EVANSTON.

Oak Park Athletic Director Will Have Charge of Sports in Northern Suburb's Academy.

Louis Omer, for several years with Oak Park high school as head of the mathematical department and athletic director, has accepted a similar position at Evanston academy. In the academy he will give special attention to football and track work and also will have charge of the track team at the college. Capt. John Martin of the Oak Park track team, who now is ineligible for scholastic competition, said yesterday that he would enter Beloit college next fall. Martin is holder of the state record in the 440 yard dash, having covered the distance in :51 4-5.

Turns Down Martin's Entry.

Champaign, Ill., May 12.—[Special.]—The University of Illinois athletic managers, much to their regret, have refused the entry of Capt. John Martin of the Oak Park High school. It was stated today that the Oak Park star would not be allowed to compete on account of his unfortunate early competition. Martin is a prime favorite with the Illini. He holds the state quarter mile record of :51 4-5, made in 1908, when Oak Park won the championship. The entries of Springfield High, victors of the big corn belt meet, were turned down today because of late arrival.

The unusual feat of hurling two no-hit, no-run games in one day was left to pitchers in the Cook County High School Baseball league. Dyer of Crane and Wayman of Wendell Phillips turned the trick and blanked their opponents in eighteen innings of national pastiming.

Had Des Jardiens of Wendell Phillips fielded Mathias' grounder cleanly in the South Chicago game, Wayman would have set a new record in high school circles—that of preventing a batsman reaching first base. As it was, only twenty-seven men faced him, as Mathias was caught a moment later in an attempt to pilfer second.

Incidentally Wendell Phillips won by the lopsided count of 14 to 0, while Crane trimmed the Lane Blues 5 to 0. In the third contest Englewood won its fourth straight victory of the season by trouncing University High, 13 to 4.

With Wayman twirling in such form South Chicago was unable to accomplish any wonders. Score:

New York, May 12.—America's first international aviation meet for the championship of the world will be held on Long Island. The last international meet, at which Glenn H. Curtiss of Hammondsport, N. Y., won the Bennett trophy was held last year at Rheims, France. The exact site has not been chosen, but it will be somewhere on the Hempstead plains. The contest for the Bennett trophy is set for Oct. 22. The meet will last a week.

THE DUTIES OF A STARTING JUDGE.

Incidentally we wonder what's coming off. Sandy Griswold writes from Omaha for "a manual on the duties of a starting judge in harness races." If there is such a thing in print, and doubtless there is, we shall hunt it up and send it to Mr. Griswold. Meanwhile if an emergency exists he might use the following condensation, the result of personal observation:

1. To wear a linen duster and a flexible white felt hat and a diamond horseshoe or gold horse on the shirt front.
2. To ring a bell.
3. To caution drivers loudly and severely against coming ahead of the pole horse.
4. To soak them to the extent of their available change if they get to thinking you don't mean it.
5. After the horses have scored five or six times and all the drivers except the driver of the pole horse have been duly soaked, to call through a megaphone: "Is there a blacksmith on the grounds?"
6. To bark "Ge-owl" when the pole horse is adjusted to suit your notion of right and justice.
7. To ring a bell after a consultation of the judges and announce the result of the heat thus: "Attention, gentlemen. Insufferable Wilkes wins the heat" (adding "and race" if it is the deciding heat), and then down the line.
8. To pause in the midst of the observance of rule 8 to call through the megaphone three times in three different directions: "There's a telegram here for Col. John W. Thickwhistle."
9. To accept a beckoning invitation to come down and have something.
10. To ride to and from the grounds in a hack.

THE OCEAN BEACH ROUTINE.

Today the dinge
He had a twinge
Of needless apprehension
That something jars
His motor car's
Megigular extension.

He would not work
A single jerk—
His trainers went a-fishin',
While Johnson spent
The day intent
Of fixing his transmission.

When a mere county officer can say nix to a prizefight, boxing contest, or what not, and the promoters of the same submit without argument, you have an example of how simple it is to crumple up the best laid plans of dealers in this line of diversion. They are all at the mercy of the whim of the man in authority, who can go as far as that whim will carry him without fear of a comeback. Is one wrong, therefore, in assuming that the consummation of the championship match—in the same general and similarly affected territory where the said example is furnished—is not an absobloodylute certainty? Is it one's duty to feed one's self and others with the fancy that nothing but an accident to either principal can prevent the meeting of Jeffries and Johnson at Emeryville on July 4? Do not precedent and the prevailing signs make the contrary steer the more reasonable one, provided that any steer at all is in order? Ponder this and then take it out and see what you can get on it.

A DEAD ONE FOR A DAD.

Gee whiz! I guess my daddy is the deadest one in town.
He doesn't know a hill o' beans 'longside o' Mr. Brown.
Why, Mr Brown can pitch a curve, the best you ever seen.
I bet when he was young he was a regular champeen.

Now s'pose your daddy was so dumb, I guess you'd think it queer,
But maw says paw at makin' coin is just a perfect dear;
But makin' money ain't so hard if you got lots o' men
To go around and sell your goods—I guess it's easy then.

But playin' ball—that takes some brains, 'n' also takes some grit,
To steal a base and catch a fly and make a three base hit.
To think my daddy is so slow it makes a fellow sore.
Now whatchya think, the other night he didn't know the score!

GREET GLIDDEN SCOUT TODAY.

Delegation of Motorists Will Escort Car Into City and Tourists Will Be Given Banquet.

Dai Lewis, the American automobile scout, driving the Chalmers "thirty," official pathfinder of the 1910 Glidden tour, will arrive in Chicago at noon today, completing the route of 2,900 miles, in which the car was driven from Cincinnati to Dallas, Tex., and return to Chicago. Rapid progress was reported along the route from Iowa City, which point was left early yesterday.

A large delegation of motorists will accompany the scout into the city. Frank B. Wood and Charles Gregory, representing the Chicago Automobile association and the Chicago Motor club, met the pathfinder at Davenport and are acting as pilots on the last lap of the trip. Several other cars which will act as escort will leave this morning for Geneva, Ill., at which point the pathfinder is expected at 10 o'clock.

Plenty of entertainment is planned for the motorists who made the long trip. The finishing point will be the New Southern hotel, where a delegation of members of the Chicago Motor club will be on hand to extend a welcome. In the evening the club will give the tourists a banquet.

New York, May 12.—Ace High, once in Larry Mulligan's string of selling platers but until today between the shafts of a fish peddler's wagon, forgot today that he no longer is even deuce high and at the drop of a switchman's yellow flag started out to break all records through crowded Park Row, between Brooklyn bridge and the city hall subway entrance. He ended his dash with his head and forefeet through the heavy plate glass sidewalls of the subway entrance. They carried off the old racehorse in a covered van; it was his last dash and he needed no rubdown.

RICKARD VISITS JOHNSON'S CAMP

Promoter Confers with Negro in Effort to Solve Referee Problem.

MRS. JEFF ENTERS GAME.

"Tex" Acceptable, but Declines Job; Uneasiness Over Stopping of Thomas-Papke Go.

San Francisco, Cal., May 12.—[Special.]—Promoter Tex Rickard made his first trip to the Johnson camp late today, and it is entirely within reason to suppose that the promoter talked over a referee with the negro and endeavored to get him to reach some agreement. Rickard feels that the chances for a settlement are none too good, and he wants to do all in his power to straighten out the tangle.

It is freely whispered about that Jack Welch and Eddie Smith can be considered as out of the running. The story goes that Mrs. Jeffries is more strongly opposed to Welch than is her husband, and that she has made the statement that Jeffries will never fight with Welch in the ring.

From the same source of information comes a yarn that Johnson will in no way agree to Eddie Smith. That leaves Eddie Graney still in the field, although it is said that he may not be acceptable to all parties concerned. If an outsider is to be chosen, it is current talk that Jeffries would prefer to see Charlie White of New York selected.

Rickard Declines the Job.

If Tex Rickard would agree to accept the post the difficulty would be over. Jack Johnson was first to suggest that he would like Rickard, and Jeffries, when he learned of the stand taken by the colored man, said that Tex would suit him.

"Not for a million dollars would I referee that fight," said Rickard last night when asked about the story. "I have my hands full as it is."

Apparently as much interest is being taken at the Johnson camp in the referee question as is given to the preliminary training of the champion Jack Welch, who is Johnson's first choice, had an audience with the fighter this afternoon. Johnson had but little to say after the conference.

That there is an uneasiness among the men concerned over the effect of the stopping of the Thomas-Papke fight on the big bout was manifested in the conversation at the beach this afternoon. "If it comes to the worst," said Rickard, who will not admit the anti-fight people have any chance, "we can pull off the fight in Nevada."

Black Runs Away from Trainers.

Johnson added a couple of miles to his road work this morning. In addition he cut out a faster pace, running a good part of the way. In consequence he was back at his quarters somewhat in advance of the rest of the crowd, Marty Cutler trailing in thoroughly exhausted. The negro was perspiring freely as he returned and declared he felt in the best possible condition.

Plans for his first boxing bout on Sunday have practically been completed. Johnson intends to work six rounds with George Cotton, Marty Cutler, and Dave Mills. Although there has been much talk of using other sparring partners, Jack said today he thought he had enough helpers.

Late this afternoon the negro played baseball on the ocean boulevard in front of the camp and there were a hundred or more fashionable equipments, including many automobiles, drawn up to watch him bat out long flies.

Quiet Day in Jeffries' Camp.

Rowardennan, Cal., May 12.—Jeffries has begun really to like his gymnasium work. In his workout today he frolicked through his tasks with more real exuberance and vigor than he has shown since beginning work. There were no new diversions in the schedule, which included the usual assignment of sparring, rope skipping, shadow boxing, bag punching, and handball.

The entire Jeffries party visited the fish hatchery near here. Jeffries fished along the stream on the return to camp and brought back a string of trout.

Manager Sam Berger will leave tomorrow for San Francisco and aid in selecting a referee for the big fight.

U. S. MAY BAR FIGHT STORIES.

Bill in Congress Prohibiting Publicity of Sport—Blow Aimed at Jeff-Johnson Scrap?

Washington, D. C., May 12.—A wholesale interdiction against the publication of descriptions and pictures of prize fights, which would apply to the coming Jeffries-Johnson "mill," is proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Smith of Iowa.

The bill would make it unlawful "to send by mail or in any other manner from any state, territory, or the District of Columbia to any other state, territory, or the District of Columbia, or to bring into this country from any foreign country any picture or description of any prize fight or encounter of pugilists under whatever name, or any record or account of betting on the same."

The measure, which was referred to the interstate commerce committee, would penalize violations under a maximum of one year's imprisonment or $1,000 fine.

COULON BESTS PHIL M'GOVERN.

Chicago Boy Has Good Shade in Slashing Ten Round Bout—Both Fighters Knocked Down.

New York, May 12.—Johnny Coulon of Chicago, champion bantamweight, outfought and outpointed Phil McGovern in ten slashing rounds before the Madison Athletic club tonight. Charley White was referee. McGovern finished strong, but Coulon was clearly the better boy. McGovern floored him with a right hook to the jaw in the third round, but Coulon got up quickly and with a glancing blow to the head retaliated by knocking down McGovern. The latter slipped, however, which was partly responsible for his fall. Coulon and McGovern fought at 115 pounds ringside.

STEFFEN IN EAST FOR STAGG.

Former Maroon Captain to Be Envoy for Coach at Football Rules Committee Today in New York.

Walter Steffen, All-American quarter back, and captain of the 1908 University of Chicago eleven, will be Director Stagg's envoy at the meetings of the football rules committee in New York today. Steffen left yesterday with authority from Stagg to cast his vote for the across-the-line forward pass provision, which, according to Stagg, will be brought up again for discussion.

The Midway mentor decided at the last minute not to desert his track and baseball teams, which have important engagements with the University of Illinois athletes at Champaign tomorrow. He called the ex-captain into consultation, and talked over the rules situation.

This is the first meeting Stagg has missed in the five years of the committee's existence. He still insisted that the refusal of the solons to return to the unrestricted forward pass will make the game less interesting, and that freedom in throwing is bound to come if the game is retained.

DWYER STATES HIS POSITION.

Says Bout with Galvin Was on the Square and I. A. C. Treated Him Unjustly by Ousting Him.

Mike Dwyer, former wrestling instructor at the Illinois Athletic club, who was compelled to resign his position for alleged faking in a wrestling bout with Jim Galvin at the club Saturday night, issued a statement last night in which he asserted he had been punished unjustly and had a few things to say about E. C. Racey, chairman, and Arthur Frantzen, a member of the athletic committee.

According to Dwyer, Racey accused him (Dwyer) of prearranging the bout with Galvin so that the latter could get more money than the club offered for Galvin's appearance. Dwyer said: "The club was to get 50 per cent of the gross receipts, which was $125. This left $62.50 to pay the wrestlers, and when it came time for Galvin to go on he came to me and asked how much he was to receive. I told him his share would be $10. Galvin naturally refused to go on and another man was substituted, who proved no match for me.

"The crowd wanted Galvin and when it became known that the reason for his failure to go on was the failure of the club to provide a purse, a collection was taken up and $50 was raised, which was given to Galvin. Racey made no effort to pay Galvin out of the club's share and while the collection was being taken up among the members who already had paid to see the show, Racey told me that the best thing to do was to go on and wrestle. I wanted the match postponed until some other time, but both Racey and Frantzen urged me to meet Galvin.

"Racey, as chairman of the athletic committee, made no effort to stop the collection, although the club treasury was getting half the gross receipts and the wrestlers were getting practically nothing, and was one of the most interested spectators at the bout. Monday afternoon I was called into consultation with Racey and Frantzen, who said that the club could not stand for any such work as was perpetrated Saturday night and asked me to resign. It was on the level and was one of the hardest bouts I ever wrestled. I am being censured unjustly because of the niggardly policy of the athletic committee."

WENGLER ROLLS TO EIGHTH PLACE

Former National Champion Gets 641 in Singles of State Tourney.

ONLY ONE OPEN FRAME.

Hyde Brothers Lead Contestants in the Doubles with Total of 1,133.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Archie Wengler, the west side bowler who won the national championship at Cincinnati in 1908, rolled into eighth place in the singles of the Illinois state tournament yesterday afternoon with a finely rolled series which netted 641. His mark of 699 with which he won the national title was a record for the American Bowling congress tournament until last March, when it was beaten by Tom Haley at Detroit with a count of 705.

Wengler rolled his three games yesterday without an error, his only open frame coming in the fifth of his second game, when he encountered a split. He offset this bit of ill luck by getting four strikes in a row. In his first essay he had one strike and six spares in his first seven frames and in his second game was only able to get one double.

Ed and Jack Hyde of the Bankers' league topped the squads in the doubles with 1,133, the latter averaging 205 with one error in each game. The two Duo Style pairs, Fesl and Mrosek and Shaw and Rivest, were unable to raise much dust. Score:

THE SENATE IN SUSPENSE.

When Mr. Lorimer reads in the Washington dispatches that the "senators cannot endure the suspense much longer," his heart certainly will be touched and he will throw caution and discretion to the winds and rush to the relief and comfort of his associates. Evidently only he can end the suspense in which the senate is suffering, silently, but nevertheless acutely.

If the moral appeal to the junior senator from Illinois be futile, probably the humanitarian one can be made effectively. No one ever accused Mr. Lorimer of being an unkind man or of listening unmoved to a call for help. The picture of the senate in suspense may touch the secret springs of his compassion.

COSTA RICA AND THE RED CROSS ENDOWMENT.

Here is another argument for the Red Cross endowment. It came to Chicago from J. B. Calvo, minister from Costa Rica to the United States, addressed to the Costa Rican consul: "Disastrous earthquake ruined Cartago. Please do your best to promote relief." Few details of the disaster had been given to the American people; the misery which followed it was not pictured effectively; there was little or no appeal to emotional charity; the generous contributions to relief which usually may be depended on were lacking.

If the Red Cross had the endowment for which its backers are pleading it would not be necessary to depend on the effectiveness with which a great disaster is brought home to people who respond generously when they realize the need.

STOP THE SEWAGE OUTFLOW.

Chicago has again to deal with the dangerous situation which confronted it in 1888. The lives of its 900,000 inhabitants were threatened by typhoid fever and other diseases due to the pollution of the drinking water by sewage discharged into the lake through the Chicago river. Now the health of almost 500,000 Chicagoans living south of Forty-fifth street is menaced by the flow of sewage into the lake through the Calumet. As the health of the inhabitants of the old city was protected by the reversal of the flow of the Chicago river, that of the inhabitants of Hyde Park and Lake must be protected by the reversal of the flow of the Calumet.

It is not Chicago alone which is affected. There is not time for the Calumet sewage to become purified before wind and water currents carry it to the intakes of Indiana lake towns. That pollution, coupled with their own, has made their typhoid fever rate from 18 to 126 times that of Chicago. The population of those towns is growing rapidly. So is that of the Calumet region in Illinois. At any moment they may be the victims of a common pestilence due to impure water. As Dr. Evans has pointed out, the typhoid rate south of Forty-fifth street is increased because of water pollution. If the water from the Sixty-eighth street crib were to be pumped into the mains north of Forty-fifth street the danger zone would be enlarged.

Such a situation as this does not stand trifling with. A decent respect for human life forbids it. The water at the southern end of the lake is so polluted that it will not become pure for some time after the sewage inflow shall have been stopped. Much sewage sinks to the bottom of the lake and is not dangerous until there is a storm, which brings it to the surface with all its poisonous qualities intact.

The sanitary district trustees recognize the imminent danger. They have resolved to give partial relief at once by the construction of a ditch on the line of the old canal feeder from the Little Calumet to the drainage channel at the Sag. That will lessen materially the volume of sewage discharged into the lake. But full and lasting relief can be had only by changing the flow of the Calumet.

Even if authority to do that were to be obtained soon the work would take much time. While it was slowly progressing sewage, with all its deadly potentialities unimpaired, would be piling up at the foot of the lake. In order to minimize the evil the drainage ditch should be dug with all possible speed. If permission to cut the larger channel should be refused by the courts and the secretary of war, congress would not refuse to grant it. The application would be made on behalf of the health of a great city and neighboring communities.

THE INVESTIGATION IN SANGAMON.

Now that State's Attorney Burke has determined to press without delay his investigation of the bribery charges, it would be well for him to realize that he has assumed a grave responsibility and that the eyes of the people of the whole state are upon him.

Mr. Burke has been reported to have said things which throw an unfavorable light upon his activities, and there are other circumstances which have involved his motives in suspicion.

The Tribune hopes these suspicions are groundless and that Mr. Burke will quickly prove them so by conducting his investigation so as to aid the fullest exposure and the most important convictions. Mr. Burke is said to have declared his intention to go after the "higher ups," the men who are the source of legislative corruption. His earlier statement that he intended to send White to the penitentiary in short order did not support any such intention, but we hear that this earlier report has been repudiated. At any rate, if Mr. Burke is now after the "higher ups," he is after the same men as Mr. Wayman, and will have no reason for not coöperating with him and exchanging aid with him. Certainly Mr. Burke will do well to rid himself of any notion that the Cook county exposure is not to be thorough and regardless of personal or partisan considerations.

Mr. Burke, indeed, now has a rare opportunity to do the whole people of Illinois a lasting service and to distinguish himself as an able, honest, and courageous prosecutor. What is demanded of Mr. Wayman and of Mr. Burke is fearless investigation and effective prosecution. No partisan lines, no personal considerations should enter into their activities. A solemn, an inexorable duty confronts them. The honor and welfare of their state are at stake. The people look to them to do their whole duty.

THE AMERICAN SIN.

A prominent banker and professional student of economics and financial conditions, addressing the Texas Bankers' association the other day, devoted himself to the topic of our national extravagance, upon which his opinions are strong. Among other things he declared that this is by no means a new or passing phase. He said:

> Heedless squandering and reckless spending on a large scale are not passing fads or newly acquired national habits which may be laid aside at will or which a year or two of adversity would readily correct, but through long indulgence and practice they have been so deeply ingrained in the very fabric of our character as to become instinctive. They find expression in every shade and degree of expenditure, from vulgar and vainglorious display down to that miserable and petty fear which compels even the bravest of us to place gratuities out of all proportion to service into the outstretched palm of every flunky who serves. The thrifty Europeans discovered this spending instinct of ours and long ago turned it to their profit.

Undoubtedly the evil of waste, extravagance, and ostentation is one of the gravest and most difficult we have to face, and its gravity and difficulty arise from the fact that it is, as Mr. Talbert, the speaker quoted, points out, a chronic, not merely an acute, condition. Its cure, therefore, must be slow and gradual, although the dangers it involves are imminent. For many generations, but especially since the reaction from the civil war set in, waste and show have been growing, the pressure for money has steadily increased in every vocation and on every social level. The evil permeates the whole life of the nation; our politics, our professions, our business reveal it in startling forms.

On the other hand, signs of reaction are not wanting. As yet they do not make a sunrise. Extravagance and ostentatious material self-indulgence are still unchecked. But there is this difference, that they are being generally realized as evils and are more and more deplored. In politics reform is by no means ineffectual. A new spirit of responsibility in business has sprung up. Better standards of success are growing in favor, and the higher interests of the nation were seldom, if ever, more vitally active.

EASILY EXPLAINED.

In anticipation of explanations from various quarters it is a pleasure to say that the $1,000 which Mike Link was handed in St. Louis was his share in the Carnegie hero fund distribution. He and other Democratic members of the legislature had saved Mr. Lorimer at the risk of great personal injury and personal inconvenience, and had been voted $1,000 each and a medal. Mr. Browne was acting merely as agent of the Hero foundation.

FIAT LUX.

The city and drainage district officials are so near together on the street lighting question that they cannot be kept apart. Their agreement, which is now only a matter of a few days, will give the city 10,000 more street lights—stationary policemen to guide and protect wayfarers. Only a little while and Chicago will be the best lighted city in the world. The flickering gas and gasoline lamps will go and there will be light in the dark places.

The business results of the agreement will be equally gratifying. The revenues of the sanitary district will be enlarged through the sale to the city of a considerable portion of its surplus electric current. It will begin to get something in the nature of an adequate return on the money which has been put into the power plant. The city, on the other hand, will be enabled to get out of the electric lighting business, which can be handled more economically and effectively by the sanitary district.

It is the moral duty of the park districts to do what the city is about to do. The property owners who pay taxes to them also pay taxes to the sanitary district. They should not be deprived of the economies which would result from the purchase by the park districts of the electric current which the sanitary district has for sale. That makes it hard to understand the attitude of the south park board. Instead of closing with the offer of the sanitary district to sell it current, it puts off answering. It should say either "yes" or "no" to any business proposition. It should say at once "yes, thank you," to this proposal.

AN OLD FRIEND DISCOVERED.

We are willing to tolerate the announcement of a good many food supply discoveries, but not that of the dandelion. If this were allowed to go unchallenged, we'd soon be discovering the round steak and the Irish potato. About the only thing that has prevented the state house lawn at Springfield from becoming an impenetrable jungle has been the knowledge that "greens" are good to eat, particularly if boiled up with a "hunk o' pork." If the estimable colored housewives of that fair city were not aware of this, it would require the services of a guide to get into the capitol. There are a number of statesmen who will not be able to find their way back there in spite of the work of the dandelion gatherers, but that is another matter.

It may not be generally known that the dandelion contains potassium salts and iron, tarixicum and phosphate, but the lack of that information has not prevented the utilization of this little friend of man.

The presumption naturally is that the average person who goes to see a game of baseball does so because he expects to enjoy it. Without knowing all its intricacies, its "fine points," or understanding the rapid flashing of signals between catcher and pitcher or between the captain and the component parts of the living machine he handles with such marvelous quickness and accuracy, the average person knows the game well enough to appreciate good batting, fielding, and base running and applauds a skillful play whether made by a local favorite or by a member of the visiting team. But this impartial spectator is becoming a back number. The "bug," the "fan," the "rooter" dominates the grand stand and the bleachers. He is there for one purpose only. He has come to see the home team win. Fine playing on the part of the visitors harrows up his inmost soul. An error that allows a member of the home team to score fills him with joy. He even applauds a rank decision by the umpire if it favors the home team. Should it become apparent that the game is lost beyond recovery he rises in wrath and bitterness of spirit and leaves the grounds. He has wasted an afternoon. Has the national game of baseball come to this? Is it nothing but a struggle to win pennants?

The wind itself may be tempered to the shorn lamb, but in whatever direction it blows it delivers the stock yards smell in all its original strength and majesty.

Don't forget to emphasize the sinister character of the day by recalling the circumstance that in "Friday the 13th," there are just thirteen letters and figures.

In addition to Mr. White, and Mr. Browne, now comes Mr. Black, and the color scheme hereby becomes still more complicated.

Col. Roosevelt sees hopeful indications that good will triumph finally over evil, and right will stamp out wrong. Let Uncle Adlai Stevenson take another look at the future and cheer up.

Of course, if it is any comfort, you can find thirteen letters in "Halley's comet"—if you choose to consider the apostrophe a letter. Let no opportunity escape.

Persons who have seen Col. Roosevelt on horseback will have entire confidence in his ability to ride with grace and dignity any animal that Kaiser Wilhelm's stables can turn out.

GEORGE V. IS LIKE GOV. HUGHES.

[From the Wall Street Journal.]

Some of our citizens have met King George V. Some met him at the Quebec celebration. Two or three had opportunity to chat with him at the time of the laying of a corner stone at Liverpool. All agree that in outward demeanor he is unlike his father. His attitude is that of a man self-centered, not especially attracted to or interested in the greater affairs of the world, and sometimes it has been thought that he is of dull, phlegmatic mind. But those of our citizens who have met him are certain that these judgments are erroneous. One of them likened him in temperamental and superficial attitude to Gov. Hughes, in the sense that the governor often appears to be a man of frigid disposition, all intellect, no passion or temperament, whereas the governor is really one of the most cordial of men. He is also one of the sincerest of men. And that is known to be a striking attribute of King George V. He is absolutely sincere and frank. Whether that is to make him less of a diplomat than his father, whether he is to be conspicuous for his lack of the really marvelous tact which King Edward possessed and which came near being genius, is yet to be disclosed. One of the comments we have heard made by business men, especially in the Wall street district, conveys a sense of apprehension due to the fact that King George has been presumed to be little interested in the growth of the United States and to have no disposition whatever to cultivate to a high degree international comity between the two great Anglo-Saxon nations.

MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

[Copyright: 1910: By the Brentwood Company.]

The King of Italy leaves Rome at the end of next week on board a man of war bound for Palermo in order to take part in the celebration of the emancipation of the island just fifty years ago from Bourbon rule when Garibaldi and his thousand landed at Marsala, and after defeating the troops of King Francis at Calatafimi took Palermo by storm and assumed the dictatorship of the island in the name of King Victor Emmanuel II. of Sardinia.

The king will be accompanied to Palermo by the premier, several ministers, and the chief of his military and naval household, and provision has been made for the transport, free of cost, to Palermo of a certain number of senators and deputies, as well as of all the survivors of the thousand of Marsala.

Only the authentic survivors will be thus treated as the guests of the government. If I mention this it is because three or four years ago the attention of the present King of Italy was by mere chance attracted to the fact that the original thousand, instead of decreasing as time went on, has increased forty fold and that there were in 1907 more than 40,000 alleged veterans drawing pensions from the Italian treasury as survivors of Garibaldi's band of the one thousand of Marsala.

If the Italian government was paying pensions to the thousand of Marsala it was because the Italians always have been disposed to regard in the light of national heroes this band of 1,000 followers who accompanied Garibaldi to Sicily just fifty years ago, landing with him at Marsala. Indeed, they were looked upon as important factors in the creation of united Italy and as such meriting provision being made for their welfare by the state.

When the present king found to what extent the national exchequer was being robbed by bogus veterans he instituted a searching investigation, which revealed the fact that in 1907 there were exactly 283 authentic survivors of the thousand of Marsala still in existence and entitled to draw pensions as such, in lieu of over 40,000, and thanks to this discovery the treasury was relieved of a large annual outlay.

On the termination of the festivities in Sicily the king will proceed with only a small suite to visit the island of Sardinia, where he has never been since his accession to the throne just ten years ago. In fact, I cannot recall that any one of his predecessors on the throne as King of Italy or as King of Sardinia has ever visited the island—save Victor Emmanuel I., who found refuge there from Napoleon from 1802 until 1815. Indeed, it is the most neglected portion of Italy, although wonderfully rich in mineral wealth, which is exploited in a ridiculously inadequate manner.

There are plenty of traces of the mining industry and enterprise of the Phoenicians, the Egyptians, and the Carthaginians, who in turn owned the island, which subsequently was in the possession of the Romans, the Vandals under Genseric, the Goths, the Genoese, and the Pisans. In 1325 the pope gave Sardinia to the King of Aragon, and for the next three centuries or so Sardinia was a Spanish province.

By the treaty of Utrecht in 1713 it was ceded to the house of Austria, which, in 1720, persuaded Victor Amadeus, Duke of Savoy, who had received Sicily by the treaty of Utrecht, to exchange the crown of that island for that of Sardinia. From that time on the dukes of Savoy bore the title of kings of Sardinia until Victor Emmanuel II. became, just fifty years ago, King of Italy.

Let me add that the first of the Savoy kings of Sardinia was married to Princess Mary of Orleans, whose mother was the daughter of the ill fated King Charles I. of England. The first Savoy queen of Sardinia was therefore the legitimate heiress to the British throne on the death of Queen Anne and the exclusion of the pretender. Indeed, the descent of Victor Emmanuel III., now King of Italy, from the Stuart kings of England, is, through his ancestress, the first Savoy queen of Sardinia, less remote than that of King George V. of England.

Sir John Dewar, head of the great Scotch whisky distilling firm that bears his name, has just purchased Dupplin castle, the ancestral home of the Earl of Kinnoull, which the latter has been endeavoring for a number of years without success to rent to rich Americans, advertising for the purpose in many of the leading newspapers on this side of the Atlantic.

It is situated on the north bank of the River Earn, about seven miles west of Perth, occupies a commanding position, with a view embracing the whole of lower Strathearn on one side, as well as the hill of Moncreiffe, and the entire range of the Ochils on the other. The castle was partly burned down in 1827, but was restored in accordance with its former designs at an expense of $250,000.

Queen Victoria spent some time there in 1842, and in her "Leaves from the Journal of Our Life in the Highlands" speaks of the picturesque waterfall close to the house, of the magnificent trees dating from the fifteenth and sixteenth century, and of the fact that around the castle was fought the sanguinary battle of Dupplin in 1332, when Edward Baliol attempted to recover the crown of Scotland from the Bruces.

The first Earl of Kinnoull was gentleman of the bedchamber to James I. and lord chancellor of Scotland, as well as the owner of the island of Barbados, which he had inherited from his kinsman, Sir James Hay, Earl of Carlisle. The third Earl of Kinnoull sold Barbados back to Charles II. But it is claimed that he never received the purchase money.

It was this same third Earl of Kinnoull who during the civil war made his famous and romantic escape from captivity in Edinburgh castle by tying his sheets and blankets together and letting himself down the face of the rock, which furnished to Robert Louis Stevenson the idea of this extraordinary feat which was repeated by his French prisoner of war in his romance "St. Ives."

The present Lord Kinnoull spent some time in this country, though not under that name. When he was over here he bore the name of Archie Hay and spent a considerable time at Lenox, at Newport, and other fashionable summer resorts, failing, however, to retain the friendships which he formed there owing to the mystery which prevailed as to the identity of his traveling companion, the fascinating wife of a fellow officer of the celebrated highland regiment, the Black Watch, from which he retired, however, before coming to America.

On his return to the old world he obtained employment under Valentine Baker Pasha as an officer of the Egyptian constabulary. The death of his elder brother, Lord Dupplin, owner of the famous racehorse Petrarch, in quasi-exile in Paris, followed by the demise of his father, old Lord Kinnoull, brought him into the possession of the earldom and of the sadly embarrassed estates in Perthshire, amounting to about 16,000 acres.

Lord Kinnoull's first wife was a Miss Hawke, from whom he separated soon, the marriage, it is said, having been not altogether of a voluntary character. There was one son by this union, who died three or four years ago of scarlet fever, leaving a little boy, now 8 years of age, and who, bearing the courtesy title of Lord Hay of Kinfauns, is next heir to the earldom.

Lord Kinnoull's second marriage in 1903 was a love match pure and simple. The present countess was Miss Mollie Darell, well known at Homburg, where until her marriage she was always in the habit of spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. Edward Darell, and where she made many American friends.

She is a granddaughter of the late Sir Lionel Darell of Fretherne Court, Gloucestershire, whose family has flourished in England since the conquest and the name of which figures on the roll of Battle Abbey as having taken part in the battle of Hastings in the year 1066. She is a wonderfully accomplished violinist, and as Lord Kinnoull is not only a composer of much merit but likewise plays wonderfully well on the organ and on the piano they constitute one of the most musical couples in England.

Lord Kinnoull and his brothers represent a junior branch of the house of Hay, of which the Earl of Erroll, hereditary lord high constable of Scotland, is the chief.

ROOSEVELT ON "THE WORLD MOVEMENT," LECTURE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF BERLIN.

Former President Points Out the Danger to Civilization of a Loss of the Virile Fighting Qualities, but Sets Forth That the World Is Growing Better. The Homely Virtues and the Average Citizen Are Extolled and the Need of Intellectual Leadership Emphasized.

[The story of Col. Roosevelt's day in Berlin yesterday will be found in a news column. The following is a summary of his lecture before the University of Berlin.]

It is difficult for you in the old world fully to appreciate the feelings of a man who comes from a nation still in the making to a country with an immemorial historic past; and especially is this the case when that country, with its ancient past behind it, yet looks with proud confidence into the future, and in the present shows all the abounding vigor of lusty youth. Such is the case with Germany.

More than a thousand years have passed since the Roman empire of the west became in fact a German empire. Throughout medieval times the empire and the papacy were the two central features in the history of the occident. With the Ottos and the Henrys began the slow rise of that western life which has shaped modern Europe, and therefore ultimately the whole modern world. Their task was to organize society and to keep it from crumbling to pieces.

They were castle builders, city founders, roadmakers; they battled to bring order out of the seething turbulence around them; and at the same time they first beat back heathendom and then slowly wrested from it its possessions.

After the downfall of Rome and the breaking in sunder of the Roman empire the first real crystallization of the forces that were working for a new uplift of civilization in western Europe was round the Karling house, and, above all, round the great emperor, Karl the Great, the seat of whose empire was at Aachen.

Under the Karlings the Arab and the Moor were driven back beyond the Pyrenees; the last of the old heathen Germans were forced into Christianity, and the Avars, wild horsemen from the Asian steppes, who had long held tented dominion in middle Europe, were utterly destroyed. With the break up of the Karling empire came chaos once more, and a fresh inrush of savagery: Vikings from the north, and new hordes of outlandish riders from Asia.

It was the early emperors of Germany proper who quelled these barbarians; in their time Dane and Norseman and Magyar became Christians, and most of the Slav peoples as well, so that Europe began to take on a shape which we can recognize today.

Since then the centuries have rolled by, with strange alternations of fortune, now well nigh barren, and again great with German achievement in arms and in government, in science and the arts. The center of power shifted hither and thither within German lands; the great house of Hohenzollern rose, the house which has at last seen Germany spring into a commanding position in the forefront among the nations of mankind.

To this ancient land, with its glorious past and splendid present, to this land of many memories and of eager hopes, I come from a young nation, which is by blood akin to, and yet different from, each of the great nations of middle and western Europe; which has inherited or acquired much from each, but is changing and developing every inheritance and acquisition into something new and strange. The German strain in our blood is large, for almost from the beginning there has been a large German element among the successive waves of newcomers whose children's children have been and are being fused into the American nation; and I myself trace my origin to that branch of the Low Dutch stock which raised Holland out of the North sea.

Moreover, we have taken from you not only much of the blood that runs through our veins but much of the thought that shapes our minds. For generations American scholars have flocked to your universities, and, thanks to the wise foresight of his imperial majesty the present emperor, the intimate and friendly connection between the two countries is now in every way closer than it has ever been before.

Germany is preëminently a country in which the world movement of today in all of its multitudinous aspects is plainly visible. The life of the university covers the period during which that movement has spread until it is felt throughout every continent; while its velocity has been constantly accelerating, so that the face of the world has changed, and is now changing, as never before. It is therefore fit and appropriate here to speak on this subject.

The play of new forces is as evident in the moral and spiritual world as in the world of the mind and the body. Forces for good and forces for evil are everywhere evident, each acting with a hundred or a thousand fold the intensity with which it acted in former ages. Over the whole earth the swing of the pendulum grows more and more rapid, the mainspring coils and spreads at a rate constantly quickening, the whole world movement is of constantly accelerating velocity.

In this movement there are signs of much that bodes ill. The machinery is so highly geared, the tension and strain are so great, the effort and the output have alike so increased that there is cause to dread the ruin that would come from any great accident, from any breakdown, and also the ruin that may come from the mere wearing out of the machine itself. The only previous civilization with which our modern civilization can be in any way compared is that period of Græco-Roman civilization extending, say, from the Athens of Themistocles to the Rome of Marcus Aurelius. Many of the forces and tendencies which were then at work are at work now.

Knowledge, luxury, and refinement, wide material conquests, territorial administration on a vast scale, an increase in the mastery of mechanical appliances and in applied science—all these mark our civilization as they marked the wonderful civilization that flourished in the Mediterranean lands twenty centuries ago, and they preceded the downfall of the older civilization. Yet the differences are many and some of them are quite as striking as the similarities.

The single fact that the old civilization was based upon slavery shows the chasm that separates the two. Let me point out one further and significant difference in the development of the two civilizations, a difference so obvious that it is astonishing that it has not been dwelt upon by men of letters.

One of the prime dangers of civilization always has been its tendency to cause the loss of the virile fighting virtues, of the fighting edge. When men get too comfortable and lead too luxurious lives there always is danger lest the softness eat like an acid into their manliness of fiber. The barbarian, because of the conditions of his life, is forced to keep and develop certain hardy qualities which the man of civilization tends to lose, whether he be clerk, factory hand, merchant, or even a certain type of farmer.

Now, I will not assert that in modern civilized society these tendencies have been wholly overcome, but there has been a much more successful effort to overcome them than was the case in the early civilization.

What is the lesson to us today? Are we to go the way of the older civilizations? The immense increase in the area of civilized activity today, so that it is nearly coterminous with the world's surface; the immense increase in the multitudinous variety of its activities; the immense increase in the velocity of the world movement—are all these to mean merely that the crash will be all the more complete and terrible when it comes? We cannot be certain that the answer will be in the negative; but of this we can be certain, that we shall not go down in ruin unless we deserve and earn our end. There is no necessity for us to fall; we can hew out our destiny for ourselves, if only we have the wit, and the courage, and the honesty.

Personally, I do not believe our civilization will fall. I think that on the whole we have grown better and not worse. I think that on the whole the future holds more for us than even the great past has held. But, assuredly, the dreams of golden glory in the future will not come true unless, high of heart and strong of hand, by our own mighty deeds we make them come true.

We cannot afford to develop any one set of qualities, any one set of activities, at the cost of seeing others, equally necessary, atrophied. Neither the military efficiency of the Mongol, the extraordinary business ability of the Phœnician, nor the subtle and polished intellect of the Greek availed to avert destruction.

We, the men of today and of the future, need many qualities if we are to do our work well. We need, first of all and most important of all, the qualities which stand at the base of individual, of family life, the fundamental and essential qualities—the homely, every day, all important virtues. If the average man will not work, if he has not in him the will and the power to be a good husband and father; if the average woman is not a good housewife, a good mother of many healthy children, then the state will topple, will go down, no matter what may be its brilliance of artistic development or material achievement.

But these homely qualities are not enough. There must, in addition, be that power of organization, that power of working in common for a common end, which the German people have shown in such signal fashion during the last half century. Moreover, the things of the spirit are even more important than the things of the body. We can well do without the hard intolerance and arid intellectual barrenness of what was worst in the theological systems of the past, but there has never been greater need of a high and fine religious spirit than at the present time.

So, while we can laugh good humoredly at some of the pretensions of modern philosophy in its various branches, it would be worse than folly on our part to ignore our need of intellectual leadership. Your own great Frederick once said that if he wished to punish a province he would leave it to be governed by philosophers; the sneer had in it an element of justice; and yet no one better than the great Frederick knew the value of philosophers, the value of men of science, men of letters, men of art.

It would be a bad thing indeed to accept Tolstoi as a guide in social and moral matters; but it would also be a bad thing not to have Tolstoi, not to profit by the lofty side of his teachings. There are plenty of scientific men whose hard arrogance, whose cynical materialism, whose dogmatic intolerance put them on a level with the bigoted medieval ecclesiasticism which they denounce. Yet our debt to scientific men is incalculable, and our civilization of today would have reft from it all that which most highly distinguishes it, if the work of the great masters of science during the last four centuries were now undone or forgotten.

Never has philanthropy, humanitarianism, seen such development as now; and though we must all beware of the folly, and the viciousness no worse than folly, which marks the believer in the perfectibility of man when his heart runs away with his head, or when vanity usurps the place of conscience, yet we must remember also that it is only by working along the lines laid down by the philanthropists, by the lovers of mankind, that we can be sure of lifting our civilization to a higher and more permanent plane of well being than was ever attained by any preceding civilization.

Unjust war is to be abhorred; but woe to the nation that does not make ready to hold its own in time of need against all who would harm it; and woe thrice over to the nation in which the average man loses the fighting edge, loses the power to serve as a soldier if the day of need should arise.

It is no impossible dream to build up a civilization in which morality, ethical development, and a true feeling of brotherhood shall all alike be divorced from false sentimentality, and from the rancorous and evil passions which, curiously enough, so often accompany professions of sentimental attachment to the rights of man.

I am speaking of a civilization in which a high material development in the things of the body shall be achieved without subordination of the things of the soul; in which there shall be a genuine desire for peace and justice without loss of those virile qualities without which no love of peace or justice shall avail any race; in which the fullest development of scientific research, the great distinguishing feature of our present civilization, shall yet not imply a belief that intellect can ever take the place of character—for, from the standpoint of the nation as of the individual, it is character that is the one vital possession.

Finally, this world movement of civilization, this movement which is now felt throbbing in every corner of the globe, should bind the nations of the world together while yet leaving unimpaired that love of country in the individual citizen which in the present stage of the world's progress is essential to the world's well being.

You, my hearers, and I who speak to you, belong to different nations. Under modern conditions the books we read, the news sent by telegraph to our newspapers, the strangers we meet, half of the things we hear and do each day, all tend to bring us into touch with other peoples. Each people can do justice to itself only if it does justice to others, but each people can do its part in the world movement for all only if it first does its duty within its own household.

The good citizen must be a good citizen of his own country first before he can with advantage be a citizen of the world at large. I wish you well. I believe in you and your future. I admire and wonder at the extraordinary greatness and variety of your achievements in so many and such widely different fields; and my admiration and regard are all the greater, and not the less, because I am so profound a believer in the institutions and the people of my own land.

FAMOUS SAYINGS—NO. 12

"An Ax to Grind."

—Benjamin Franklin.

The maxims of "Poor Richard" are often merely current proverbs, but the wording in which Benjamin Franklin clothed them has endured, and they are therefore usually credited to him. The line, "Thinks I, that man has an ax to grind," is one of the many well known sayings contained in the Pennsylvania Almanac of 1758. The expression "That man has an ax to grind" also occurs in "Essays from the Desk of Poor Robert, the Scribe," written by Charles Miner, and first printed in the Wilkes-Barre "Gleaner" in 1811.

"When I see a merchant," wrote Miner, "overpolite to his customers, begging them to taste a little brandy and throwing half his goods on the counter—thinks I, that man has an ax to grind."

Benjamin Franklin entered the printing business soon after his arrival in Philadelphia and on Oct. 2, 1729, issued his first number of the "Pennsylvania Gazette." As every printer in the colonies published an almanac, Franklin issued his first number in 1732, under the name of Richard Saunders. "Poor Richard," as the people called the almanac, contained, besides the usual information found in such publications, a collection of maxims in quaint and simple language.

An extract from one of the pages of this almanac runs as follows:

"Richard says, 'Tis foolish to lay out Money in a Purchase of Repentance; and yet this Folly is practiced every Day at Vendues for want of minding the Almanac. Men, as Poor Dick says, learn by others' Harms, Fools scarcely by their own; but Felix quem faciunt aliena Pericula cautum. Silks and Satins, Scarlet and Velvets, as Poor Richard says, put out the Kitchen Fire."

It was in this style, and in this way on the pages of his almanac, Poor Richard gave to the world the hundreds of maxims which are now almost universally quoted.

EVANS' BILL WINS SENATE VICTORY

Chicago Water Supply May Be Saved from Pollution by Dredging.

REFUSE MUST GO FAR OUT.

Health Commissioner Says Impure Food Has Killed 2,000 Children.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—Health Commissioner Evans' bill for the protection of Chicago's water supply passed the senate today and is expected to become a law within the next week. The legislation will prohibit the pollution of the lake water between the shore and the municipal water intakes.

The senate committee on commerce tacked on an amendment, at the instance of the war department, which is not to the liking of the Chicago authorities, but the probability is that it will be removed in conference between the two houses and that the law will go on the books in the shape desired by Dr. Evans. This amendment provides that the city shall pay the additional cost of carrying dredgings eight miles out in the lake, as provided by the bill, and shall furnish the bulkheads for the deposit of refuse along the shore.

Wants City to Bear Expense.

Chief Engineer Marshall of the war department has refused hitherto to cease dumping dredgings in the lake between the shore and the water cribs, on the basis that it would cost too much to carry the material farther out. Now he wants the additional expense of protecting the water supply paid by the city. Senator Cullom has announced, however, that he will make a strong effort to have the amendment eliminated in conference and there is good prospect of his success.

With the war department's dumping of river and harbor dredgings in the vicinity of the cribs stopped, the only contamination of the water supply remaining will be the sewage from the Calumet river. This situation can be remedied only by the reversal of the Calumet current and the connection of the stream with an auxiliary drainage canal.

Says Poor Food Kills Babies.

Dr. Evans also appeared before the senate committee on manufacturers to discuss the Lodge cold storage bill. The Chicago health commissioner made the startling statement that out of the deaths of 6,300 children it had been proved that bad foods were responsible for 2,000 fatalities.

Adequate inspection of foods going in and coming out of refrigeration and a limitation of not more than one year on the period of artificial preservation will solve the problems of cold storage, in the opinion of Dr. Evans.

The commissioner doubted the feasibility of marking each egg, chicken, or other cold storage food article with the date of its initial refrigeration, although he admitted that some genius might devise a successful method of accomplishing this.

Urges Thorough Inspections.

"The most efficient plan of control will be found in a thorough inspection by the government authorities when the foods are placed in cold storage and when they are taken out," he said. "They should be examined when they come in, to determine whether they are sound and fit for a long period of storage. They should be examined when taken out to determine whether they have deteriorated in storage.

START BOAT SERVICE TODAY FROM MONTREAL TO CHICAGO.

First All Water Line to Be Operated in 7 or 8 Years Inaugurated by Arrival Here of the City of Montreal.

New freight and passenger service entirely by boat between Montreal and Chicago will be inaugurated today by the Merchants' Montreal Line with the arrival of the City of Montreal from the Canadian city.

This is the first time for seven or eight years that any all water service has been operated from the St. Lawrence river to the great lakes via the Welland canal. Several years ago the experiment failed on account of the high insurance rates, but an arrangement has been made by which shippers are not required to insure their freight and it is proposed to operate three boats on a regular schedule for both freight and passengers throughout the season.

The Merchants' Montreal line heretofore has operated by boat only as far as Toledo, transferring to a rail line for Chicago. The new arrangement will effect a large saving both in the cost of transportation and handling. The City of Montreal has a cargo composed principally of ale, stout, gin, and whiskies.

Navy Leviathan, Largest of All, Is Launched at New York.

Daughter of Former Governor Breaks Wine Over Bow of Boat.

New York, May 12.—Flying the white-starred ensign of the United States navy at its stem, the stars and stripes at the stern, and a string of gay signal pennants along the 520 feet of its deckline, the battleship Florida, the biggest of the American Dreadnoughts built thus far, was successfully launched at the Brooklyn navy yard today in the presence of the vice president of the United States, the secretary of the navy, the naval attachés of all the powers and a crowd of 50,000.

The 21,825 ton fighting leviathan, built to carry the thunder of ten 12 inch guns—the concentrated big gun fire of five ordinary battleships—glided down the ways to the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Salute of Twenty-one Guns.

Its lesser sister ships, moored or anchored in the navy yard, the Rhode Island, Nebraska, Connecticut, Yankton, and Hancock, dipped their colors and fired a salute of twenty-one guns as the monster fighting machine reached the waters.

The christening party was headed by Miss Elizabeth Fleming, daughter of a former governor of Florida and sponsor for the big battleship.

Destroyer Sterrett Is Launched.

Quincy, Mass., May 12.—The Sterrett, named after the sea fighter, Commodore Andrew Sterrett, was launched here today. Miss Dorothy Gittings christened the vessel.

MULHALL'S WILD WEST SHOW TO ENTERTAIN CITY'S ORPHANS

Several Thousand Children, from Score of Institutions, to Witness Performance at Coliseum Today.

Orphan children numbering several thousand, from more than a score of institutions, will be guests this afternoon of Col. Zach Mulhall at Mulhall's wild west show at the Coliseum. Invitations have been sent by Col. Mulhall to the children in every institution in the city that cares for orphans.

The program prepared for the children includes races, lariat throwing and roping, and realistic reproductions of battles famous in the annals of the west. Miss Lucille Mulhall will give exhibitions, and the broncho riding event will be by Charley Mulhall.

The holdup of the Deadwood coach, the Mountain Meadow massacre, and a Mexican bull fight are among the other features. The Daily News band will furnish the music. President John M. Roach of the Chicago Railways company has arranged for special free cars for the orphans.

LETTER ADMITS SHIFTING DATES

Wickersham Missive Is Introduced by Ballinger at Pinchot Inquiry.

GIVEN AS EXPLANATION.

Another Demand Is Made on the Attorney General for Memoranda.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—The surprise of the day in the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry was the reading by Secretary Ballinger of a letter addressed by Attorney General Wickersham to a house committee in which he made the admission that he antedated the summary of the Glavis charges which he prepared for the president.

Mr. Wickersham says he had discussed the matter with the president and had supplied him with a mass of information bearing on the subject, but that the summary "necessarily was made up afterward and properly bore the date upon which the matter it contained was presented to and considered by the president."

Oscar Lawler Involved.

Coincident with the making public of this letter a reply was received from Oscar Lawler, assistant to the attorney general for the interior department, who also was concerned in the preparation of the letter of Sept. 13, 1909, exonerating Ballinger and dismissing Glavis, stating that he had kept no copy of his memorandum. Mr. Lawler says he prepared a résumé at the request of the president and delivered it to the attorney general.

In compliance with a renewed request by Attorney Brandeis, counsel for Glavis, the committee again called on the attorney general for this memorandum today.

Glavis' counsel is trying to prove to the committee and to the public that Lawler, who was practically an employé of the interior department, really "tried" the case for the president and that the attorney general subsequent to the promulgation of the "verdict" prepared a summary in an effort to justify the president's action.

Questioned About Charges.

Mr. Pepper questioned the secretary about his statement on direct examination that he had the Menominee Indian reservation in Wisconsin investigated and that the reports were that there had been a reckless and almost wanton waste of money—$731,000—in connection with logging and milling operations during the time it was in charge of the forest service.

The lawyer brought out the fact the report contained a great deal of irrelevant matter and also secured an admission from the witness that he was not able to vouch for its accuracy.

The Perkins "black tent" affair was broached. E. T. Perkins, purchasing agent at Chicago for the reclamation service, was charged by Director Newell and Chief Engineer Davis of the service with improper conduct in accepting a salary of $500 a month from the Harriman railways while he was drawing a salary from the government. Newell testified he suggested to Perkins that he resign and that Ballinger rebuked him and afterwards promoted Perkins.

"Did you give Mr. Perkins authority to accept this money?" Mr. Ballinger was asked.

"No; he never had any such authority from me," replied the witness.

POLES CRITICISE TAFT FOR FAILURE TO GO TO BANQUET.

Delegates to Washington Meeting Say President Slighted Them When He Did Not Attend Dinner.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—President Taft is being criticised by some of the Poles because he did not attend their banquet last night. Speaker Cannon, one or two senators and several representatives were there, but some of the Poles think the president's absence was a slight.

S. A. Dangel, of Chicago, president of the Press committee of the convention, prepared a statement in which he recites the deeds of Pulaski and Kosciusko, and declares that the Poles are American citizens and gallant patriots.

"The president attends often the dinners of much smaller organizations, and we had every reason to hope that this honor would not be denied to us," says the statement. "The Poles in America feel deeply aggrieved that the chief of the country of which they are loyal and devoted citizens, did not find it possible to honor them by his presence."

NEW PETITION FOR WALSH.

Former Banker's Attorney Authorized to Formulate Properly Prepared Plea for Pardon.

Washington, D. C., May 12.—A petition for the pardon of John R. Walsh, now serving a term in the Leavenworth penitentiary for violation of the national banking laws, soon will be forwarded to the department of justice.

Word from Mr. Walsh's attorney at Chicago was received at the department today saying he had been authorized to formulate a properly prepared petition to be sent to Washington in a short time.

Numerous petitions for clemency to the convicted man have reached Washington, but, applying a rule recently adopted at the attorney general's office, the pardon attorney addressed a letter to Mr. Walsh asking him whether they had his approval.

NOTES FROM NATIONAL CAPITAL.

The senate has agreed to begin voting today on amendments to the long and short haul provision of the railroad bill and to conclude before the end of the legislative day.

The house has passed a resolution calling upon the attorney general for all facts in his possession relating to his investigation of an alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust act on the part of men carrying on stock operations for the purpose of advancing the price of cotton.

Sereno E. Payne, author of the tariff law which bears his name, entered into a defense of that measure in the house. He declared that the Republican party's pledge to revise the tariff downward had been fulfilled.

Galvanic Makes Time For Other Things

Why spend a whole day in the laundry when Galvanic, the Famous White Laundry Soap, will cut your wash-day in half?

Why spend wash-day in nerve racking, vitality-sapping toil at the washboard when, if you use Galvanic it's the soap, not the woman, that does the work.

Galvanic makes your clothes spotless, white-clean in half the time and with less than half the labor that common yellow soap takes to make them yellow-clean. And it goes twice as far.

Galvanic can be used in dozens of ways around the house.

Fragile cut-glass, delicate lace curtains, carpets, furniture—all are cleaned easily and thoroughly with Galvanic. I have prepared a little booklet about these household uses which I shall be glad to send you free.

In 1,000,000 homes Galvanic is a household word.

It is the best soap I can make after 36 years in the business. I use the very best materials and methods of manufacture.

Yet it costs no more than ordinary soap.

COMMERCE BOARD CRITICIZES COURT

Interstate Commission Refuses to Recognize Decision of Judge Sanborn.

ISSUE ON PEAVEY CASE.

Question Now Must Go Before Highest Tribunal in the United States.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 12.—[Special.]—The interstate commerce commission refuses to recognize the recent decision of Judge Sanborn of the Circuit Court of Appeals in permitting railroads to pay elevation charges for the handling of grain at Missouri river elevators.

The commission made public an opinion today in which the Circuit court was handled without gloves. The board declines to recognize the right of the courts to overrule its findings of fact in cases which it has thoroughly investigated and on which it has rendered decisions.

Unless the United States Supreme court sustains Judge Sanborn's decision in which the commission's ruling in the Peavey grain cases was upset the commission will continue to act as if its own decision was final.

Commissioner Lane Explains.

"While we recognize that upon questions of law this commission must and should yield to the courts," said Commissioner Lane in the decision handed down today, "we also understand from repeated decisions of the Supreme court that the courts are not competent to determine questions of fact within the jurisdiction of this commission as against the commission."

The recent decision in the Peavey cases is dissected by the commerce commission in a fashion not at all complimentary to the "learned court." It is alleged that the court did not grasp the significance of the commission's ruling in the grain elevation cases and has decided the case against the commission without going to the root of the question.

The present difference between the commission and the Circuit court involves the entire structure of grain rates built upon the Missouri river rates. The commission found the allowance of ¾ cent on 100 pounds which the Union Pacific and other roads allowed the Peavey grain firm and other elevator companies was nothing more than a rebate from the established grain rate.

Ordered Charges Discontinued.

On this basis they ordered all elevation charges at the Missouri river discontinued. That order has been restrained in the courts, and the grain firm has now won a fight to prevent the Union Pacific railroad from obeying the commission's instructions.

Until the case is passed upon by the Supreme court, however, the commission will adhere to its ruling that the elevator charges amount to a rebate, and will decide all cases that way.

It is stated by officials of the commission that the decision of the Circuit court, if sustained, will cost the western railroads about $10,000,000 in freight revenues, as it will force them to pay an elevation rebate on practically all grain passing to Chicago through the Missouri river territory.

The opinion given today is in the case of H. Gund & Co., a Nebraska firm, which alleges its rivals receive an elevation allowance of 1¼ cents on 100 pounds, and that it should have the same allowance on shipments, even though they do not pass through elevators.

DOUBLE TRACKS PLANNED.

Elevation in Chicago from Wentworth Avenue Provided For.

Expenditures aggregating $32,000,000 for equipment, construction of new lines and extensions, and miscellaneous improvements are included in the budget of the Burlington railroad for the next twelve months. Ten millions of this sume will be used to pay for new cars and locomotives. Ten millions more will be required to pay for new construction.

Car orders to be placed include 1,000 steel gondolas, 2,000 box cars, 50 coaches, 500 automobile cars, 500 ballast cars, 25 baggage cars, 10 baggage and mail cars, and 10 chair cars. The power equipment is to be increased by the purchase of 77 locomotives.

Big Extension in Wyoming.

The most important item of new construction is the line from Kirby to Powder River, Wyo., 104 miles, which will cost between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. A line from Scribner to Laurel, Mont., fifty-three miles, will connect with the Northern Pacific. Another new line from Greeley to Hudson, Colo., is a part of an extension from Denver to Cheyenne by which the Burlington will use its own tracks instead of those of the Union Pacific.

In Illinois the main road is to be extended from Herrin south to Metropolis on the Ohio river, a distance of thirty-eight miles, where a southern connection will be obtained with the Louisville and Nashville.

Double Tracking in Illinois.

Double tracking of seventy-five miles in Illinois will cost about $1,700,000 and will comprise the lines from Savanna to Galena Junction, Salida to Bushnell, East Dubuque to Rutledge, Grand Crossing to Lytle, and the Geneva cutoff.

Track elevation in Chicago planned for this year will cost $732,000, extending from Wentworth avenue west to the Pan Handle crossing and thence south to Twenty-sixth street.

The Belt railway, controlled by the Chicago and Western Indiana, has filed tariffs, effective on June 16, increasing its rates for switching service around Chicago by 25 per cent. The rate for loaded cars will be increased from $2 a car to $2.50, and the rate on empties from $1 to $1.25. Increases in operating expenses and in wages to employés are given as the reason for the advance.

WILSON SPEAKS FOR BOND ISSUES

Controller Appears Before Realty Brokers as Member and City Official.

EXPLAINS PROPOSITIONS.

Orders Self to Furnish Needed Data to the Chicago Real Estate Board.

Walter H. Wilson, city controller, escaped yesterday from the task of readjusting the city's auditing and accounting system long enough to appear before the Chicago real estate board in the dual capacity of a municipal official and a member of the board.

As a part of the city government he argued before the real estate brokers the necessity of their supporting the proposed municipal bond issues. As a member of the board he had passed a motion calling upon himself as city controller to furnish the organization with a detailed statement of the permanent improvements made by the city during the last three years.

Tells About Bond Issues.

For more than an hour Mr. Wilson had been answering questions from those doubtful about the advisability of the bond issues, and when he made the statement that the city had spent $17,128,000 on permanent improvements since 1907 Frank G. Hoyne asked him to detail the expenditures. His reply was a motion to have himself, in his official capacity, prepare the list for the board.

Mr. Wilson's position on the question of the bond issue was that it was simply a question "whether Chicago shall go ahead or stand still." He explained that there would be no doubt that the different purposes for which the $12,000,000 issue was proposed would be separated on the ballot so that each question could be voted on by itself.

City Hall and New Bridges.

He declared that at least the provision for paying $1,500,000 on the new city hall and defraying the cost of bridges to supplant those condemned by the federal government must be supported.

In connection with his revision of the auditing and accounting systems in the city hall, authorized by Mayor Busse and his department heads three weeks ago, Mr. Wilson announced that the pay roll and voucher machinery of four departments—fire, police, health, and electricity—would be shifted to his office June 1.

Enact Tragic Scene in Court.

Incidents said to have preceded the killing of William Krippes were enacted in Judge Tuthill's court yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Edward S. Day and William Kretschman, on trial for murder. Kretschman said he stabbed Krippes after the latter had attacked and choked him. The prosecutor sought to show Kretschman could not have struck back if held as he had testified.

READY FOR OLEO INQUIRY

Federal Attorney Will Present Evidence to Jury Tuesday.

MOXLEY'S NAME IN CASE.

Action Ordered by Judge Landis Following "Moonshiners'" Trials.

United States District Attorney Sims on next Tuesday will lay before the federal grand jury evidence he has obtained during a two months' investigation into the suspected conspiracy between the oleomargarine firm of which Congressman William J. Moxley is the head and other manufacturers with the "moonshiners" to foist bogus butter upon the public.

Several of the "moonshiners" were convicted two months ago of selling colored oleomargarine without having paid the government tax of 10 cents a pound. Judge Landis then instructed the district attorney to investigate the circumstances under which the uncolored oleomargarine was sold to retailers, how the coloring matter was given to them by the Moxley concern, and how a Moxley representative instructed them in the method of using it.

Follows Conviction of Dealer.

Judge Landis' action resulted from testimony given by William Bortz, one of the convicted men who is serving a term in the house of correction.

There was speculation around the federal building over a visit which Senator Lorimer paid to Judge Landis on Wednesday, when the two were in the judicial chambers together. Rumors were rife that the senator had gone there to see what could be done for his friend Moxley. Judge Landis, when asked about the conference, said:

"Certainly Senator Lorimer called on me. I was eating my luncheon, and my wife was with me, so of course there was no mention of butterine."

W. J. Moxley Brought In.

Another thing which aroused Judge Landis' suspicions and made him determined to get at the bottom of the case was testimony to the effect that Congressman Moxley had indemnified one of his employés to the extent of $50,000 so that this employé could sign the bonds of "moonshiners" who were arrested by federal agents.

It was shown that nearly always when these men were arrested they had their bonds signed by this Moxley employé.

Municipal Judge Scovel yesterday fined eleven butter and egg store proprietors for selling oleomargarine on the representation that it was creamery butter.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. PHIPPS BUYS BIG PROPERTY IN LOOP

Pays $800,000 for Southwest Corner of Franklin and Monroe Streets.

TO ERECT NEW BUILDING.

Another New York Man Purchases High Class Apartments on South Side.

One of the most notable real estate deals in recent years has been closed in the purchase by Henry Phipps of New York through Samuel L. Strauss of the property at the southwest corner of Franklin and Monroe streets, 198 feet on the former and 170 on the latter, for $800,000.

The transaction is noteworthy, not only because of the prominence of Mr. Phipps and the fact that it marks the reintroduction of New York capital into the down town real estate market after an absence of many years, but also because of the announcement that upon the expiration of existing leases, having a few years to run, Mr. Phipps will remove the present buildings and improve with a high grade, modern, fireproof building, probably twenty or twenty-two stories high, at an estimated cost of approximately $3,000,000.

The price at which the property was acquired is in the neighborhood of $25 a square foot and is said to be showing a fair return on the investment.

Purchase Tribute to Chicago.

The location of the property, however, and the combining of the various ownerships including of the Hovey estate, Oberlin college, and Cornelia F. Wooley holdings, into one, will, it is thought, give Mr. Phipps a good return on probably twice the present value when he has made his proposed improvements.

The property is in the heart of the wholesale district and admirably adapted for modern building purposes. It is across the street from the new twelve story Hart, Schaffner & Marx building, while diagonally to the northwest is the big establishment of Stein, Schwab & Co. The wholesale houses of Marshall Field & Co., Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., and J. V. Farwell & Co. are nearby.

Mr. Phipps, who formerly was a business associate of Andrew Carnegie, owns much valuable realty in Pittsburg and New York, and his identification with any property means its betterment. He is the owner of the New York Life building at La Salle and Monroe streets, and the present investment is a marked tribute to Chicago by a nonresident investor who has had an actual experience in Chicago real estate.

William C. Boyden of Matz, Fisher & Boyden attended to the legal details of the transaction. B. W. Eisendrath was associated with Mr. Strauss.

South Side Apartments Sold.

A big deal in south side apartment house property announced yesterday is the sale by Frederick H. Bartlett & Co. to Franklin T. Pember of New York of the New Bedford building at 806-818 Oakwood boulevard, and the Monterey, at 813-821 East Thirty-ninth street.

The consideration is withheld, but the sale was subject to an incumbrance of $115,000, while the purchaser gave in part payment a tract of 70 acres of clear land in Bellwood, west of Maywood.

The buildings contain ninety-six apartments and four stores, have a gross annual rental of about $26,000, and have been valued at [illegible]. The transaction was negotiated by [illegible] representing Bartlett & Co., through G. B. Abbott of Whiteside & Wentworth. B. A. French & Co. looked after the interests of Mr. Pember.

Exercising an option to purchase, Henry [illegible] has acquired through the Bowes Realty company from the estate of Mary L. [illegible] the property at 439 State street, being L shaped, 20x92 feet on State street and [illegible] feet on Peck court, improved with a three and a half story building for $50,000, the purchaser giving back two trust deeds of [illegible] each at 5 and 6 per cent respectively. The option was secured two years ago.

Clark & Trainer have sold to Mrs. Mae Trees Hodgkins the new fifteen room colonial residence with 60x200 feet of ground on Greenwood avenue 79 feet north of Fifty-first street for $65,000 with incumbrance of $20,000.

NARROW SESSION IN WHEAT

Offerings Light Except from Shorts and Prices Are Firm.

BETTER CASH DEMAND HERE

Large Sales of No. 1 Northern Made at Duluth to Eastern Millers.

Wheat traders are finding considerable trouble in finding out which side of the market to take hold of. Most of the local professionals are naturaly inclined to the bear side, but the fact that they make little headway in selling, even with the aid of some of the most influential houses in the trade, has discouraged them. On the other hand, wheat is inclined to flatten out every time it advances materially, as there is little new buying from the outside on the bulges. As a result the trade is of a scalping character. Yesterday was no exception. Prices backed and filled several times, finaly closing ⅝c up for September and ½c higher for the July, while May was up 1⅛c. Shorts bought the May and it advanced quickly on a few trades.

Brisk Demand on All Breaks.

The news of the day was mixed, the salient feature of the whole session being the fact that offerings were light whenever the bears stopped pounding the market. So long as the selling continued prices eased off sharply, but there was a quick rebound as soon as the pressure was taken off. Buying was headed by Bartlett-Patten, Shearson-Hammill, Ware-Leland, Lake, Kenneth-Miller, and Logan were on the buying side early. Peavey bought quite a little September and there was a moderate demand from houses with northwestern connections. Bloom, Barrett, O'Brien, Kidston, and Armour were the leading sellers. The individual trade in May was without much feature. Offerings were light and wherever there was the slightest demand the market acted strong.

Millers Are After Cash Wheat.

Reports of large sales of Duluth No. 1 northern to go to eastern milling plants was a big card in favor of the bulls and stimulated a fair milling demand in winter wheat markets. It was reported that Waterman had sold 350,000 bu Duluth No. 1 northern and also wheat now at Buffalo and New York to millers. While the amounts were not confirmed it was admitted there had been large sales at satisfactory prices. St. Louis reports indicated that prices were being maintained firmly relative to the futures, and the local dealers reported a much better inquiry for all kinds of cash wheat. Several of the local dealers believe there will be a much more urgent demand than at present before many weeks. The flour demand is picking up to some extent, but there is no great activity so far. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 675,000 bu for five days. Primary receipts were 287,000 bu compared to 39,000 bu a year ago. Receipts here were 18 cars with 26 cars expected today.

Frosts were general in the northwest and low temperatures were predicted for this morning. In some places in North Dakota and Minnesota as well as on the other side of the line temperatures were low, but while there were some claims of damage the trade was not much alarmed.

Corn Planting Is Backward.

The possibility of the necessity for replanting a large part of the corn area as the result of the cold weather has entered into the corn situation as a factor. Prices were strong during the greater part of the session and final quotations were ¼@½c up. Bartlett-Patten led the buying early and there was also quite a little buying by Knight-McDougal and Armour. Selling was scattered. The cash demand was moderate, with sales of 160,000 bu, with prices in the sample crowd steady to ½c better. The eastern demand does not show much improvement, but receipts are still light. Receipts here were 61 cars, with 62 cars estimated for today. More seasonable weather is needed for corn. Primary receipts were 229,000 bu, against 249,000 bu a year ago.

Local Traders Buy Oats.

Local buying of oats was supplemented by considerable commission house purchases, but the profit taking on the swell was enough to check the advance temporarily. Bartlett-Patten were good buyers of oats, while Arnot was also a fair buyer. Rankin sold quite a few early, taking profits on his long line. Primary receipts were 405,000 bu, against 310,000 bu a year ago. Receipts here were 124 cars, with 143 cars promised for today. The cash demand was fairly active and prices were steady. Sales for shipment were 200,000 bu. Crop reports were mixed, but the extremely cold weather in the northwest and damage reports from sections of this state and Illinois continued to induce some buying. Final prices were ⅛c up.

Easy Tone in Hog Products.

Provisions were easy. Offerings were quite free at the start, and the market would not take any heavy selling, nor on the other hand was it possible to buy any material quantities without boosting values. Trade was narrow and without much feature. Gregson was a fair buyer of ribs, and Hately bought lard and sold ribs. Schultz was a seller of lard. Hog receipts in the west were 4,000 more than a year ago, showing an excess over those of a year ago for the first time in several weeks. Receipts here were 16,500, with 15,000 expected today. The market at the yards was steady early, but eased off later. Receipts of product here were 12 cars, with shipments of 98 cars. Hams were 1s higher at Liverpool; bacon was unchanged to 6d higher, and lard was 3d up.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON CHANGE.

Not all the Duluth wheat will come to Chicago to apply on May contracts. Duluth yesterday reported the sale of 350,000 bu No. 1 northern to Washburn-Crosby and other millers to go to Buffalo and the east. It was also authoritatively stated that fair amounts of wheat at Buffalo and also at New York had been sold to millers. This would indicate that the mills are taking the Waterman wheat at satisfactory prices. The sales of this wheat in the northwest and in the east gave a stronger tone to the cash market locally and there was a much better inquiry. Mills in all directions, it was stated by several of the leading cash brokers, were taking decidedly more interest in the cash market, and there were fair sales consummated. In the St. Louis market prices were quoted steady, with No. 2 red selling at $1.21@1.23. St. Louis messages said that it was probably true that millers were not anxious to take the elevator wheat at lower prices, but that for choice wheat in car lots there was an excellent demand. Minneapolis wired there was a good demand there.

Closing prices of wheat in foreign markets: Liverpool, spot, unchanged to ½d lower; futures, unchanged to ⅜d higher; Paris, ¼@½c higher; Antwerp, unchanged; Berlin, 1¼c lower; Budapest, unchanged.

Missouri reports to Ware-Leland said the wheat crop was much below an average. Oats were reported in fairly good shape, with a 25 per cent increase in acreage. One report from Slater, Mo., said that hogs were the scarcest ever known. Not more than 10 per cent of the normal number of fat hogs and 50 per cent of pigs.

Receipts of wheat at Winnipeg were 108 cars, compared with 263 cars a week ago, and 50 cars the corresponding day a year ago.

Bartlett-Patten continue to buy the May corn and while there are some traders who believe they have not covered all the short corn for their own account or for their customers they are doing so as fast as they can. If the house is not already over on the long side, it would appear that the quantity they were short two months ago was larger than any one supposed, as they have been pretty consistent buyers for several weeks. James A. Patten practically covered his shorts two or three weeks ago, and now has but a small interest in the market, but it was supposed that G. W. Patten and other large local traders were still short.

E. S. Skillen, the wheat trader, has made a careful study of the government reports for a number of years and finds that the average loss on condition of winter wheat from May to June for a series of ten years has been 5⅓ points. This would indicate a bullish report in June. On the basis of the government report, estimates that the wheat crop at harvest should be about 385,000,000 bu to be in line with average conditions for ten years.

Chicago Horse Market.

Horse market had a weak undertone and offerings moved slowly at reduced prices for all but fancy, heavy grades. The latter were wanted by outside shippers, who bid steady figures for all desirable offerings, but could not be induced to show any interest in the plain and medium classes. Demand on local account was disappointing and holders of horses not good enough to attract outside buyers could find no reliable outlet for their stock. Sales of drafters ranged from $170.00 to $275.00, with more at $200.000 and lower than at higher prices, as the quality of the general arrivals was common. The opening of the driving season brought out a few orders for fancy drivers and saddlers, but business in this branch of the trade was restricted by the inferior quality of the offerings. Receipts for the week thus far were 1,355 head, against 1,590 a week ago, and 1,459 a year ago.

INVESTMENTS OF ASSETS!

Figures Given Affect Four Biggest Companies Doing Business.

New York, May 12.—[Special.]—That the four great express companies get net returns of from 43 to 115 per cent or more on the capital employed in actual express operation was stated in a report issued today by the Merchants' Association of New York.

The report, prepared by Frederick B. De Berard, deals in detail with the resources and operations of the Adams, American, United States, and Wells-Fargo companies.

The conclusion is reached that the greater part of the assets of express companies are devoted to investment and that the capital actually employed in the express business is but little more than the value of the equipment plus a moderate working fund. Some idea of the operations of express companies may be gained from the following figures:

	Total assets.	Assets in express.	Net income all sources.
Adams	$20,455,587	$3,886,085	$2,661,243

PACKERS SELL WOOD AT MEAT PRICES, SAYS THE CITY SEALER.

Eight Firms Sued, Accused of Charging Butchers for "Lamb Stakes" by Putting Timber in the Carcasses.

Because lamb stakes are not worth the market price of lamb steaks, but nevertheless are sold by the Chicago packers to retail butchers at the same price—15 cents a pound—City Sealer John Kjellander yesterday filed suits against eight packing firms charging them with "short weight."

The city sealer plans to abolish the practice of charging for the wooden stakes used to spread the carcasses of "caul" lambs the same as he put an end to the custom among butchers of charging for the weight of wooden dishes in which they deal out lard and ground meats to customers.

The firms against whom suits were filed in the Municipal court by City Prosecutor George H. White are:

G. H. Hammond Packing company.

CHICAGO LAWYER TAKES LEAD IN U. S. BUCKET SHOP FIGHT.

H. S. Robbins Appears for Government in East—Board of Trade Awaits Protest for Stopping Ticker.

H. S. Robbins of Chicago, engaged as special assistant to the attorney general to prosecute the bucket shop cases in the east, made a preliminary argument yesterday before the United States Supreme court at Washington in one of the cases. He will join the government forces prosecuting some New York operators today.

In this connection officials of the department of justice said they had nothing to do with the discontinuance by the Chicago board of trade of the furnishing of grain quotations to the Consolidated stock exchange in New York, unless the action was prompted by the "good example" of the prosecutions in the east.

Officers of the Chicago board waited all day for protest from the New York exchange at the cutting off of the ticker service on Tuesday. No protest came, however, and the local board offered no further explanation. Members of the board merely called attention to the scrutiny, by the market report committee, of the records of all applicants for ticker service. Quotations have been ordered out or have been refused when suspicions of irregular methods were aroused.

RAILROAD IS EXPECTED TO GIVE DETAILS OF SWINDLE.

Revelations Looked For in Illinois Central's Answer to Car Company's Suit to Collect $25,000.

Details of the methods by which the Illinois Central is said to have been defrauded out of thousands of dollars in its bills for car repairs through collusion between officers or employés of the railroad and the car companies are expected to be made public shortly in the courts, when the railroad makes its answer to the suit brought by the Blue Island Rolling Mill and Car company to collect a bill of $25,000.

The railroad expects to show that the bill includes large overcharges and its answer will make public much of the evidence gathered by the Burns & Sheridan detective agency, which the officials of the road have refused to discuss.

President Harahan again refused to make any public statement of the attitude of the road or to discuss the probabilities of criminal action against employés or officials of the road.

GROCERS WANT WEIGHT PLAN.

National Association Favors Laws Providing That Measures Be Not Used for Bulk Goods.

Springfield, Ill., May 12.—The National Retail Grocers' association went on record today in favor of laws being passed in the various states providing that all bulk goods shall be bought and sold by weight instead of measures, and against the giving of premiums by dealers.

Another resolution adopted instructs the officers of the association to confer with the officers of the National Packers' association with a view to securing net weight on packages.

T. P. Sullivan of Chicago was reëlected president; J. W. Lux of St. Paul, vice president; J. A. Green of Cleveland, secretary, and H. W. Schwab, Milwaukee, treasurer.

Overstudy Kills College Boy.

Akron, Ohio, May 12.—Nervous exhaustion caused by overstudy is given as the cause of death today of Harold L. Clark, a graduate of Oberlin college, at the home of his grandparents at Cuyahoga Falls. After leaving Oberlin, Clark went to Chicago to complete his law course and while there suffered a breakdown.

LOWER DISCOUNT RATE NEAR?

Bank of England Expected to Take Action Soon.

STOCKS WITHOUT FEATURE.

Market Quiet and Heavy; Sharp Advance in Pennsylvania.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, May 12.—[Special.]—Although the Bank of England made no change today in its discount rate, a move which has been expected in London financial circles, the institution reported a percentage of reserve to liabilities much above anything attained by it at this season of the year since 1896.

The actual figure is 54.44 per cent, representing an increase of two points over last week's proportion and of nearly ten and one-half points since the first gold engagements in the recent export movement were made early in April. Therefore, unless the directors are preparing for some decidedly untoward eventuality not generally recognized, a lowering of discount can not be much longer postponed.

Turn in Gold Tide Not Expected Soon.

It is possible, of course, the abrupt swing of the foreign exchange market toward lower levels, the decline in demand sterling having amounted to no less than 170 points from the high quotation of the export movement, has had something to do with the bank's policy, but with foreign trade still running against us as today's much reduced April exports of domestic products proves, and with every prospect of easy money here for several months at least, it is hardly possible the directors of the English bank apprehend an early outflow of gold to America as a result of our sales of securities abroad. Such a movement may set in later in the year in the event of higher money markets here, but it is not too easy for such capital as we now have at our disposal to find employment entirely to its liking.

There was little in the day's stock market to call for comment. The declaration of a dividend at the rate of 5 per cent upon Brooklyn Rapid Transit fell flat so far as that stock was concerned and, outside of the sharp and unexplained advance in Pennsylvania shares, the trading was without feature. Opinion on the stock exchange seemed to be that the Pennsylvania already is discounting the benefits to be derived from the actual operation of the improvements already under way in this city and vicinity, while an alternative suggestion was that of pending financing. This, however, was entirely lacking confirmation.

Market Quiet and Heavy.

The market ruled quiet and heavy through most of the day, an early factor in its course having been the entirely unfounded report of Taft's illness, but gathered some strength in the late trading and closed little changed from Wednesday night's level.

Money on call steady, 3¾@4 per cent; ruling rate, 3¾; closing bid, 3¾; offered at 4. Time loans soft; 60 days, 3¾@4 per cent and 90 days, 4@4¼; six months, 4@4¼. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 4½@5 per cent. Sterling exchange stronger, with actual business in bankers' bills at 483.30@483.55 for 60 day bills and at 486.65 for demand. Commercial bills, 483@483¼. Bar silver, 54. Mexican dollars, 44. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds steady.

SECRETARY OF MINERS' UNION RECEIVES THREATENING LETTER

Man Who Recently Disarmed Italian at Westville, Ill., Warned to Leave Town —Committee Tells Men to Stop Work.

Danville, Ill., May 12.—John Welch, secretary of the miners' union at Westville, and who recently disarmed an Italian after the latter had threatened to shoot John H. Walker, president of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, today received a letter, written in red ink, warning him to leave town within two days. The letter was turned over to the state's attorney.

A committee of Italian miners went to the Catlin and the Hillery mines today and ordered all the repairmen to quit work on pain of being visited by 1,000 men tomorrow.

Part of the militia now on duty will be detailed to guard the repairmen while the rest will be sent to Fairmount, where striking quarrymen threaten trouble, if an attempt is made to resume work.

MANY WILL USE NEW PHONES

Tunnel Expects 10,000 Contracts by June.

BOND MARKET IMPROVES?

Increased Inquiry Reported Here and in New York.

According to an interest in the Illinois Tunnel company contracts for the installation of automatic telephones are being taken at a rate which will mean 10,000 subscribers by the first of June. The company has until next year to install 20,000 phones. The work of installation has not yet begun, but it is expected will be by at least Aug. 1. Everything connected with the system, except the wiring, is to be new. The present switchboard will not be used and the present instruments in different offices throughout the city will be replaced by others of a new type.

The first 20,000 instruments will be installed in the business district. No effort will be made to place residence phones until after next year.

Estimated Earnings Large.

According to estimates being made by those connected with the Illinois Tunnel company, the earnings of 20,000 automatic instruments will be equal to at least 5 per cent per annum on $20,000,000 bonds. The company, by the terms of its ordinance, can furnish unlimited service only. For phones in the business district it may charge a maximum of $84.00 a year. Residence phones may be charged for at not to exceed $50.00 a year. It is from the $84.00 a year telephones, therefore, that the company expects to make its large earnings.

It is obligated to pay 3 per cent of the gross receipts to the city. This on 20,000 phones at $84.00 a year will be $50,400. Depreciation charges and taxes are expected to be less than $200,000. The gross income on 20,000 phones will be $1,680,000. After all charges the company expects to have net income of $1,000,000 a year on the first 20,000 instruments. This works out as follows:

Gross income, 20,000 phones at $84	$1,680,000
Operating expenses (25 per cent of gross)	420,000
Net from operation	$1,260,000
City's share gross 3 per cent	50,400
Balance	$1,209,600
Taxes and depreciation (approximate)	209,600
Net income	$1,000,000

Being equal to 5 per cent on $20,000,000 bonds.

Change in Bond Market.

Local bond dealers and banks believe they see a slight improvement in the bond market. One of the largest houses reports increased inquiries. Sales do not show much change as yet. There is, however, belief that the corner has been turned and improvement in bond sales on the New York exchange adds to this belief.

The uncertainty in the business situation and high money rates led to a dull bond market. The banks ceased to be factors in the buying and investors were inclined to look for lower prices, and lower prices have prevailed. Now with the prospect of easier money the outlook for the bond market improves accordingly.

Rock Island-Wabash Gossip.

Revival of activity in the Wabash issues has caused a renewal of the reports that the Moore-Reid interests are buying on a large scale. Assertion is made that these interests, together with those of Dr. Pearson and his associates in London and Canada, have acquired enough Wabash stock to enable them to carry out whatever plans they may have for using the Wabash lines as a connecting link between the Rock Island and the Lehigh Valley.

To Raise Chesapeake Dividend.

An important interest in the Chesapeake and Ohio says it is practically certain that at the meeting of the directors next week the stock will be placed on a 5 per cent dividend basis. It is said a decision to increase the dividend was reached some time ago.

General Financial News.

W. L. Brown, chairman of the board of directors of the American Shipbuilding company, says business is good and the outlook excellent, but he will not undertake to forecast the action of the board at the meeting in July, when the common stock dividend will be declared.

It is reported in Wall street that negotiations in Paris for the sale of $30,000,000 of bonds of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul are progressing favorably.

An officer of the American Can company says advance orders for packers' cans have fallen short of previous years. In all other departments sales are running ahead of last year.

Chicago Securities.

Chicago Telephone dropped from 119 to 115½ on small transactions yesterday. The report that the company is paying unearned dividends probably affected the sellers. No large blocks have come on the market.

The general list was steady to firm.

F. A. HEINZE IS FREED BY JURY

U. S. Fails to Convict Banker of Misapplication of Funds.

HE MAKES A STATEMENT.

Says He Is Not Surprised and Only Regrets Delay in Trial.

New York, May 12.—F. Augustus Heinze was acquitted in New York tonight of charges of misapplying the funds of the Mercantile National bank while he was president of the institution in 1907. He also was cleared of the charge of overcertifying the checks of his brother's firm, Otto Heinze & Co. A jury in the criminal branch of the United States Circuit court, after a trial lasting nearly three weeks, found him not guilty at 9:50 o'clock and he was discharged.

Thus failed ingloriously the federal government's attempt to hold Heinze responsible for financiering during the panic of three years ago, alleged to be in violation of the national banking laws.

Fares Better than Morse.

Charles W. Morse got fifteen years for "bank wrecking," but Heinze's transactions were held legal, notwithstanding the prosecution's vigorous attempt to prove him a gambler with millions not his own.

Heinze, jubilant, issued this statement tonight, after his acquittal:

"I am naturally pleased with the verdict, but not at all surprised. The thing I most regret is the long delay in bringing the case to trial. I have been ready for trial every day since the first indictment was returned two years and a half ago. This delay has cost me between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

"Possibly some persons who were anxious to see me convicted will be almost as well satisfied with this as if I had been found guilty, for the ruination of my credit seems to have been one of the objects most viciously aimed at.

Regrets Friends' "Temporary Loss."

"I appreciate the loyalty of my friends who have stuck to me through it all, and regret exceedingly the temporary loss which they have suffered in the depreciation in the price of the securities in which I have been interested."

Arthur P. Heinze, a brother of the defendant, called Mr. Wise a liar in court this afternoon, thereby furnishing the only real spectacular incident of the trial. For his remark he was promptly ejected from the courtroom, his tense white face showing his anger and emotion. His wife, who also had been an interested auditor, followed him.

FRENCH PLAN U.S. INVESTMENTS

Probably $100,000,000 Will Be Turned Into American Railway Securities Before the Summer Is Over.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, May 12.—Numerous important emissions of American railroad bonds are in course of preparation here and several issues will be launched in a few days. The following issues are ready:

Ten million dollars of Cleveland and Cincinnati, issued by the Comptoir National d'Escompt, Société Generale, and Morgan Hartjes & Co.; $10,000,000 St. Louis and San Francisco 4½ per cent bonds by the Banque Union Parisienne and Credit Mobilier; $50,000,000 Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, by the Consortium des Grands Etablissements de Credit. New York Central bonds also are being prepared.

Many special certificates are being created to meet the requirements of French investors and they probably will be of the value of $5 each. It may be expected that before summer between $80,000,000 and $100,000,000 will be withdrawn from French savings banks and invested in American securities. The operations are much commented upon. The outlook is good.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, May 12.—Money firmer and in better demand. Discounts hardened on the announcement of no change in the Bank of England's rate. The stock market opened steady with a good business at hardening prices. Although the absence of any reduction in the bank rate caused some disappointment as well as the moderate decline in consols, the satisfactory conclusion of the settlement helped the general tone of the market and at the close foreign bonds, oil shares, and Grand Trunks showed the most improvement. The market for American securities opened slightly higher, but sagged on lack of support. Wall street sent light selling orders and prices eased off, but the market later hardened and finished steady but quiet.

FOR SALE—
COLORADO FRUIT LANDS.
XXVI.
Here I am in Chicago all ready to talk fruit lands. Better see me at once. The man that acts promptly always fares the best. I would not exchange places with any millionaire in Chicago. He is a slave, while I am following a life of freedom. I do not know of any pleasure that equals the pleasure of seeing things grow. And with all this pleasure is the comfort of an income. Instead of grubbing out your money in one channel and spending it for imagined luxury in another you have in my proposition a happy blending of utility, income, comfort, and surplus. Any man that will apply 25 per cent of his salary to the growing of a fruit orchard on the western slope of Colorado will have an asset in five years that will make his salary look like 30c.
Ask for my pamphlet giving the fundamental considerations governing the selection of a fruit orchard and you can exercise good judgment without going outside of your front yard.
Colorado is the land of the turquoise sky. The climate is delightful, winter and summer. I have the nicest fruit lands in Colorado and am developing a community with the greatest care. Cultured neighbors, attractive bungalows, running water, magnificent scenery, sure crops, pure food, and an income with a generous surplus. I can demonstrate the truth of every one of these statements in cold logic if you will call and see me, and the persons who have bought of me will confirm it.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands or incomes from other sources] who want large or small loans confidentially, with or without security. My location [30 minutes from loop district], and my being the president of a large wholesale vehicle establishment [Bradstreet's and other agencies show its standing], and not a professional money lender, insure a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings where most lenders congregate. Professional lenders demand high rates, usually asking as much [illegible] the average straightforward citizen realizes the exorbitant charges for any time are burdensome.
